Farm Conferees Junk Flexible Supports

Benson Sees Veto As Rigid Props Voted

Committee Agrees On Supports At 90% Of Parity This Year

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP)—A Senate-House conference committee junked the administration's flexible price support system in rewriting the farm bill today. Secretary of Agriculture Benson predicted the move will bring a presidential veto.

The conferees agreed to write into the legislation a provision to support major crops at 90 per cent of parity this election year. This would mean an additional billion dollars in 1956 benefits to the farmers.

Benson told reporters he was "disappointed" at the congressional decision and that he didn't think President Eisenhower would approve—even for one year—a return to the high, rigid price props which prevailed during World War II.

Dual Parity Plan Retained

As for the conference committee's vote to retain a "dual parity" plan in the farm bill, the secretary called it "indefensible" and "political log rolling."

Dual parity would permit farmers to use either the old parity formula or the new, whichever is higher, in computing crop support levels.

Benson said members of the National Agricultural Advisory Commission felt the same way as he did about the remodeling job being done on the farm legislation. The commission is an 18-member group of farm leaders appointed by the President to advise Benson on agricultural policies.

Eisenhower has contended supports at 90 per cent of parity would encourage farmers to grow more and thus magnify the farm surplus problem instead of solving it.

Cost Over Billion More

Today's veto prediction was the flattest statement Benson has made on the question since the Senate finished work on its version of the farm bill last week.

The Agriculture Department estimated support payments at 90 per cent of parity would cost the government between $1,000,000,000 and $1,200,000,000 more in 1956.

These figures were based on an average crop year and the assumption that the "dual parity" system of computing price levels would be retained in the legislation. This system would permit farmers to use either the old parity formula or the new—whichever is higher—in figuring price supports.

Sen. Ellender (D-La) reported the conferees also accepted the dual parity principle at today's compromise session.

Blum, Reputed Top Red, Seized

CHICAGO, March 27 (AP)— FBI agents today seized Emanuel Blum, reputed top Communist party official and underground worker for the Reds.

Blum offered no resistance and admitted his identity when he was arrested on a South Side street.

The FBI said Blum formerly was chairman of the Communist party in New England, president of the Massachusetts branch and executive secretary of the New York State Communist party.

A federal warrant for his arrest was issued at Indianapolis Friday. He was accused of violating the Smith Act—having membership in the Communist party "knowing its aim to be overthrow of the U. S. government by force and violence."

Reds Say Anti-Stalin Drive Bolsters Party

NEW DELHI, India, March 27 (AP) — A. I. Mikoyan, a Soviet Union first deputy premier, told Indian and Western newsmen today the Soviet Communist party will be strengthened by criticism of Joseph Stalin.

Mikoyan said that because too much good had been said about Stalin, the 20th Soviet Communist party Congress in Moscow last month "criticized some actions of Stalin . . . from a historical point of view and the main aim was to show what is right and wrong—and arm the party for the future."

He denied there is any unrest in Georgia, Stalin's home republic, because the dead dictator was criticized. But he acknowledged some people there perhaps "took criticism hard."

"It is natural," he explained. "It is difficult to do away with long-held ideas in a day or two. . . considering Stalin's hold, people took it well. The great mass did—some did not."

This seemingly straightforward discussion of the consequences of speeches he and party Secretary Nikita Khrushchev made at the Moscow Congress occurred at a reception at the Soviet embassy.

Mikoyan is touring Asia and is in New Delhi for talks with Prime Minister Nehru and other Indian government officials.

The exchange with newsmen—really a news conference—clearly was not accidental. Soviet correspondents carefully assembled the Indian and Western newsmen at one side. When they were all together, Mikoyan approached, leaving behind Nehru and other official guests.

Marisa Pavan Wed To French Actor

SANTA BARBARA, Calif, March 27 (AP)—Italian actress Marisa Pavan married French actor Jean Pierre Aumont today in such a romantic flurry that they forgot to bring the license.

Accompanied by a small party of family and friends from Hollywood, the bridal pair appeared at the courthouse today to apply for the license. Then they hurried to the courthouse annex to face Municipal Judge Frank P. Kearney for the wedding ceremony.

"Where's the license?" someone asked. It had been left at the license bureau, and court clerk Jack Lews hustled to get it.

The wedding took place in the judge's chambers before 14 persons. Matron of honor was the bride's twin sister, Pier Angeli, wife of singer Vic Damone. Best man was Benny Thau, MGM executive.

Army's Electronic Brain To 'Track' 200,000 Items

DETROIT, March 27 (AP) — Its "memory" at work already, the Army's giant new electronic brain, Bizmac, is nearing complete assembly.

Crews of workers are on 24-hour duty installing the intricate electronic data processing system at the Army Ordnance Tank Automotive Command.

Some time in June the machine will be put to work keeping track of Army supplies all over the world.

Its job will be to record data on the more than 200,000 items from nuts and bolts to fuel pumps and tank engines on hand at Army depots. In minutes it can give a complete inventory when supplies fall below the safety level.

Right now engineers from Radio Corp. of America, which designed the machine, are supervising skilled electricians in the installation job.

It's a project that has 16 bosses for 13 workers—16 engineers check every step as the 13 electricians wire each of Bizmac's 200 separate units together.

As each unit is put into place, its performance is tested. Then it is hooked up with connecting units and further tests are run.

In the first two months alone of the installation task, 600 miles of cables were linked. And now the main nerve center of the brain, its "memory" unit, has been put into operation.

RCA describes the complex assembly of copper wires and magnetic devices as an electronic scratch pad. It can remember information indefinitely or recall it in a split second.

A staff of 20 women clerks is at work now writing up data for tapes to be given the machine.

Senate Kills Drive To Alter Election Law

Compromise Plan Loses, Others Sent Back To Committee

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP)—The Senate tonight killed efforts to revise the constitutional system of electing presidents and vice presidents, sending all such proposals back to committee.

A voice vote returned the alternative plans to the Senate Judiciary Committee "for further study." This action was taken after the Senate voted 48-37 for a major compromise proposal — a vote far short of the two thirds majority needed for a constitutional amendment.

Sen. Daniel (D-Tex), a chief sponsor of the compromise, said it was apparent none of the measures could muster a two-thirds majority. He moved that all of them be sent back to committee, saying he did so "in order that our work shall not go for nought."

Slight Hope For Revival

But Daniel indicated to a newsman that he sees slight hope of reviving the question at this session. Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass), a leader of the opposition, said the Senate had effectively killed the proposals for this session at least.

Under the compromise, each state could have chosen between these two methods of casting its electoral votes:

1. Splitting its electoral vote in line with the popular vote given each ticket.

2. Choosing their electors as they now do their senators and representatives—that is, two by statewide vote and the rest by congressional districts.

The Senate acted after debating the issue for more than a week.

Before voting on the compromise, the Senate rejected four other proposed amendments by lopsided margins.

Opposing Arguments

All these were aimed at revising or scrapping the present system under which a state's entire electoral vote goes to the party ticket which carries the state. A state

Five States Hit By Dust Storms

DENVER, March 27 (AP)—Howling March winds kicked up choking dust storms in five states today, ripped wheat, barley and other crops from the soil, blocked at least one major highway and forced schools to close in prairie areas.

Winds of up to 40 miles an hour raked Colorado, Wyoming, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. Gusts as fierce as 80 miles an hour were clocked in some localities, including the Denver area where advertising signs and power poles were smashed to the ground.

At times residents of some towns in the dry land regions hardly could see across the street because of blinding curtains of dust.

Cliff Etter, Federal Soil Conservation Service agent at Lamar, in southeastern Colorado, commented, "This will take first place among the wind storms we have had this year."

The Colorado Highway Department closed a section of U. S. Highway 24-40 east of Limon in eastern Colorado when dust clouds cut visibility to a dangerous degree.

The dusters swirled east and south into Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. Visibility was reduced to one-eighth of a mile at Goodland, Kan., and three-fourths of a mile at Gage, Okla.

Kefauver To Enter Indiana's Primary

INDIANAPOLIS, March 27 (AP)—Two backers of Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) for president said today they have received a go-ahead to enter him in Indiana's Democratic presidential preference primary.

Andrew Jacobs, former Democratic congressman, said Kefauver's campaign chairman, F. Joseph Donohue, in a telephone call from Washington, designated him as Kefauver's official representative here.

Jacobs and Dr. O. A. Noland, who started a petition boom for Kefauver here last week, said they probably will file the petitions Thursday, the last day for filing.

North American Leaders Offer New Nations Aid

U. S., Neighbors List Differences

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va., March 27 (AP)—President Eisenhower and the leaders of Mexico and Canada today offered "any moral or economic aid" within their power to the world's newly independent nations to strengthen them against the threat of "communist totalitarianism."

This bid for closer ties primarily with neutralist nations like India and Indonesia emerged as the chief specific result of the single working session of the North American summit conference, ending here tonight.

Eisenhower, Mexican resident Adolfo Ruiz Cortines and Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent of Canada, informally reviewed world problems for two hours this morning.

U.S. Policies Outlined

Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles reported on United States world policies. They stressed the dangers of war in the Middle East and emphasized their view that changes in Soviet behavior do not mean any changes in the expansionist drive of Soviet communism.

This afternoon Eisenhower and Dulles met Ruiz Cortines and St. Laurent, together with their foreign ministers, separately for an hour each. American officials said the two-way meetings were devoted to a listing of differences between the United States and each of its neighbors.

U.S.-Canadian Issues

Informants said that in the case of Canada, five separate items were mentioned. The necessity of trying to work out an agreed solution for development of the Columbia River Basin, an impending Canadian tax on special Canadian editions of American magazines, Canadian investment in breweries in the United States, the flow of capital between the two countries and the attitude of both countries toward Communist China's membership in the United Nations.

Specific issues raised in the U.S. leaders' talk with Ruiz Cortines and Foreign Minister Luis Padilla Nervo included migration of workers across the Rio Grande, mutual expansion of civil air facilities and

Demos Scoff At Cinerama Flattop Plan

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP) — Some House Democrats scoffed today at a government proposal to send a Cinerama-equipped aircraft carrier on a global propaganda mission.

Rep. Magnuson (D-Wash) said the plan, if carried out, would give the U.S. Information Agency "its private navy." He said he was "flabbergasted" by the proposal, outlined before a House Appropriations subcommittee.

Chairman Rooney (D-NY) estimated the project would cost $9 for each person seeing the show. A jukebox would be just as popular, he suggested.

The proposal was broached by USIA Chief Theodore C. Streiber at a closed hearing of the subcommittee Feb. 17. His testimony was made public today.

Streibert called for taking a light carrier out of mothballs, stripping it of armaments and sending it on a tour of at least 35 world ports.

Two British MPs Die In Cyprus Ambush

NICOSIA, Cyprus, March 27 (AP)—Two British military policemen were killed in an ambush tonight a few hours after British Gov. Sir John Harding pleaded for an end to violence.

A Greek-speaking customs official was shot dead in the port city of Limassol during the day.

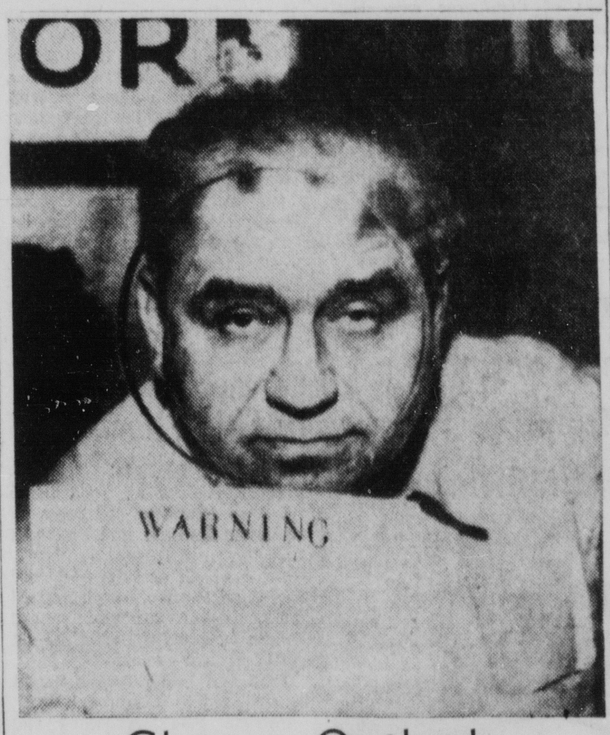

The deaths brought to 62 the number of persons killed in the last year by Greek Cypriots seeking union of this British east Mediterranean island colony with Greece.

The victims include 24 British soldiers.

Murphree Is Named Guided Missile Czar

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson today named a single boss to speed the United States drive for victory in the long range strategic missle race with Russia.

He is research engineer Eger V. Murphree, president of the Esso Research & Engineering Co., at Summit, N.J.

Wilson said that as special assistant for guided missiles, Murphree will carry more authority than was wielded by any other man who has tried to pull together the growing and widespread military missile program.

For one thing, Murphree is charged with being the Pentagon's spokesman on new missile matters before the National Security Council and the President.

In announcing the appointment, Wilson left no doubt that he expected his special assistant to put on a burst of speed, particularly in the development of a ballistic, or rocket type of missile that could some day be launched from the United States, cross the oceans and drop like a bullet with atomic force on a target 5,000 miles away.

Secretary Wilson said nearly two months ago he was looking for the right man to boss the missile program. It has come under congressional criticism, particularly from Sens. Jackson (D-Wash) and Symington (D-Mo), a former secretary of the Air Force.

Both senators have charged that the United States may be lagging behind Russia in perfection of long range missiles.

Wilson's search for a missile boss also followed the resignation of Trevor Gardner, assistant secretary of the Air Force for research and development. Gardner quit last month after he failed to get more money and more support for his own work on new weapons, particularly missiles.

Farmer Piloting 1909 Car On 1922 Tags Escapes Fine

LOGAN, Utah, March 27 (AP)—Farmer Floyd A. Zollinger, 49, was cited for driving an auto with expired license plates.

Last Saturday police spotted him driving with 1922 license plates issued in Idaho.

The newly acquired vehicle he was driving was—a 1909 model-T Ford.

City Judge Jesse P. Rich dismissed the case today.

"Anyone who can drive a 1909 vehicle shouldn't have to pay a fine," the judge said.

Girl Leads Cops 100 MPH Chase

RIVERDALE, Md., March 27 (AP)—Alexandrea (Sandy) Reynolds, 18, was arrested today after an automobile chase in which police estimated speeds at "more than 100 miles an hour."

Police reported that the chase began near Bowie, Md., and that the woman went through several barricades along the way.

They said they fired several shots before the woman' car plowed into a porch of a home.

Identified as an exercise girl at Bowie Race Track, the girl was taken to the Prince Georges County police station at Hyattsville and booked on six different traffic charges. She was jailed until she can post $1,000 bond or $725 collateral, pending a hearing in Hyattsville police court Thursday.

The six charges were speeding in excess of 70 miles an hour, with a maximum of 100 miles an hour; reckless driving by colliding with a fixed object (the porch); reckless driving by "endangering life, limb and property," driving without a permit, failing to obey the lawful order of a policeman in uniform, and passing a red traffic light.

No Poison Found In 'Pop' Put On Coach Used By Ike

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va., March 27 (AP)—A Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad official said tonight one of three persons who drank ginger ale on a private car later used by President Eisenhower "does appear to have uremic poisoning."

The announcement by Howard Skidmore, C & O public relations director, said the ill man's doctor "stated he is not alarmed about his condition."

Skidmore's statement came as Secret Service agents and railroad investigators continued an inquiry aimed at finding out whether anyone put doctored ginger ale aboard the private car in which Eisenhower traveled here from Washington for conferences with Mexican and Canadian leaders.

Skidmore's statement also said a laboratory examination of seven bottles of ginger ale taken from the railroad car "showed no foreign matter." He reported yesterday that a laboratory analysis of three other bottles of the soft drink revealed no trace of any poison or foreign matter.

U. E. Baughman, chief of the Secret Service, repeated today that the investigation being conducted by his agents and C & O investigators has turned up no trace of any plot against the President.

He added that investigators are trying to locate three ginger ale bottles which were tossed from the private car last Thursday evening while it was en route to Washington from Huntington, W. Va., for later used by Eisenhower. It was from those bottles that the three persons who became ill drank ginger ale.

Daily Worker Is Padlocked, Offices Raided

Liens For Back Tax Slapped On Party's Assets In 5 Cities

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP)—The government today seized Communist property from coast-to-coast for back taxes. The party's newspaper, the Daily Worker, also was padlocked.

The newspaper, however, managed to get out its Wednesday morning edition because its typesetting and press work are contracted to a private firm. The edition bore a double deck headline that read:

"Our office seized — here we are."

The simultaneous nationwide crackdown took Red leaders in five cities completely by surprise. They vainly protested the sweeping action as "outrageous . . . Gestapo-like . . . lawless . . . infamous."

There were indications the raids were the brainchild of the New York Internal Revenue Office. In Washington, revenue Commissioner Russell C. Harrington seemed not to know why or what happened.

The party apparently thought it was exempt from taxation. However, political parties are required to file income returns and the Communist party it was learned in Washington, has never done so.

The government ignored the usual procedure of presenting a bill for back taxes and trying to collect.

Liens Slapped On Assets

Instead, it slapped liens on Communist property and almost in the same breath seized Red assets in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Communist centers in Newark, N. J., and Detroit also were ticketed for seizure if their assets had any resale value. However, no move was made to raid them in either city.

The government targets were the Daily Worker here and its regional offices in Chicago, and party headquarters here and in Philadelphia, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

To accomplish this rapid - fire maneuver, the government invoked a so-called jeopardy assessment clause. This is used when there is thought to be some chance of the debtor disposing of his assets before the government can seize them.

There was no apparent evidence, however, of any Communist plan to dump its assets.

No Buildings Seized

The seizure put at the government's mercy Daily Worker subscription lists and files and documents in the various party headquarters.

"This is one story you won't be able to put out," cracked one of five Treasury agents who, with police, raided the Daily Worker's main plant on E. 12th St. shortly after noon.

However, only the paper's editorial offices were padlocked. In none of the raids were actual buildings seized. Presumably the buildings are leased, rather than owned by the parties. Assets were the targets of the padlockers.

At the Communist party's national headquarters on lower Sixth Ave., employes first balked at leaving. They left, however, when police warned them:

"Go nicely or we'll take you out."

Donald R. Moysey, district director of the Internal Revenue Service here, said the party owes $389,265 in back income taxes. He said the newspaper separately owes $46,049. The bill covers the years 1951 through 1953.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va., March 27 (AP)—President Eisenhower and the leaders of Mexico and Canada today offered "any moral or economic aid" within their power to the world's newly independent nations to strengthen them against the threat of "communist totalitarianism."

This bid for closer ties primarily with neutralist nations like India and Indonesia emerged as the chief specific result of the single working session of the North American summit conference, ending here tonight.

Eisenhower, Mexican resident Adolfo Ruiz Cortines and Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent of Canada, informally reviewed world problems for two hours this morning.

U.S. Policies Outlined

Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles reported on United States world policies. They stressed the dangers of war in the Middle East and emphasized their view that changes in Soviet behavior do not mean any changes in the expansionist drive of Soviet communism.

This afternoon Eisenhower and Dulles met Ruiz Cortines and St. Laurent, together with their foreign ministers, separately for an hour each. American officials said the two-way meetings were devoted to a listing of differences between the United States and each of its neighbors.

U.S.-Canadian Issues

Informants said that in the case of Canada, five separate items were mentioned. The necessity of trying to work out an agreed solution for development of the Columbia River Basin, an impending Canadian tax on special Canadian editions of American magazines, Canadian investment in breweries in the United States, the flow of capital between the two countries and the attitude of both countries toward Communist China's membership in the United Nations.

Specific issues raised in the U.S. leaders' talk with Ruiz Cortines and Foreign Minister Luis Padilla Nervo included migration of workers across the Rio Grande, mutual expansion of civil air facilities and

Demos Scoff At Cinerama Flattop Plan

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP) — Some House Democrats scoffed today at a government proposal to send a Cinerama-equipped aircraft carrier on a global propaganda mission.

Rep. Magnuson (D-Wash) said the plan, if carried out, would give the U.S. Information Agency "its private navy." He said he was "flabbergasted" by the proposal, outlined before a House Appropriations subcommittee.

Chairman Rooney (D-NY) estimated the project would cost $9 for each person seeing the show. A jukebox would be just as popular, he suggested.

The proposal was broached by USIA Chief Theodore C. Streiber at a closed hearing of the subcommittee Feb. 17. His testimony was made public today.

Streibert called for taking a light carrier out of mothballs, stripping it of armaments and sending it on a tour of at least 35 world ports.

Two British MPs Die In Cyprus Ambush

NICOSIA, Cyprus, March 27 (AP)—Two British military policemen were killed in an ambush tonight a few hours after British Gov. Sir John Harding pleaded for an end to violence.

A Greek-speaking customs official was shot dead in the port city of Limassol during the day.

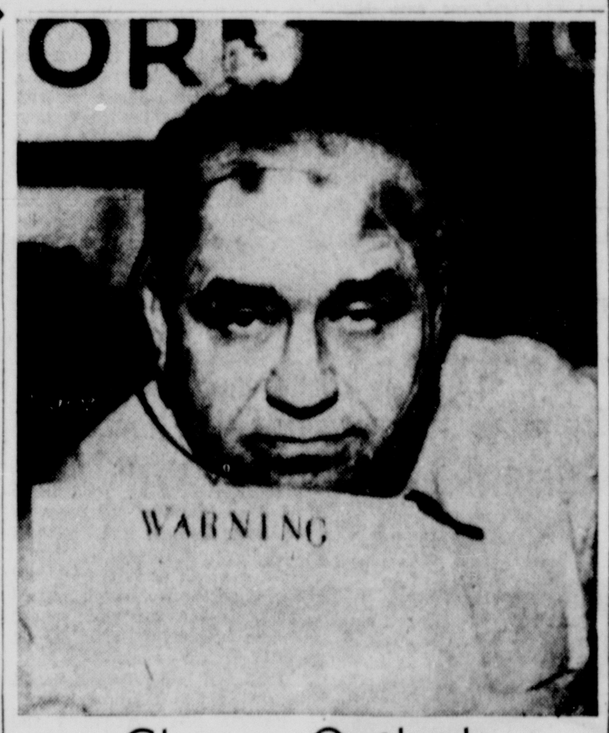

The deaths brought to 62 the number of persons killed in the last year by Greek Cypriots seeking union of this British east Mediterranean island colony with Greece.

The victims include 24 British soldiers.

Murphree Is Named Guided Missile Czar

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP)— Secretary of Defense Wilson today named a single boss to speed the United States drive for victory in the long range strategic missle race with Russia.

He is research engineer Eger V. Murphree, president of the Esso Research & Engineering Co., at Summit, N.J.

Wilson said that as special assistant for guided missiles, Murphree will carry more authority than was wielded by any other man who has tried to pull together the growing and widespread military missile program.

For one thing, Murphree is charged with being the Pentagon's spokesman on new missile matters before the National Security Council and the President.

In announcing the appointment, Wilson left no doubt that he expected his special assistant to put on a burst of speed, particularly in the development of a ballistic, or rocket type of missile that could some day be launched from the United States, cross the oceans and drop like a bullet with atomic force on a target 5,000 miles away.

Secretary Wilson said nearly two months ago he was looking for the right man to boss the missile program. It has come under congressional criticism, particularly from Sens. Jackson (D-Wash) and Symington (D-Mo), a former secretary of the Air Force.

Both senators have charged that the United States may be lagging behind Russia in perfection of long range missiles.

Wilson's search for a missile boss also followed the resignation of Trevor Gardner, assistant secretary of the Air Force for research and development. Gardner quit last month after he failed to get more money and more support for his own work on new weapons, particularly missiles.

Farmer Piloting 1909 Car On 1922 Tags Escapes Fine

LOGAN, Utah, March 27 (AP)—Farmer Floyd A. Zollinger, 49, was cited for driving an auto with expired license plates.

Last Saturday police spotted him driving with 1922 license plates issued in Idaho.

The newly acquired vehicle he was driving was—a 1909 model-T Ford.

City Judge Jesse P. Rich dismissed the case today.

"Anyone who can drive a 1909 vehicle shouldn't have to pay a fine," the judge said.

Girl Leads Cops 100 MPH Chase

RIVERDALE, Md., March 27 (AP)—Alexandrea (Sandy) Reynolds, 18, was arrested today after an automobile chase in which police estimated speeds at "more than 100 miles an hour."

Police reported that the chase began near Bowie, Md., and that the woman went through several barricades along the way.

They said they fired several shots before the woman' car plowed into a porch of a home.

Identified as an exercise girl at Bowie Race Track, the girl was taken to the Prince Georges County police station at Hyattsville and booked on six different traffic charges. She was jailed until she can post $1,000 bond or $725 collateral, pending a hearing in Hyattsville police court Thursday.

The six charges were speeding in excess of 70 miles an hour, with a maximum of 100 miles an hour; reckless driving by colliding with a fixed object (the porch); reckless driving by "endangering life, limb and property," driving without a permit, failing to obey the lawful order of a policeman in uniform, and passing a red traffic light.

No Poison Found In 'Pop' Put On Coach Used By Ike

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va., March 27 (AP)—A Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad official said tonight one of three persons who drank ginger ale on a private car later used by President Eisenhower "does appear to have uremic poisoning."

The announcement by Howard Skidmore, C & O public relations director, said the ill man's doctor "stated he is not alarmed about his condition."

Skidmore's statement came as Secret Service agents and railroad investigators continued an inquiry aimed at finding out whether anyone put doctored ginger ale aboard the private car in which Eisenhower traveled here from Washington for conferences with Mexican and Canadian leaders.

Skidmore's statement also said a laboratory examination of seven bottles of ginger ale taken from the railroad car "showed no foreign matter." He reported yesterday that a laboratory analysis of three other bottles of the soft drink revealed no trace of any poison or foreign matter.

U. E. Baughman, chief of the Secret Service, repeated today that the investigation being conducted by his agents and C & O investigators has turned up no trace of any plot against the President.

He added that investigators are trying to locate three ginger ale bottles which were tossed from the private car last Thursday evening while it was en route to Washington from Huntington, W. Va., for later used by Eisenhower. It was from those bottles that the three persons who became ill drank ginger ale.

Daily Worker Is Padlocked, Offices Raided

Liens For Back Tax Slapped On Party's Assets In 5 Cities

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP)—The government today seized Communist property from coast-to-coast for back taxes. The party's newspaper, the Daily Worker, also was padlocked.

The newspaper, however, managed to get out its Wednesday morning edition because its typesetting and press work are contracted to a private firm. The edition bore a double deck headline that read:

"Our office seized — here we are."

The simultaneous nationwide crackdown took Red leaders in five cities completely by surprise. They vainly protested the sweeping action as "outrageous . . . Gestapo-like . . . lawless . . . infamous."

There were indications the raids were the brainchild of the New York Internal Revenue Office. In Washington, revenue Commissioner Russell C. Harrington seemed not to know why or what happened.

The party apparently thought it was exempt from taxation. However, political parties are required to file income returns and the Communist party it was learned in Washington, has never done so.

The government ignored the usual procedure of presenting a bill for back taxes and trying to collect.

Liens Slapped On Assets

Instead, it slapped liens on Communist property and almost in the same breath seized Red assets in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Communist centers in Newark, N. J., and Detroit also were ticketed for seizure if their assets had any resale value. However, no move was made to raid them in either city.

The government targets were the Daily Worker here and its regional offices in Chicago, and party headquarters here and in Philadelphia, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

To accomplish this rapid - fire maneuver, the government invoked a so-called jeopardy assessment clause. This is used when there is thought to be some chance of the debtor disposing of his assets before the government can seize them.

There was no apparent evidence, however, of any Communist plan to dump its assets.

No Buildings Seized

The seizure put at the government's mercy Daily Worker subscription lists and files and documents in the various party headquarters.

"This is one story you won't be able to put out," cracked one of five Treasury agents who, with police, raided the Daily Worker's main plant on E. 12th St. shortly after noon.

However, only the paper's editorial offices were padlocked. In none of the raids were actual buildings seized. Presumably the buildings are leased, rather than owned by the parties. Assets were the targets of the padlockers.

At the Communist party's national headquarters on lower Sixth Ave., employes first balked at leaving. They left, however, when police warned them:

"Go nicely or we'll take you out."

Donald R. Moysey, district director of the Internal Revenue Service here, said the party owes $389,265 in back income taxes. He said the newspaper separately owes $46,049. The bill covers the years 1951 through 1953.

Synagogue Ceiling Falls; Two Injured

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP)—The ceiling of a Bronx synagogue collapsed today, raining plaster and debris on more than 30 persons observing Jewish Passover rites. Two women were seriously injured.

Deputy Fire Marshal John B. Sullivan said recent heavy snows may have weakened the ceiling of the Yeshiva and Mesivta Zichron Moshe on Morris Ave. between 169th and 170th Sts.

Easter Retail Trade Heads For New High

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP) — American families are spending more money this year than ever before in getting mom, pop and the kids decked out for Easter.

That's the nationwide picture. An Associated Press survey of shopping trends in 23 major cities indicates Easter retail sales are heading for another all-time high.

But the upward trend is by no means uniform throughout the country. In the eastern half of the nation, Easter trade has been dealt damaging blows by rain, snow and cold. Merchants hope to recoup some of the loss in the few remaining days before Easter (a single day of snow cost New York stores an estimated nine million dollars last week). But here again the weather will be the decisive factor.

"Our total Easter sales picture is in the lap of the weather gods," declares Joseph L. Eckhouse, executive head of Gimbel Brothers, New York. And a spokesman for Macy's New York asserts: "Business was fine until the weather hit us. But last week's snow really set us back."

In the week before Palm Sunday, normally the busiest of the Easter shopping season, department store sales in the New York Federal Reserve District were down 10 per cent from a year ago, when Easter was still more than two weeks off.

Bad weather, combined with the earlier Easter date (April 1 this year vs. April 10 in 1955), has slowed retail sales from Maine to Louisiana. In Godchaux's swank apparel store in New Orleans, a spokesman describes Easter trade as "disappointing." And a Richmond, Va., merchant uses the term "dismal" to describe his Easter business.

The cold, wet spring has been a boon, however, to merchants in the plush Florida winter resort of Miami. Fugitives from the wintry blasts in the North came in greater numbers, stayed longer and bought more.

Atlanta merchants also report a noticeable gain in Easter business and attribute the rise to "the general attitude of the buying public." In Los Angeles, the Chamber of Commerce says Easter sales "appear to be headed for records." Dallas stores, from Neiman-Marcus down, are betting on an increase in Easter trade; retailers in Portland, Ore., forecast gains up to 10 per cent. The San Francisco Retail Merchants Assn. says it is looking for a "bangup" Easter season.

New Bloodshed Marks Tunisian Nationalist Rift

TUNIS, Tunisia, March 27 (AP)—Fresh bloodshed underlined today a rift among Tunisian nationalists over the future of this former French protectorate.

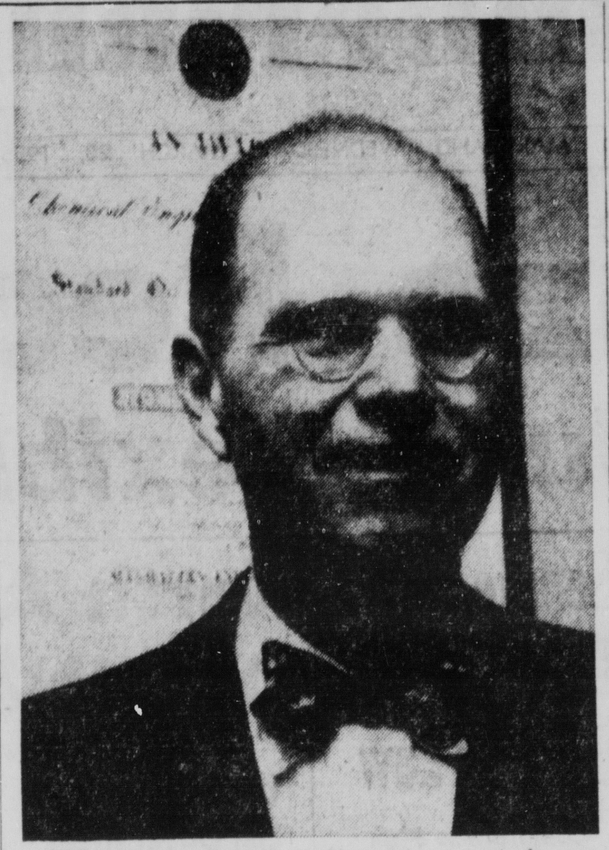

Arab extremists were blamed for the slaying of two moderate leaders of the dominant Neo-Destour (Independence) party — a Thala District chieftain and a deputy in the newly elected Constituent Assembly.

The Neo-Destour party was the prime mover in Paris negotiations which led to a pledge of autonomy from France last week. And it won all the Constituent Assembly's 98 seats Sunday in an election boycotted by the extremists.

Mohammed Daloud, the party leader in the Thala District of west central Tunisia, was kidnaped yesterday and slain.

The second victim was Prof. Hussein Bouzaiane, who won an Assembly seat in the Sunday election. He was killed yesterday at Gafsa, in south central Tunisia, by a man police called a terrorist. Bouzaiane headed the Neo-Destour Federation in Gafsa and was a professor of Arabic culture at Tunis University.

Officers said they expect other attempts at political killings before the Assembly meets April 8 to start drawing up a constitution. This would extend violence previously aimed mostly against the French and their Arab allies.

Russia Offers Own Arms Plan

LONDON, March 27 (AP)—Russia side-stepped agreement on separate American and British-French proposals to end the world arms race today and offered a new disarmament plan of her own.

Informed sources said the Soviet proposals provide for limitations on conventional arms but impose few restrictions on atomic weapons.

Most delegations at the five-power disarmament talks here called the plan a serious contribution to the quest for East-West arms agreement. But the French termed it a "backward step" because of its vagueness on the question of ultimate prohibition of nuclear weapons.

Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko presented the Soviet proposals to the subcommittee of the U. N. Disarmament Commission meeting here. Britain, France Russia, the United States and Canada are represented.

It was understood that the only Russian proposal on nuclear weapons was for the banning or strict control of atomic tests.

Gromyko did not even comment on three proposals previously offered by Harold E. Stassen, President Eisenhower's special assistant on disarmament matters.

Kefauver Gaining On Adlai In Calif., Poll Discloses

LOS ANGELES, March 27 (AP)—A poll published today shows Sen. Estes Kefauver is moving up fast, but Adlai Stevenson holds a commanding lead in Democratic favor in Los Angeles.

And while Republicans are gaining since President Eisenhower's announcement that he is a candidate, the Democrats are maintaining a slim edge here, the poll said.

The Mirror-News said its "scientific sampling" showed 22 per cent of Los Angeles Democrats now favor Kefauver, with 52 per cent for Stevenson. Seven per cent back New York Gov. Averell Harriman and 19 per cent are undecided.

A poll by the paper on Feb. 1 gave Stevenson 49 per cent, Kefauver 7, Harriman 5, and 39 per cent undecided.

Of the voters interviewed for today's story, 46 per cent said they would vote Democratic, 42 per cent Republican, with 12 per cent undecided. This represented a substantial upsurge for the Republicans since President Eisenhower announced he would be a candidate, the paper said.

On Feb. 1 the reply was Democratic 40, Republican 32, and undecided 28 per cent.

Berlin Reds Support Anti-Stalin Policies

BERLIN, March 27 (AP) — East Germany's Communist party conference today unanimously endorsed the new anti-Stalin policies of party boss Walter Ulbricht.

Despite the vote there was evidence of dissension in the ranks. Paul Verner, a member of the party's Central Committee, defended Ulbricht from attacks from the floor.

It was the third time in as many days that a conference speaker has found it necessary to denounce critics of the party chief.

The new policies were drawn up after Ulbricht returned recently from the 20th Soviet Communist party Congress in Moscow at which the anti-Stalin campaign was started.

Coroner Rules Death Of Girl, 4, Homicide

BEAVER, Pa., March 27 (AP)—Coroner Thomas F. Todd today ruled as homicide the death of 4-year-old Patricia Mae Patton of Industry.

Dr. Todd said an autopsy showed no natural cause of death. He said the location of the body in rugged terrain indicated the child did not die of natural causes.

Todd said "other details cannot be disclosed at this time."

Patricia Mae's scratched and bruised body was found last Wednesday on a steep hillside about a quarter of a mile from her home. Authorities said she had not been molested.

Senate Kills

has as many electoral votes as it has senators and representatives.

Opponents—many of them from large states—contended some of the proposals would give added political influence to one-party states and rural areas.

Supporters argued that action was needed to change a system which could see a presidential candidate win the electoral vote though he received a minority of the popular vote.

The compromise plan was sponsored initially by 54 senators, but some of these withdrew their support during the long debate.

This dual system was offered as a substitute for one-point plan which would simply divide each state's electoral vote among the candidates in proportion to their popular vote within the state.

Public Nursing Homes Opposed

BALTIMORE, March 27 (AP) — More than 200 representatives of private nursing homes in Maryland told the State Health Department today they are strongly opposed to using federal funds to build public nursing homes in the state.

They turned out for a public hearing held by the health department and also strongly protested a survey recently made public by the Committee on Medical Care of the State Planning Commission.

The survey showed 2,398 of the 3,242 nursing home beds in Baltimore City and the counties, or nearly 74 per cent, were in buildings which do not meet safety-fire standards.

The report also recommended the State use $600,000 now available in federal funds to build needed facilities.

After today's hearing, Malcolm B. Tebbs, attorney for the Maryland Association of Registered Nursing Homes, Inc., said the home operators would carry their fight to the next meeting of the Legislative Council to block any possible allocation of the available funds.

Tavern Owner Opens Presidential Campaign

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP)—Henry Krajewski, a New Jersey tavern owner and perennially unsuccessful candidate for office, today launched his 1956 presidential campaign.

A main plank in the former pig farmer's platform this year is the annexation of Canada. He said Britain should give Canada to America in lieu of unpaid war debts.

Krajewski ran for president in 1952 and got 12,800 votes. In 1954 he ran for senator from New Jersey and got 35,422 votes. This total, largely from Democratic Hudson County, was widely credited with defeating the Democratic candidate and sending Republican Clifford Case to the Senate in a close race.

Aside from slight variations, United States systems of measures are based on British standards.

Parakeet Found With Blackbirds

ABERDEEN, Md., March 27 (AP)—More than two weeks ago, Mrs. Galen Webster's pet parakeet winged out an open window and disappeared. Mrs. Webster had had "Skeets" for eight years.

Stormy days followed, with snow and temperatures dropping into the teens.

Last Sunday, neighborhood children saw a parakeet in a flock of blackbirds. They called Mrs. Webster. She walked over and picked up "Skeets."

What did he do while he was gone?

"Skeets" didn't talk before, and he's not talking now.

the treatment of foreign capital and availability of credit.

These other developments were announced:

1. Eisenhower won Canadian and Mexican endorsement of United States submission of the Palestine crisis to the United Nations Security Council. St. Laurent and Ruiz Cortines were pictured as viewing the move as "most desirable."

2. The president told his guests that the Arab-Israeli dispute and Middle East tensions generally are regarded by this country as "a possible threat to peace." The move to put the Palestine matter before the U.N. Security Council emphasizes the seriousness of the situation, Eisenhower said.

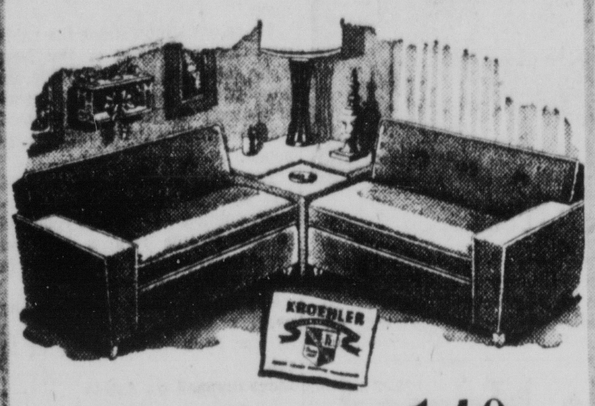

3. Eisenhower also declared, "We don't believe for an instant that the Communists have given up their idea of world domination and the use of slave camps and the whip to keep people in check."

4. Lester B. Pearson, Canadian minister for external affairs, proposed with St. Laurent's obvious approval that the U.S. exchange "blueprints" of foreign aid proposals with the Soviet Union to make them "put up or shut up" on offers of assistance to such countries as India and Pakistan. The Pearson suggestion was an adaptation of Eisenhower's plan for exchange of military blueprints with Russia.

Red Super Highway

MOSCOW, March 27 (AP)—Construction of a super highway encircling Moscow is scheduled to begin this spring. An announcement today said it will be 7 to 12 miles from the city, about 65 miles long and about 80 feet wide. It will have a dividing center strip.

WHAT DO LUTHERANS Really BELIEVE ABOUT THE LORD'S SUPPER?

Just this: That it is the Lord's Supper. He comes — all the way. He is present — personally. He gives — His Body and Blood. He says to each individually, "... given and shed for you for the forgiveness of sins."

You may not be interested in history's complex theological arguments about the Holy Sacrament.

But nonetheless, the questions that lie beneath all the controversies do concern you:

- Is the Supper merely a human ceremony? — or is Christ really present?
- Has the God of the Manger and Cross now contradicted Himself and demanded that you try to mount up to Him? — or does He continue to come down to you?
- Is the Holy Communion man at work appeasing God? — or is it God in action redeeming man?

If He is absent, if He no longer comes down to us, if He requires appeasing, then the end result is the same — whether men teach the Sacrament to be a repetition of Christ's sacrifice, or merely a "memorial" honoring His sacrifice: The Lord's Supper has become man's supper, something offered to God from man.

But Lutherans have always experienced the Blessed Sacrament to be in harmony with the Gospel: Christ offers Himself to man in Communion — just as throughout the Gospel God gives and man receives.

Coroner Rules Death Of Girl, 4, Homicide

BEAVER, Pa., March 27 (AP)—Coroner Thomas F. Todd today ruled as homicide the death of 4-year-old Patricia Mae Patton of Industry.

Dr. Todd said an autopsy showed no natural cause of death. He said the location of the body in rugged terrain indicated the child did not die of natural causes.

Todd said "other details cannot be disclosed at this time."

Patricia Mae's scratched and bruised body was found last Wednesday on a steep hillside about a quarter of a mile from her home. Authorities said she had not been molested.

Senate Kills

has as many electoral votes as it has senators and representatives.

Opponents—many of them from large states—contended some of the proposals would give added political influence to one-party states and rural areas.

Supporters argued that action was needed to change a system which could see a presidential candidate win the electoral vote though he received a minority of the popular vote.

The compromise plan was sponsored initially by 54 senators, but some of these withdrew their support during the long debate.

This dual system was offered as a substitute for one-point plan which would simply divide each state's electoral vote among the candidates in proportion to their popular vote within the state.

Serov Flies Home

LONDON, March 27 (AP)—The Soviet TU104 jet airliner returned to Moscow tonight from London, taking back Soviet State Security Chief Ivan Serov and party.

Public Nursing Homes Opposed

BALTIMORE, March 27 (AP) — More than 200 representatives of private nursing homes in Maryland told the State Health Department today they are strongly opposed to using federal funds to build public nursing homes in the state.

They turned out for a public hearing held by the health department and also strongly protested a survey recently made public by the Committee on Medical Care of the State Planning Commission.

The survey showed 2,398 of the 3,242 nursing home beds in Baltimore City and the counties, or nearly 74 per cent, were in buildings which do not meet safety-fire standards.

The report also recommended the State use $600,000 now available in federal funds to build needed facilities.

After today's hearing, Malcolm B. Tebbs, attorney for the Maryland Association of Registered Nursing Homes, Inc., said the home operators would carry their fight to the next meeting of the Legislative Council to block any possible allocation of the available funds.

Tavern Owner Opens Presidential Campaign

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP)—Henry Krajewski, a New Jersey tavern owner and perennially unsuccessful candidate for office, today launched his 1956 presidential campaign.

A main plank in the former pig farmer's platform this year is the annexation of Canada. He said Britain should give Canada to America in lieu of unpaid war debts.

Krajewski ran for president in 1952 and got 12,800 votes. In 1954 he ran for senator from New Jersey and got 35,422 votes. This total, largely from Democratic Hudson County, was widely credited with defeating the Democratic candidate and sending Republican Clifford Case to the Senate in a close race.

Aside from slight variations, United States systems of measures are based on British standards.

Parakeet Found With Blackbirds

ABERDEEN, Md., March 27 (AP)—More than two weeks ago, Mrs. Galen Webster's pet parakeet winged out an open window and disappeared. Mrs. Webster had had "Skeets" for eight years.

Stormy days followed, with snow and temperatures dropping into the teens.

Last Sunday, neighborhood children saw a parakeet in a flock of blackbirds. They called Mrs. Webster. She walked over and picked up "Skeets."

What did he do while he was gone?

"Skeets" didn't talk before, and he's not talking now.

the treatment of foreign capital and availability of credit.

These other developments were announced:

1. Eisenhower won Canadian and Mexican endorsement of United States submission of the Palestine crisis to the United Nations Security Council. St. Laurent and Ruiz Cortines were pictured as viewing the move as "most desirable."

2. The president told his guests that the Arab-Israeli dispute and Middle East tensions generally are regarded by this country as "a possible threat to peace." The move to put the Palestine matter before the U.N. Security Council emphasizes the seriousness of the situation, Eisenhower said.

3. Eisenhower also declared, "We don't believe for an instant that the Communists have given up their idea of world domination and the use of slave camps and the whip to keep people in check."

4. Lester B. Pearson, Canadian minister for external affairs, proposed with St. Laurent's obvious approval that the U.S. exchange "blueprints" of foreign aid proposals with the Soviet Union to make them "put up or shut up" on offers of assistance to such countries as India and Pakistan. The Pearson suggestion was an adaptation of Eisenhower's plan for exchange of military blueprints with Russia.

WHAT DO LUTHERANS Really BELIEVE ABOUT THE LORD'S SUPPER?

Just this: That it is the Lord's Supper.

He comes — all the way. He is present — personally. He gives — His Body and Blood. He says to each individually, "... given and shed for you for the forgiveness of sins."

You may not be interested in history's complex theological arguments about the Holy Sacrament.

But nonetheless, the questions that lie beneath all the controversies do concern you:

- Is the Supper merely a human ceremony? — or is Christ really present?
- Was the God of the Manger and Cross now contradicted Himself and demanded that you try to mount up to Him? — or does He continue to come down to you?
- Is the Holy Communion man at work appeasing God? — or is it God in action redeeming man?

If He is absent, if He no longer comes down to us, if He requires appeasing, then the end result is the same — whether men teach the Sacrament to be a repetition of Christ's sacrifice, or merely a "memorial" honoring His sacrifice: The Lord's Supper has become man's supper, something offered to God from man.

But Lutherans have always experienced the Blessed Sacrament to be in harmony with the Gospel: Christ offers Himself to man in Communion — just as throughout the Gospel God gives and man receives.

Dad's Shaving Mug Makes Girl's Face-Washing Fun

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP) — Each little girl dipped a man's shaving brush into a man's shaving mug, and busily lathered her face.

Marjabelle Young, a professional model who thought up the idea, looked on happily.

So many other things once considered exclusively masculine — smoking, trousers, the barroom — have gone feminine. Is the shaving mug, already shaken by the electric razor and ready made lathers, to go sissy too?

"It certainly is," Miss Young said. "It's just the thing for a girl's complexion. Once they hear about it, girls everywhere will be using their dad's brush."

Necessity, the mother of so many of mankind's achievements, spurred Miss Young on to her great idea, too. She had started the "Little Miss School" in suburban Silver Spring, Md., to teach girls how to model.

"Oh, it went beautifully," Miss Young said, "except for one thing. Do you realize that little girls simply will not wash their faces?"

So Marjabelle thought and thought, trying to come up with something that would make face washing fun.

Complexion brushes? Okay, but too expensive.

"Then I thought of it. Dad's shaving brush! Show them, girls."

Three 10-year-olds slapped on soap, as free wheeling as a veteran barber.

"M-m-m," Martha Ann Ross said, "nice and gooey."

"I got some on my eyelashes," Ann Haycraft said.

Linda Ruth Laycock didn't say anything, just daubed and admired herself in the mirror.

Miss Young said she long has felt sorry for the girl of from 8 to 12. "The awkward age," she said, "that's what everyone says of them. Isn't that horrible? So I've taught them good posture and how to walk. Do you realize that American women have the most ridiculous walk in the world? Yet a graceful walk is simple. Show them, girls."

The girls walked while Marjabelle made-believed she was describing a fashion show. It was graceful all right.

Then they went back to practicing shaving brush technique, and many a gay giggle came from those soap flecked lips.

To a man, it had an ominous sound. If you still care about that mug and brush, men, better hide them. Right now.

Distribution Of Goods In Soviet Criticized

MOSCOW, March 27 (AP)—Pravda criticized the distribution of consumer goods in the Soviet Union. It said consumer cooperatives are not fighting for better quality goods.

The official newspaper of the Communist party stressed directives adopted by the recent 20th Congress of the party calling for a 50 per cent increase in retail trade trade under the new five-year plan.

"The tastes and requirements of rural consumers are growing increasingly, and there is tremendous demand for building materials, automobiles, power, and other equipment," Pravda said.

"The sale of cultural and household goods in the countryside is increasing yearly. For example, during the period from 1946 through 1950 some 825,000 radio sets were sold. There were 1,320,000 sold in 1955 alone."

White House Picket Ban Voted By House

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP)—A bill to prohibit picketing in the immediate vicinity of the White House was passed by the House and sent to the Senate yesterday. Under existing law, embassies, Capitol grounds, and the Supreme Court are protected from picketing.

A House report on the bill said it was felt that the President and the people who visit the White House "should not be subjectee to the indignities which have existed on certain occasions."

Air Force Scientists Produce 400,000-Degree Heat

BALTIMORE, March 27 (AP)—Air Force scientists have produced heat 40 times the temperature on the surface of the sun and about four times greater than any previously produced, the Air Research and Development Command (ARDC) announced today.

The temperature—400,000 degrees Fahrenheit—was developed over a fraction of a second under laboratory conditions during work in connection with a secret project of the ARDC's Cambridge Research Center, Bedford, Mass., the announcement said. The technique itself is not classified, the ARDC said, and "holds promise of possible use for industrial and research organizations."

To get an idea of how hot 400,000 degrees is, imagine standing in front of an open-hearth furnace at a steel mill. Inside the furnace the temperature would be about 3,000 degrees.

Dr. Heinz Fischer, chief of the Electro-Optical Section of the Cambridge center, said the highest temperatures he had ever heard of prior to this development were about 100,000 degrees.

U. Of Md. Student's Suspension Is Lifted After He Agrees To Take ROTC Training

COLLEGE PARK, Md., March 27 (AP)—The University of Maryland today withdrew suspension of Alan Barry Carr, a conscientious objector, after the sophomore agreed to resume military training studies.

University President Wilson H. Elkins, gave Carr a letter to instructors readmitting him to classes and said he would be allowed to make up the lost time.

Carr was suspended last Saturday for refusing on religious ground to take ROTC training. He said he was returning because he thought he could accomplish more toward changing the university's policy of compulsory military training.

"Friends told me they would help me and urge the Board of Regents to change the policy if I returned," he said in a statement, "but some of them said they would not become involved if I did not return.

"These friends felt it was unfair to the regents to try and force them to change the policy without first giving them every chance to consider it.

"And so, I am appealing to the regents' sense of fairness and integrity to recognize my position and the position of other religious objectors who may come to Maryland."

Carr, son of a Baltimore Episcopal minister, added that "it's hard to go back, and I am still opposed to the policy. But if I can do more good by going back, I am willing to do it even though my convictions have not changed."

Carr quit attending Reserve Officers Training Corps classes and drills early in February. He wrote President Elkins earlier:

"I am a conscientious objector and expect to register that way with selective service. If I continue with ROTC, the draft board will not believe I am sincere when I ask to be classed as a conscientious objector and assigned to civilian work.

All students at Maryland, except those with prior military service, are required to take ROTC training for the first two years but are not obligated to enter military service.

Apple Blossom Queen Will Be Crowned By London Lord Mayor

WINCHESTER, Va., March 27 (AP)—Miss Laura MacArthur will be crowned queen of the 29th annual Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival here April 26 by the Right Honorable Lord Mayor of London, Cuthbert Lowell Ackroyd.

Festival President Thomas G. Scully today announced the Lord Mayor had cabled his acceptance of the invitation.

The Lord Mayor accompanied by the Lord Mayoress and members of the official party will arrive in New York the day before the festival and fly here.

After the ceremony at this apple producing town, he will tour Colonial Williamsburg, the restored capital of Colonial Virginia.

Fisherman Missing

DENTON, Md., March 27 (AP)—State police and firemen today were searching for Alonzo Bridegroom, 63, of nearby Grove, who failed to return from a fishing trip in the Choptank yesterday.

Bridegroom, an employe of the Phillips Packing Co. at Cambridge, went fishing in his outboard motor about 1 p. m. When he failed to return at dark, his wife alerted authorities.

Magistrate-At-Large

ANNAPOLIS, March 27 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin's office today announced appointment of Meredith R. Hoffmaster as magistrate-at-large for Baltimore succeeding Richard Paul Gilbert, now on the traffic court.

Hoffmaster, 35, ran unsuccessfully on the Republican ticket for the State Senate in 1954 and for City Council in 1955.

Union Hall Tax Exemption Bid Is Turned Down

HAGERSTOWN, March 27 (AP)—"We could institute a ritualistic mumbo-jumbo and maybe get black robes," suggested a labor union attorney seeking an unprecedented tax exemption on union headquarters today.

A representative of Local 842 of the United Auto Workers made the comment while asking the Washington County Commission to eliminate the tax on equipment assessed at $4,470.

Ernest Wachs, union attorney, told the commission he had written the attorney general of Maryland about tax exemption for the three - story building itself, the same as enjoyed by fraternal, veteran and charitable organizations.

The attorney general replied the union hall couldn't qualify because its members held "no ritualistic form of worship."

Wachs commented that by establishing a "ritualistic mumbo-jumbo" the union might qualify then.

Ralph Wagaman, union vice president, maintained it might qualify under the charitable requirement since it gave a Christmas party for children.

All three commissioners said they were in sympathy with the union request, but felt the law should be changed by the Legislature to include it.

In the meantime, they took the advice of their attorney, John Colton, to follow the opinion of the attorney general.

State Auto License Sale Up 8 Per Cent

BALTIMORE, March 27 (AP)—The Department of Motor Vehicles reported today that applications for new license tags are up above eight per cent over last year.

Comptroller Owen R. E. McGeeney said that by March 23 the number of new tags issued was 511,242, or 8.2 per cent over the figure reached at the same time last year.

The department estimates that there will be more than one million tags issued in Maryland this year.

U. Of Md. Student's Suspension Is Lifted After He Agrees To Take ROTC Training

COLLEGE PARK, Md., March 27 (AP)—The University of Maryland today withdrew suspension of Alan Barry Carr, a conscientious objector, after the sophomore agreed to resume military training studies.

University President Wilson H. Elkins, gave Carr a letter to instructors readmitting him to classes and said he would be allowed to make up the lost time.

Carr was suspended last Saturday for refusing on religious ground to take ROTC training. He said he was returning because he thought he could accomplish more toward changing the university's policy of compulsory military training.

"Friends told me they would help me and urge the Board of Regents to change the policy if I returned," he said in a statement, "but some of them said they would not become involved if I did not return.

"These friends felt it was unfair to the regents to try and force them to change the policy without first giving them every chance to consider it.

"And so, I am appealing to the regents' sense of fairness and integrity to recognize my position and the position of other religious objectors who may come to Maryland."

Carr, son of a Baltimore Episcopal minister, added that "it's hard to go back, and I am still opposed to the policy. But if I can do more good by going back, I am willing to do it even though my convictions have not changed."

Carr quit attending Reserve Officers Training Corps classes and drills early in February. He wrote President Elkins earlier:

"I am a conscientious objector and expect to register that way with selective service. If I continue with ROTC, the draft board will not believe I am sincere when I ask to be classed as a conscientious objector and assigned to civilian work.

All students at Maryland, except those with prior military service, are required to take ROTC training for the first two years but are not obligated to enter military service.

Apple Blossom Queen Will Be Crowned By London Lord Mayor

WINCHESTER, Va., March 27 (AP)—Miss Laura MacArthur will be crowned queen of the 29th annual Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival here April 26 by the Right Honorable Lord Mayor of London, Cuthbert Lowell Ackroyd.

Festival President Thomas G. Scully today announced the Lord Mayor had cabled his acceptance of the invitation.

The Lord Mayor accompanied by the Lord Mayoress and members of the official party will arrive in New York the day before the festival and fly here.

After the ceremony at this apple producing town, he will tour Colonial Williamsburg, the restored capital of Colonial Virginia.

Fisherman Missing

DENTON, Md., March 27 (AP)—State police and firemen today were searching for Alonzo Bridegroom, 63, of nearby Grove, who failed to return from a fishing trip in the Choptank yesterday.

Bridegroom, an employe of the Phillips Packing Co. at Cambridge, went fishing in his outboard motor about 1 p. m. When he failed to return at dark, his wife alerted authorities.

Magistrate-At-Large

ANNAPOLIS, March 27 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin's office today announced appointment of Meredith R. Hoffmaster as magistrate-at-large for Baltimore succeeding Richard Paul Gilbert, now on the traffic court.

Hoffmaster, 35, ran unsuccessfully on the Republican ticket for the State Senate in 1954 and for City Council in 1955.

Union Hall Tax Exemption Bid Is Turned Down

HAGERSTOWN, March 27 (AP)—"We could institute a ritualistic mumbo-jumbo and maybe get black robes," suggested a labor union attorney seeking an unprecedented tax exemption on union headquarters today.

A representative of Local 842 of the United Auto Workers made the comment while asking the Washington County Commission to eliminate the tax on equipment assessed at $4,470.

Ernest Wachs, union attorney, told the commission he had written the attorney general of Maryland about tax exemption for the three - story building itself, the same as enjoyed by fraternal, veteran and charitable organizations.

The attorney general replied the union hall couldn't qualify because its members held "no ritualistic form of worship."

Wachs commented that by establishing a "ritualistic mumbo-jumbo" the union might qualify then.

Ralph Wagaman, union vice president, maintained it might qualify under the charitable requirement since it gave a Christmas party for children.

All three commissioners said they were in sympathy with the union request, but felt the law should be changed by the Legislature to include it.

In the meantime, they took the advice of their attorney, John Colton, to follow the opinion of the attorney general.

State Auto License Sale Up 8 Per Cent

BALTIMORE, March 27 (AP)—The Department of Motor Vehicles reported today that applications for new license tags are up above eight per cent over last year.

Comptroller Owen R. E. McGeeney said that by March 23 the number of new tags issued was 511,242, or 8.2 per cent over the figure reached at the same time last year.

The department estimates that there will be more than one million tags issued in Maryland this year.

Kilowatts, Hot Senate Race Charge Up Oregon Campaign

By MORRIE LANDSBERG

PORTLAND, Ore., March 27 (AP)—Kilowatts and a crackling Senate race are charging up Oregon's 1956 campaign with powerful political thunder.

You gather from what people are saying around the state that Oregon, despite some Democratic trends, is still for President Eisenhower and, to a lesser degree, goes along with keeping Vice President Nixon on the ticket.

Republicans, jolted by Democratic Sen. Richard L. Neuberger's election in 1954, are probably just as determined to get rid of Democratic Sen. Wayne Morse as they are to retain the state's six electoral votes for Eisenhower.

The White House entered the fight by approving the party decision to send Secretary of the Interior McKay home to run against his former Republican ally. You couldn't ask for a more direct showdown on natural resources policies of the administration. McKay is the Cabinet member responsible for carrying them out.

If, as seems likely, McKay wins his party nomination in the May 18 primary, it is certain to set off one of the most bitter campaigns in Oregon history. The key issue: Public versus private power development.

McKay, who resigned as Oregon's governor in 1953 to join the Cabinet, exemplifies the Eisenhower power partnership policy, with its emphasis on the role of local and private interests in power development. Morse speaks out against private monopolies. McKay is willing to "fight it out along the Eisenhower line." Morse is ready to take him on for favoring private power dams at Hells Canyon.

This is no academic debate. Farmers, businessmen and labor leaders tell the same story—Oregon needs low cost power to attract new industry. It means dollars—and votes—in a state heavily dependent on a seasonal economy.

McKay, 62, with an Oregon political career going back to 1933, and Morse, 56, twice elected to the Senate as a Republican, start out with records as two of the best vote-getters in the state.

On Morse's side, the Democrats expect to overtake the Republicans in registration by November and to capitalize on their charge that administration policies amount to a "giveaway" of natural resources. On McKay's side, party - switching has alienated some of Morse's old supporters.

The interior secretary said, too, in announcing his candidacy:

"I can think of no more appealing task in public life today than to bring before the people of Oregon this opportunity to choose between the honor and objectives of the Eisenhower administration and the slippery philosophy of Wayne Morse."

Wendell Wyatt, Republican state chairman, says there's no question Eisenhower will run stronger than he did in carrying Oregon in 1952. Wyatt reportedly was unhappy that McKay stepped into the Senate race, but other Republicans are relying on Eisenhower's popularity to put McKay across.

Monroe Sweetland, Democratic national committeeman, says his party is so solidly behind Morse, who joined up only last year, that he may exceed Neuberger's Democratic vote in defeating Republican Sen. Guy Cordon. He figures Morse to attract 10 to 20 per cent of the Republicans as well.

J.W. Forrester, Pendleton newspaper editor, reported that out his way, in agricultural eastern Oregon, "men whose opinion I respect think Morse will poll a bigger GOP vote than Eisenhower."

Pete Pinney, Pendleton businessman-farmer and a Republican said the decline in farm income would show in the vote. He wasn't prepared to say whether the people would "take it out" on Eisenhower or try to elect more Democrats to Congress.

Some voters this reporter talked to saw nothing inconsistent about voting for Eisenhower and Morse at the same time. After all, didn't Oregon elect a Democratic senator in 1954 along with a Republican governor? Republicans prefer to blame Cordon's defeat on poor party organization and the fact that 120,000 GOP voters stayed away.

The slightly built McKay was a popular governor, but now, after three years on the Washington firing line, he says of himself, "I am controversial, too."

He may have been thinking of the insistent "giveaway" charges drummed on by the Democrats — charges he calls "pure political bunk." Or the hubbub he created when he told the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, "We are in the saddle at the present moment as an administration representative of business and industry."

Just a month or so ago, the Clackamas County Farmers Union demanded McKay's ouster, saying he was "subservient to private power companies and has failed to protect the public interest in natural resources."

McKay's automobile agency in Salem, which he ultimately handed over to his two sons-in-law, was long picketed by the AFL Machinists Union. It didn't help his standing with labor when he observed a while back, "I don't go along with some of the goons in labor."

But then, as one admirer remarked, "nobody is lukewarm on Wayne Morse." An Eisenhower delegate to the 1952 Republican National Convention, Morse later broke with the President. He styled himself first an independent and later a Democrat. Now he is half of the Democrats' margin of control in the Senate, which is divided 49-47.

Republicans speak of him as a "political turncoat," and one newspaper letter writer wondered, "How can anyone trust Morse again?" Wyatt, the GOP state chairman, said "few men in public life have been wrong so many times as Sen. Morse."

Some opponents think he can be beaten, especially in view of the state's strong leaning toward Eisenhower. People say "I like Ike" without associating him with the issues that stand out in the Oregon campaign. It may not be that easy for the Republican candidate for the Senate.

Gov. Paul Patterson, before his death in February, was the state GOP's top choice to oppose Morse. Patterson's successor, Elmo E. Smith, 46, also a Republican, is an early favorite in the November election against either Robert C. Holmes, Astoria radio station operator, or Lew Wallace, Portland insurance agent, who are seeking the Democratic nomination.

If he is to take on Morse, McKay must first eliminate former state Sen. Phil Hitchcock, an official of Lewis and Clark College in Portland, and dairyman-legislator Elmer Deetz of Canby in the Republican primary. The Democratic senator has negligible opposition.

The GOP presidential primary will be a tame affair, with Eisenhower as the only candidate for Oregon's 18 delegates. Neither Adlai Stevenson or Sen. Estes Kefauver entered the Democratic preferential poll.

While there's a pro-Stevenson look to the candidates for 16 Democratic delegates, the slate could go to the winner of a write-in vote. Kefauver was unopposed in Oregon four years ago. The proximity to the 68-delegate California primary June 5 prompted both the Tennessee senator and Stevenson to bypass this state.

TV Brings Mine Shift Changes

BARNESLEY, England, March 27 (AP)—Shifts at the big Wharncliffe colliery were changed today to meet coal miners' demands that the work day fit in with television programs.

Mine officials agreed to start the late shift one hour earlier "so the men can get home in time to have a glass of beer, watch television and see their children before they go to bed."

British TV networks open at 3 p.m. and normally shut down about 11 p.m.

Eden Government Accepts Malta Plan

LONDON, March 27 (AP) — The Eden government today accepted a plan to make the Mediterranean island of Malta a part of Britain and to give it three seats in the British House of Commons.

The integration plan has been under study for more than a year. Maltese voters recently approved it in a referendum.

Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd announced the government's approval at the start of a debate in Commons. Malta now is a crown colony with its own Parliament. It is the site of one of Britain's largest naval bases.

The government is expected to make a more specific statement of acceptance later. An enabling bill would have to pass through Parliament to increase the number of Commons seats. Malta would have to alter its present constitution or vote a new one.

Kilowatts, Hot Senate Race Charge Up Oregon Campaign

By MORRIE LANDSBERG

PORTLAND, Ore., March 27 (AP)—Kilowatts and a crackling Senate race are charging up Oregon's 1956 campaign with powerful political thunder.

You gather from what people are saying around the state that Oregon, despite some Democratic trends, is still for President Eisenhower and, to a lesser degree, goes along with keeping Vice President Nixon on the ticket.

Republicans, jolted by Democratic Sen. Richard L. Neuberger's election in 1954, are probably just as determined to get rid of Democratic Sen. Wayne Morse as they are to retain the state's six electoral votes for Eisenhower.

The White House entered the fight by approving the party decision to send Secretary of the Interior McKay home to run against his former Republican ally. You couldn't ask for a more direct showdown on natural resources policies of the administration. McKay is the Cabinet member responsible for carrying them out.

If, as seems likely, McKay wins his party nomination in the May 18 primary, it is certain to set off one of the most bitter campaigns in Oregon history. The key issue: Public versus private power development.

McKay, who resigned as Oregon's governor in 1953 to join the Cabinet, exemplifies the Eisenhower power partnership policy, with its emphasis on the role of local and private interests in power development. Morse speaks out against private monopolies. McKay is willing to "fight it out along the Eisenhower line." Morse is ready to take him on for favoring private power dams at Hells Canyon.

This is no academic debate. Farmers, businessmen and labor leaders tell the same story—Oregon needs low cost power to attract new industry. It means dollars—and votes—in a state heavily dependent on a seasonal economy.

McKay, 62, with an Oregon political career going back to 1933, and Morse, 56, twice elected to the Senate as a Republican, start out with records as two of the best vote-getters in the state.

On Morse's side, the Democrats expect to overtake the Republicans in registration by November and to capitalize on their charge that administration policies amount to a "giveaway" of natural resources. On McKay's side, party - switching has alienated some of Morse's old supporters.

The interior secretary said, too, in announcing his candidacy:

"I can think of no more appealing task in public life today than to bring before the people of Oregon this opportunity to choose between the honor and objectives of the Eisenhower administration and the slippery philosophy of Wayne Morse."

Wendell Wyatt, Republican state chairman, says there's no question Eisenhower will run stronger than he did in carrying Oregon in 1952. Wyatt reportedly was unhappy that McKay stepped into the Senate race, but other Republicans are relying on Eisenhower's popularity to put McKay across.

Monroe Sweetland, Democratic national committeeman, says his party is so solidly behind Morse, who joined up only last year, that he may exceed Neuberger's Democratic vote in defeating Republican Sen. Guy Cordon. He figures Morse to attract 10 to 20 per cent of the Republicans as well.

J.W. Forrester, Pendleton newspaper editor, reported that out his way, in agricultural eastern Oregon, "men whose opinion I respect think Morse will poll a bigger GOP vote than Eisenhower."

Pete Pinney, Pendleton businessman-farmer and a Republican said the decline in farm income would show in the vote. He wasn't prepared to say whether the people would "take it out" on Eisenhower or try to elect more Democrats to Congress.

Some voters this reporter talked to saw nothing inconsistent about voting for Eisenhower and Morse at the same time. After all, didn't Oregon elect a Democratic senator in 1954 along with a Republican governor? Republicans prefer to blame Cordon's defeat on poor party organization and the fact that 120,000 GOP voters stayed away.

The slightly built McKay was a popular governor, but now, after three years on the Washington firing line, he says of himself, "I am controversial, too."

He may have been thinking of the insistent "giveaway" charges drummed on by the Democrats — charges he calls "pure political bunk." Or the hubbub he created when he told the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, "We are in the saddle at the present moment as an administration representative of business and industry."

Just a month or so ago, the Clackamas County Farmers Union demanded McKay's ouster, saying he was "subservient to private power companies and has failed to protect the public interest in natural resources."

McKay's automobile agency in Salem, which he ultimately handed over to his two sons-in-law, was long picketed by the AFL Machinists Union. It didn't help his standing with labor when he observed a while back, "I don't go along with some of the goons in labor."

But then, as one admirer remarked, "nobody is lukewarm on Wayne Morse." An Eisenhower delegate to the 1952 Republican National Convention, Morse later broke with the President. He styled himself first an independent and later a Democrat. Now he is half of the Democrats' margin of control in the Senate, which is divided 49-47.

Republicans speak of him as a "political turncoat," and one newspaper letter writer wondered, "How can anyone trust Morse again?" Wyatt, the GOP state chairman, said "few men in public life have been wrong so many times as Sen. Morse."

Some opponents think he can be beaten, especially in view of the state's strong leaning toward Eisenhower. People say "I like Ike" without associating him with the issues that stand out in the Oregon campaign. It may not be that easy for the Republican candidate for the Senate.

Gov. Paul Patterson, before his death in February, was the state GOP's top choice to oppose Morse. Patterson's successor, Elmo E. Smith, 46, also a Republican, is an early favorite in the November election against either Robert C. Holmes, Astoria radio station operator, or Lew Wallace, Portland insurance agent, who are seeking the Democratic nomination.

If he is to take on Morse, McKay must first eliminate former state Sen. Phil Hitchcock, an official of Lewis and Clark College in Portland, and dairyman-legislator Elmer Deetz of Canby in the Republican primary. The Democratic senator has negligible opposition.

The GOP presidential primary will be a tame affair, with Eisenhower as the only candidate for Oregon's 18 delegates. Neither Adlai Stevenson or Sen. Estes Kefauver entered the Democratic preferential poll.

While there's a pro-Stevenson look to the candidates for 16 Democratic delegates, the slate could go to the winner of a write-in vote. Kefauver was unopposed in Oregon four years ago. The proximity to the 68-delegate California primary June 5 prompted both the Tennessee senator and Stevenson to bypass this state.

TV Brings Mine Shift Changes

BARNESLEY, England, March 27 (AP)—Shifts at the big Wharncliffe colliery were changed today to meet coal miners' demands that the work day fit in with television programs.

Mine officials agreed to start the late shift one hour earlier "so the men can get home in time to have a glass of beer, watch television and see their children before they go to bed."

British TV networks open at 3 p.m. and normally shut down about 11 p.m.

Eden Government Accepts Malta Plan

LONDON, March 27 (AP) — The Eden government today accepted a plan to make the Mediterranean island of Malta a part of Britain and to give it three seats in the British House of Commons.

The integration plan has been under study for more than a year. Maltese voters recently approved it in a referendum.

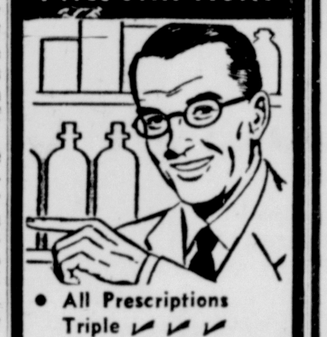

Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd announced the government's approval at the start of a debate in Commons. Malta now is a crown colony with its own Parliament. It is the site of one of Britain's largest naval bases.

The government is expected to make a more specific statement of acceptance later. An enabling bill would have to pass through Parliament to increase the number of Commons seats. Malta would have to alter its present constitution or vote a new one.

TIDY EGG DYEING — Every child loves to color Easter eggs, and finds this almost exciting as hunting them the next morning. A little foresight will prevent much of the colorful splatter. If Mom, will lay in a supply of paper plates, she can add to the children's fun and save herself a lot of work. Paper plates under the dye cups will protect the table. Absorbent plates can be used to hold the colored eggs until they dry. Gaily decorated paper plates, too, make colorful Easter baskets, easy to make. Just fold plates into basket shape, with the patterned side out, fasten with staples or tape, and staple paper handles into place. Handles may be cut out of other plates, or made of plain cardboard, wound with ribbon or colored tape.

TIDY EGG DYEING — Every child loves to color Easter eggs, and finds this almost exciting as hunting them the next morning. A little foresight will prevent much of the colorful splatter. If Mom, will lay in a supply of paper plates, she can add to the children's fun and save herself a lot of work. Paper plates under the dye cups will protect the table. Absorbent plates can be used to hold the colored eggs until they dry. Gaily decorated paper plates, too, make colorful Easter baskets, easy to make. Just fold plates into basket shape, with the patterned side out, fasten with staples or tape, and staple paper handles into place. Handles may be cut out of other plates, or made of plain cardboard, wound with ribbon or colored tape.

Cancer Drive Office Opens

An office for the Cancer Crusade of 1956 was opened yesterday on the first floor of the Union Street county building, William Walsh, Allegany County chairman, announces.

Mrs. Anthony Cioni is in charge of the office, Walsh said.

Current planning calls for the county campaign during the last two weeks of April. During that time, it is proposed to conduct a one-day, house-to-house canvass, Walsh added.

Assisting in organizing the campaign is an advisory committee composed of Robert E. Barnard, J. Glenn Beall, Leslie J. Clark, Albert D. Darby Jr., James S. Getty, Eugene T. Gunning, C. Walter Haschert, Oscar Lashley, Mrs. Elizabeth Nave, Morton W. Peskin Jr., and Miss Mary Margaret Smith.

Post Office To Get New Type Of Pen

Within six months the old style, scratchy, hand-dip pens in the local Post Office will be a thing of the past.

Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon has been notified by the Post Office Department that competitive bids have gone out for the manufacturing of 500,000 ball point pens and 500,000 refills for use in Post Offices throughout the country. Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield has ordered the change-over.

Commenting on the theft of these new pens, Summerfield noted that it was held to a minimum in the majority of post offices. Few individuals will risk up to a year in prison or up to a $500 fine to steal a pen labeled, "Property of the United States Post Office Department" and held to the desk by a metal chain.

W.Va. Pulp Mill Earnings Up

NEW YORK (AP)—Sales and earnings of West Virginia Pulp & Paper Co. for the first four months of the current fiscal year were up sharply from a year ago, David L. Luke Jr. told the annual stockholders' meeting yesterday.

Luke reported earnings of $5,977,000 equal to $1.17 per common share on sales of $62,503,000 in the four months ended Feb. 29. This compared with earnings of $3,816,000 or 74 cents a share on sales of $55,071,000 in the same four months a year ago.

Basic reasons for the improved results, said Luke, are the company's investment in physical plant and its improved product pattern.

"Increased production of high quality products is flowing smoothly from new and modern equipment made possible by these investments," he said.

The company's current expansion program calls for expenditure of more than 100 million dollars for plant improvements through 1959.

Historical Observance Plans Advanced Here

The Retail Merchants Association "Old Fashioned Days" bargain event next month will serve as a kickoff for a larger historical, week-long observance planned here next year.

Members of the Cumberland Historical Committee meeting yesterday in the office of Mayor Roy W. Eves, also will keep an eye on other April events looking toward including them in next year's proposed celebration. These include the Allegany County Historical Society exhibition April 10-15; the Junior Association of Commerce Home Show, April 25-28; and the Garden Club Community Flower Show April 30-May 1. The merchants' Old Fashioned or Gay 90s bargain event is scheduled April 27-30.

Harry I. Stegmaier, coordinator of the committee which was formulated by resolution of the Mayor and Council and appointed by Mayor Eves, called for another meeting of the group about June 1 to evaluate the result of "Old Fashioned Days" and set plans in motion for next year's celebration featuring some theme from the Cumberland area's historical past. This will be a cooperative effort between the historical committee and merchants.

Stegmaier named a committee composed of J. William Hunt, Mrs. Esther Rosenbaum, A. T. Brust, C. William Gilchrist and T. J. Klauenberg to look into finances and a theme.

Two of the aims of the group are to foster continued interest in the area's history by keeping last year's Bicentennial spirit alive, and to promote Cumberland.

Also attending yesterday's meeting were Frank A. Martin of the Merchants' Association; Nelson W. Russler and Paul M. Shircliff of the South Cumberland Business Men's Association; Oscar Lashley of the Jaycees, and Roy Knotts, representing radio and Cumberland Concert Band. Those serving with Stegmaier have been designated as sub-committee chairmen.

Daylight Savings time first was tried by the United States 140 years after an American named Benjamin Franklin first proposed the plan.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Can You Keep A Promise?

You can be pretty as a picture, fresh as a daisy, and bright as a dollar, at first, second, and even third glance. But afterward, something far more is expected of you. An atractive appearance seems to make a promise—that you'd be interesting to know. How well can you keep that promise?

Beauty attracts attention, but only a well-rounded personality can hold it. As critically as you inspect your appearance in a mirror, make a searching inspection of your personality. Estimate how fascinating you are as a conversationalist, how good as a listener, how sympathetic as a companion. A good evaluation of how well stocked is your storehouse of knowledge and activities which concern others provides valuable clues. For a measuring stick, ask yourself these questions:

1. Did you finish reading a book within the last four weeks?
2. Can you list the names of four books, with their authors, that have been popular during the last six months?
3. Do you read the world and national news as well as the local news in the paper, and the editorials, too, every day?
4. Do you know something about at least two contemporary painters?
5. Have you really listened to modern music and tried to understand it?
6. Do you make it your business to keep abreast of fashions and women's activities in the paper and magazines?
7. Are you constantly learning something new about developments in science?

Historical Observance Plans Advanced Here

The Retail Merchants Association "Old Fashioned Days" bargain event next month will serve as a kickoff for a larger historical, week-long observance planned here next year.

Members of the Cumberland Historical Committee meeting yesterday in the office of Mayor Roy W. Eves, also will keep an eye on other April events looking toward including them in next year's proposed celebration. These include the Allegany County Historical Society exhibition April 10-15; the Junior Association of Commerce Home Show, April 25-28; and the Garden Club Community Flower Show April 30-May 1. The merchants' Old Fashioned or Gay 90s bargain event is scheduled April 27-30.

Harry I. Stegmaier, coordinator of the committee which was formulated by resolution of the Mayor and Council and appointed by Mayor Eves, called for another meeting of the group about June 1 to evaluate the result of "Old Fashioned Days" and set plans in motion for next year's celebration featuring some theme from the Cumberland area's historical past. This will be a cooperative effort between the historical committee and merchants.

Stegmaier named a committee composed of J. William Hunt, Mrs. Esther Rosenbaum, A. T. Brust, C. William Gilchrist and T. J. Klauenberg to look into finances and a theme.

Two of the aims of the group are to foster continued interest in the area's history by keeping last year's Bicentennial spirit alive, and to promote Cumberland.

Also attending yesterday's meeting were Frank A. Martin of the Merchants' Association; Nelson W. Russler and Paul M. Shircliff of the South Cumberland Business Men's Association; Oscar Lashley of the Jaycees, and Roy Knotts, representing radio and Cumberland Concert Band. Those serving with Stegmaier have been designated as sub-committee chairmen.

Daylight Savings time first was tried by the United States 140 years after an American named Benjamin Franklin first proposed the plan.

Influenza has been known since about 400 B. C.

Mad Crow Won't Talk

WINNIPEG, Man., March 27 (AP) —Klaus the crow is so mad he can't talk.

My, he had fun for a week. Escaped from his owner and flew around the suburbs cussing residents. Fooled housewives by imitating a cat. Then, while he was engaged in a small soliloquy, a girl slipped up and nabbed him.

Said Mrs. Edith Rasmussen, his owner: "He's mad. Oh he's mad. He refuses to talk."

Mad Crow Won't Talk

WINNIPEG, Man., March 27 (AP) —Klaus the crow is so mad he can't talk.

My, he had fun for a week. Escaped from his owner and flew around the suburbs cussing residents. Fooled housewives by imitating a cat. Then, while he was engaged in a small soliloquy, a girl slipped up and nabbed him.

Said Mrs. Edith Rasmussen, his owner: "He's mad. Oh he's mad. He refuses to talk."

County Board Handles Many Routine Affairs

A number of routine matters were handled by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday.

Bonds of J. Wallace Close, this city, tax collector for District 1, and Paul R. LaRue of Frostburg, tax collector for District 2.

Fred W. Jenkins, operator of the Astor Cab Company, appeared to complain that the County Welfare Department refuses to pay for ambulance service afforded to patients on the welfare rolls. Getty, attorney to the board, was instructed to see if an agreement could be reached.

A letter was received from Clarence Lippel, attorney for Blair V. Welsh, District 13, complaining about Welsh's tentative assessment. As planned his merchandise not manufactured by him is now subject to state taxes of $49,435 and county taxes of $29,660. His application for a change was referred to Supervisor of Assessments Somerville Nicholson.

Commissioner C. N. Wilkinson said that Edward Shaffer of Bowling Green had complained to him about water in the road in the vicinity of the Potomac Park Church.

The price of $533 submitted by the Sweene Paint and Supply Company, 301 Baltimore Avenue, for paint to paint the fence at Sylvan Retreat was accepted by the county board. Also accepted was an offer from the Sterling Electric Company, Inc., 100 North Centre Street, of $270 for a water cooler for the second floor of the Union Street County Building.

Holy Week Inspires Men To Higher Things

This is Holy Week, in commemoration of thrilling events which have survived in the minds of men for 2,000 years. They are the essence of that hope in the human heart upon which Christendom is based, a hope which touches lives and lifts them above the level of animals. It is the factor which has elevated Western civilization to the highest ethical peak of all times.

A group of peoples, subscribing more or less to the teachings of Jesus, has given the world a greater conscience than it has ever had before. That conscience and nothing else is the light of humankind. From it will spring better relationships of man to man and a better way of life or the world will grope on in darkness.

Economic and political ideologies contend, often at the point of the sword, with claims of the betterment of the human race but the claims are all delusive, a tragic fraud, unless they are based upon the concepts which sprang from the great heart of Jesus.

The world today is in a time of sorrows, intemperance, profligacy and bestial inhumanities. Times will improve only as the individual supplants hate with love, greed with service and envy with humility. There is no other way.

Jesus pointed this out with imperishable deeds in a golden week that had in its span triumph, degradation and the greatest of all victories. The memory of that week should inspire all men to higher ideals and more noble living.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

It Goes To Show

The wise politicians did not say before the event that Kefauver would make a good showing in Minnesota. Of course, in due time everybody became a wise man but the truth is that few expected Stevenson to be trounced and none announced it. Perhaps an exception may be made of Harry Truman. He gave every appearance of having turned his back on Adlai Stevenson. He was particularly annoyed with Stevenson's gentle opposition to the Eisenhower administration. Harry Truman likes his campaigns to be tough and even ugly. He is a fighting cock. It was Kefauver who took the hint from Truman. He attacked the Eisenhower administration with all he had.

If it is true, as the politicians now say, that Kefauver was the choice of Republicans who voted in the Democratic primaries in Minnesota where such nonsense is permissible, then the matter is very serious, indeed. For it means that in the farm areas, Republicans are registering a protest vote. If this is so, they picked the punching Kefauver rather than the sotto voce Stevenson.

But what is it a protest vote against? The professional politicians are too ready to say that it is a protest against the Benson agricultural policies, particularly against flexible rather than rigid price supports and it may be so. But the Kefauver victory is also a defeat for the governor, Orville Freeman, and for Senator Hubert Humphrey who favored Stevenson but opposed Benson farm policies. In a measure, the vote for Kefauver would be indicative that the opposition was to a system rather than to some particular policy. Certainly, the Freeman-Humphrey group in Minnesota has never supported that undefinable Eisenhower "middle-of-the-road" theory of government. It is therefore glib to say that what the Minnesotans protested against was the Benson agricultural policy, although this may have been a factor. It is usual for experts to try to make every situation clear and simple, when actually it is confused and complex.

Minnesotans have established themselves as independent folk, not too readily corralled by politicians. They are farmers who have a socialistic tradition in politics but a private enterprise tradition in economics. It was in this state that the only Farmer-Labor party developed into a political entity of major significance. The men who go to the Senate from Minnesota are often regarded as radicals compared to the liberals from New York or the conservatives from the South. Hubert Humphrey, one of the current senators from Minnesota, who is often regarded as a radical, is a former college professor, a man of excellent education with a profound knowledge of American institutions. Despite Minnesota's reputation for radicalism, the Communists have not been able to establish themselves in that state as successfully as they have in many others, particularly New York or California. The prevailing Scandinavian origin of much of the population of this state explains the independence, the seriousness and the land-loving character of its people.

And no matter how you look at it, the Kefauver vote in the Democratic primaries is a protest against things as they are. The Democrats voted against the Democratic leadership in the state; the Republicans who voted in the Democratic primaries voted against the Eisenhower administration. Kefauver attacked both the Democratic leadership and the Eisenhower administration. Stevenson was supported by the Democratic leadership and he is soft on the Eisenhower administration, particularly the foreign policy. Nevertheless, it is too simple and probably untrue to reach the conclusion that the Kefauver vote was a protest against both the Democratic leadership in the state and the Eisenhower administration in the nation. It may be true that many Minnesotans just preferred Kefauver to Stevenson.

In New Hampshire, there was a similar protest against the politics but not the policies of the Eisenhower administration. And both these primaries, analyzed in terms of popular responses and public relations rather than in terms of candidates, give the impression that it is necessary to revise the general judgment that the election was settled when Ike said he would run again. Maybe the picture is not as clear as all that at this point. The Republicans can lose from over-confidence; they did in 1948. Therefore it is still possible that in 1956 we may have a real campaign, a fighting campaign with Harry Truman on the podium.

Tax Agents Had Many Roadblocks Put In Path Of Texas Tax Probe

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — If you want to investigate income-tax irregularities, you should investigate a doctor, a small businessman, or an unimportant congressman. Don't tangle with a big coropration or a potent congressman.

That is the advice I would give Internal Revenue agents who want to go places.

To illustrate, here is the careful chronological record of Internal Revenue agents in Texas when they tried to investigate the taxes of the biggest contracting firm in the South, Brown and Root, which built the Corpus Christi Naval Air Base, the Marshall Dam, part of the present U.S. naval and air bases in Spain and whose partners dominate Texas Eastern Pipeline, Algonquin Pipeline and Texas Eastern Production.

On June 22, 1942, the tax agents first met in San Antonio. Those present were George K. De Shazo, W. C. Jackson, E. C. Werner and William Belaote. They worked under Special Agent James C. Cooner in charge of intelligence in Texas and Louisiana. Later, Agents A. I. Smith, William Malone and Alexander Morris joined in the case.

On October 23, after many weeks of digging, the agents discovered evidence of a false profit distribution by a Brown and Root subsidiary, Victoria Gravel Co., in the form of fictitious lawyer's fees to Edgar Monteith, which he used for contributions to the Lyndon Johnson senatorial campaign, as previously reported in this column.

Brown And Root Complain

Oct. 20 — A call came to Dallas from Commissioner of Internal Revenue Guy Helvering in Washington that Brown and Root complained the tax probe was hindering their war work. The agents were instructed to hold up their investigation pending further word from Washington. The complaint in Washington came immediately after Brown and Root's attorney, Edgar Monteith, was interviewed.

November 24 — Special Agent in Charge Cooner received a message from Chief of Intelligence W. H. Woolf in Washington, "not to openly resume the investigation until you get the go-ahead from Washington."

December 17 — Dallas was instructed to send the entire Brown and Root file to Norman Cann, assistant commissioner of internal revenue in Washington.

Jan. 12, 1943 — Agents W. C. Jackson, J. M. Cooner and E. C. Werner were ordered to Washington and held three days of conferences with Cann and Chief of Intelligence Woolf.

January 14—Assistant Commissioner Cann instructed the agents to proceed with the Brown and Root case but to be "diplomatic." They were to interview no outside persons, only those within the Brown and Root organization.

June 23 — After six months of "diplomatic" investigation, during which various irregularities, previously reported in this column, were uncovered, the agents were again summoned to Washington. They were finally instructed to complete their investigation of Brown and Root's books for the years 1940-41 and to make such inquiries as necessary for a complete investigation.

Morgenthau Says Go-Ahead

During the ensuing months, revenue agents began digging into the big bonuses paid to Brown and Root executives, either just prior to or during the Lyndon Johnson primary. Bonuses to executives are a frequent device used by corporations to mask campaign contributions; and the agents were interested in the following large bonuses:

W. A. Woolsey, vice president, $45,000. L. T. Bolin, vice president, $25,000; J. M. Dellinger, vice president, $28,800; Robert Thomas, vice president, $35,000; J. T. Duke, treasurer, $17,000.

The agents reported to Washington that although these bonuses were authorized under minutes of a company meeting December 27, 1940, they had evidence that the minutes were fraudulent and had been written afterward in order to justify withdrawals for the Johnson campaign.

On November 3, '43, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, a conscientious public servant, sent word that the Brown and Root case was to be "handled as any other case" and the "investigation was to proceed in any manner the agents saw fit."

After this, the agents dug deeper into the evidence of political contributors.

December 22 — The Dallas office was warned that Washington was complaining again.

Roosevelt Says No

January 1, 1944—J. M. Cooner warned agents to be "extra tactful because of complaints which were being registered in Washington relative to investigation of political donations."

January 13 — Congressman Johnson and Alvin Wirtz, attorney for Brown and Root, called on President Roosevelt.

At 4:30 p. m. of the same day, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Irey phoned Dallas that he had to be at the White House at 10 next morning to give a full report to the President, as a result of the meeting with Johnson and Wirtz. Irey wanted a summary of the Brown and Root case teletyped to him by 9 a. m. January 14.

January 14 —At 7:50 the chief points in the Brown and Root case were teletyped to Washingon. However, the telepype broke down and part of the information was telephoned direct to Irey with his secretary, Mrs. Williams, taking notes. Irey informed Dallas that one criticism made in Washington was that tax agents had been making inquiries about Speaker Sam Rayburn. This was not the fact.

January 17 — A new agent was sent to Dallas from Atlanta and after a series of conferences, the Brown and Root assessment was scaled down from $1,062,184.87 plus a fraud penalty of $531,092.45, to $372,000. Proposals for prosecution were dropped.

NOTE — Senator Johnson, in intervening at the White House, probably did what many senators would do for a potent constituent who had helped their campaign. The irony is that having been the victim of the high cost of a Senate primary, the senator now opposes regulation of campaign contributions in primaries.

Incipient Resistance To Kremlin Seems Underway

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—An incipient resistance to the established government in Soviet Russia seems to be under way. It may not spell revolution the day after tomorrow but it can in the not far distant future alter the whole course of modern history.

For public opinion—a phrase that may not mean the same thing in America as it does inside the Soviet Union—is asserting itself. It is back of the recent change of tactics by the Kremlin rulers in telling the people that Stalin was a criminal.

Considered Public Opinion

Public opinion has forced the change. Stalin himself had a healthy respect for public opinion. He was able to deceive it and mould it. The late Harry Hopkins, who went to Moscow in 1945 as a personal representative of President Roosevelt, once told Stalin that public opinion in America didn't favor an indefinite continuance of lend-lease. Stalin, according to Robert Sherwood's biography of Hopkins, made the comment that he had to be mindful of "public opinion," too. Whereupon, as Hopkins looked skeptical, the Russian dictator smilingly assured him that there was a public opinion in Soviet Russia and it had to be taken into account or he would not be able to remain in power.

Public opinion in the Soviet Union today centers on economic discontent. Farmers are dissatisfied. Workers are dissatisfied. The professionally educated people are dissatisfied. Students are showing a rebellious mood. The simplest wants of the people go unfilled. The pressure of all this has been making itself felt.

The Kremlin rulers have had to meet it. They think they have found a scapegoat. They are trying to blame it all on Stalin and they are dependent on the "hard core" Communists now to persuade the people that Stalin's policies are to blame for their present plight.

This is the kind of thing that can snowball. For the Communist party after all is a minority in Soviet Russia and when it seeks in a bewildered manner to convince all the people that they must retain confidence in the very men who were associated with Stalin and still are in power—Khrushchev, Bulganin, Malenkov, Mikoyan, and the rest—it does not come as a plausible argument.

Weakening Of Authority

Having revealed that they are panicky in trying to stem the tide of popular discontent, they probably will encounter more instead of less resistance. It doesn't necessarily mean armed revolt or palace conspiracies right away to seize power. But it means a weakening of authority all along the line.

American policy for the last several months may prove to have been fortuitously wise. President Eisenhower's willingness to go to Geneva to proclaim in dramatic fashion America's peaceful intentions and her readiness to reduce armament may have deprived the Soviet rulers of their trump card—a manufactured fear of military attack on the Russian people by the Western governments.

Obviously the easiest way to unite any people and make them forget internal troubles is to keep them alarmed about external matters. Recently the United States and her allies have managed to get across to the people of Soviet Russia the concept of a peaceful intent. The Kremlin rulers have allowed just enough news of this attitude and texts of Eisenhower speeches to be printed in the Soviet press as to remove the fear of war.

With less fear of war and external trouble, there ensues a natural concentration on domestic ailments. That's the most effective piece of strategy the West could have employed. Now, with all attention focused on the people's problems as contrasted with the government's dilemmas — that is the Communist party's own contradictory policies and programs — the chances of strengthening the forces of revolution grow better every day.

For the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics is, after all, a federation of many small countries with many different nationalities. As a writer in the London Times put it:

Opportunity Increasing

"The Soviet empire is the outcome of a policy of colonial expansion steadily pursued over the past 300 years. From being a small military state in the 16th Century, Russia has become the possessor of one-seventh of the globe. Most of this expansion was accomplished under the czars, but territorial aggrandisement has been one of the few features of the czarist regime maintained by the Communists."

Now if some of the fiery enthusiasm to emancipate peoples from "colonialism" — which unfortunately has helped to weaken the French and British empires at a time when these allies need solidarity on the economic and military side—were to be applied to stimulate the different nationalities behind the iron curtain where tyrannical colonialism exists, many ways of provoking revolution would be opened up. Also it would bring nearer the day when the colonies under Western rule could be gradually given their independence with a feeling that they wouldn't be gobbled up by Communist agents and infiltrators.

There is something stirring inside Soviet Russia which is increasing the opportunities to draw the people of Soviet Russia away from their criminal leaders.

How It Happened

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Arthur "Bugs" Baer is the originator of some of America's most-often-repeated sayings. In the absence of his regular column—"Baering Down On the News"—because of his illness, The Cumberland News is presenting Baer's own explanations of how he came to coin some of the more famous of his sayings.

"Willie Keeler hit 'em where they ain't. Babe Ruth hits them where they're never gonna be."

When they asked Willie Keeler how he got so many safe singles and doubles he published his classic prescription, "I hit 'em where they ain't."

Willie was probably the greatest precision batsman of all time, and invented the useful scoring tactic of hitting behind the base runner which was regulation until 20 years later when a man named Babe Ruth came along.

Babe didn't know anything about place hits, sacrifices or squeezes. The only thing Babe ever squeezed was the handle of that big bat.

And he swung all the way from the hinges like dutch doors on a saloon.

It was after the Babe had hung up his 60-homer record that I added the codicil to Keeler's last batting will and testament.

I watched the Red Sox right fielder follow the arch of a Ruth wallopus far over his noggin and pivot slowly until his back was towards home plate.

The Babe was jogging on a testimonial ankle excursion as the right fielder watched the ball drop into the upper stands. So it took two great batters, 30 years of the national pastime and a happy flash to evolve the paragraph:

"Willie Keeler hit 'em where they ain't. Babe Ruth hits them where they're never gonna be."

The Cobweb Curtain

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK—(INS)—While the Russians were beaming their most radiant smiles at Geneva, and agreeing to an agenda that included freer communication through the Iron Curtain, Hungarian security police were busy building what Fred Thompson of Crusade for Freedom has named the Cobweb Curtain.

It is a diabolical blanket of strong but almost invisible wires spread in front of the normal barbed wire entanglements which restrain the residents of the "Peoples' Republic" from spilling into Austria in a human tidal wave. Confirmation has come to the Crusade for Freedom from three escapees who were forced to work on this pitiless new trap at different places along the border.

30 Feet Wide

The Cobweb Curtain is strung among stubby poles which rise 11 inches from the ground. The mess of fine wire, completely invisible at night, when most escapees attempt to cross to freedom, is 30 feet wide. Not even Jesse Owens in his prime could have leaped it, much less frightened people staggering along under their possessions with eyes glued only on the electrified barbed wire—which can be cut by insulated pliers.

A pressure of anything over eight pounds on the fine wire will touch off land mines in that vicinity, killing or maiming those who sought "freer communication." The efficiency of the device was tested by chasing dogs and rabbits across the lethal wires.

Cobweb Curtains have been raised at two of the busiest crossing points, Maria Liget and Hegyeschalom, also atKoszeg, Sopronkovsed and Agfalva. Laborers on the job were especially trained at Nemetboly Technical School.

Curtains And Curtains

There are curtains and curtains, and one of them can be our own Refugee Relief Act of 1953. It states that no visa may be issued to a refugee unless complete information concerning the applicant's history covering the two years preceding the application is made available. This material is scrutinized by the CIA and the State Department. If the applicant passes muster he must then be sponsored by an American citizen who pledges a home and job for him upon arrival.

Last month a Russian soldier named Victor Semenovich Ilyinsky defected and reported to one of the relief agencies that he had served in Korea in Red Chinese uniform, along with other Russians. He was an airman. The International Institute of Jersey City, one of many organizations working to resettle immigrants in the U. S., points out that Ilyinsky (though the bearer of tremendous tidings that should rock U. N.) would not be permitted to enter the U. S. even if he had a sponsor.

"Where would he obtain his two-year record?" the institute's recording secretary asks. "Could he write to the minister of police in Russia?"

No Answer

For some reason, Nikita Khruschchev hasn't replied to a cablegrammed question sent to him last week by Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, Poland's last free premier. It read: "When you condemn the wrongdoing to the Communist party in the U.S.S.R. by Stalin I ask you if you are ready to condemn also the wrongdoing by communism to Poland and other iron curtain countries and to agree to demands by President Eisenhower for the liberation of captive nations?"

Cat's got Nikky's tongue.

Tranquilizing Drugs May Boost Morale In Senile

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many men and women have their hands full caring for an elderly parent along with their own children. Some are senile and ought to be hospitalized but, for various reasons, the family prefers to keep them home. These oldsters require more attention than three lively youngsters because old people are likely to wander off, slip on a rug, or neglect personal habits.

The problem is not as difficult when Grandpa retains his mental faculties. Even so, his interests usually are narrowed and fixed habits make him stubborn and unreasonable. Recent events are easily forgotten but Gramp is able to talk for hours about incidents that took place 20 years ago.

The older individual in good health is not in need of medical treatment. Periodic physical examinations are in order to check on heart, kidneys, and other vital organs. The oldster thrives on a well balanced diet rich in proteins, minerals, and vitamins. An attempt should be made to help him overcome worry, fear, grief, and hostility.

It is here that some of the new tranquilizing agents are helpful. They will not act as a substitute for attention and affection from children and friends but are valuable when the aging person becomes senile and begins to lose his mental faculties.

When this stage is reached he may exhibit undesirable personality traits such as seclusiveness, irritability, or depression. Hoarding is common and he is suspicious of his family. Grandpa goes about the neighborhood saying his children are plotting against him or that he is neglected, ill fed, or tortured. Such tales are embarrassing because some neighbors are bound to believe it.

As the senile process advances, Gramp gets more careless in eating, dressing, and personal habits. His tie and vest are spotted with gravy and he wears the same shirt for weeks; he becomes disoriented, is confused mentally, and is plagued with hallucinations and phobias. When his moral judgment fails he may commit serious antisocial acts.

In the past there was little to offer except sanitarium or nursing home care. The tranquilizing drugs may change the situation. Their use quiets down the oldster so that he can be handled at home. In some instances, he begins to show interest in the surroundings and in household chores.

There are many of these drugs on the market. A recent report from Michigan tells of gratifying results from the use of reserpine and ritalin — alone or in combination, on 215 senile women who had been institutionalized for many years. Restlessness and aggressiveness decreased in 75 per cent and there was improvement in personal appearance and eating, sleeping, and toilet habits.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

Boston society folk, especially those living on or adjacent to Louisburg Square, dwell in a world of their own. One old blueblood, for instance, 85 if she was a day, insisted on swimming at Bar Harbor far into September, though the ocean water by that time was absolutely freezing. Her friend saw her bobbing about in the surf one day when a big seal splashed right by her. When she finished her swim she was neither frieghtened nor even titillated by the unusual experience—just very, very angry. "That Mr. Abernathy," she grumbled, "gets ruder every day. He swam right by me and never even said 'good morning'."

Maurice Rosenfeld says he saw Greta Garbo in a dream one night, sprinkling grass seed in her hair. "What's the big idea?" demanded Maurice. "Go away," ordered Greta. "I vant to be a lawn."

Maurice says he woke up at this juncture—not a minute too soon, if you ask us.

Holy Week Inspires Men To Higher Things

This is Holy Week, in commemoration of thrilling events which have survived in the minds of men for 2,000 years. They are the essence of that hope in the human heart upon which Christendom is based, a hope which touches lives and lifts them above the level of animals. It is the factor which has elevated Western civilization to the highest ethical peak of all times.

A group of peoples, subscribing more or less to the teachings of Jesus, has given the world a greater conscience than it has ever had before. That conscience and nothing else is the light of humankind. From it will spring better relationships of man to man and a better way of life or the world will grope on in darkness.

Economic and political ideologies contend, often at the point of the sword, with claims of the betterment of the human race but the claims are all delusive, a tragic fraud, unless they are based upon the concepts which sprang from the great heart of Jesus.

The world today is in a time of sorrows, intemperance, profligacy and bestial inhumanities. Times will improve only as the individual supplants hate with love, greed with service and envy with humility. There is no other way.

Jesus pointed this out with imperishable deeds in a golden week that had in its span triumph, degradation and the greatest of all victories. The memory of that week should inspire all men to higher ideals and more noble living.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

It Goes To Show

The wise politicians did not say before the event that Kefauver would make a good showing in Minnesota. Of course, in due time everybody became a wise man but the truth is that few expected Stevenson to be trounced and none announced it. Perhaps an exception may be made of Harry Truman. He gave every appearance of having turned his back on Adlai Stevenson. He was particularly annoyed with Stevenson's gentle opposition to the Eisenhower administration. Harry Truman likes his campaigns to be tough and even ugly. He is a fighting cock. It was Kefauver who took the hint from Truman. He attacked the Eisenhower administration with all he had.

If it is true, as the politicians now say, that Kefauver was the choice of Republicans who voted in the Democratic primaries in Minnesota where such nonsense is permissible, then the matter is very serious, indeed. For it means that in the farm areas, Republicans are registering a protest vote. If this is so, they picked the punching Kefauver rather than the sotto voce Stevenson.

But what is it a protest vote against? The professional politicians are too ready to say that it is a protest against the Benson agricultural policies, particularly against flexible rather than rigid price supports and it may be so. But the Kefauver victory is also a defeat for the governor, Orville Freeman, and for Senator Hubert Humphrey who favored Stevenson but opposed Benson farm policies. In a measure, the vote for Kefauver would be indicative that the opposition was to a system rather than to some particular policy. Certainly, the Freeman-Humphrey group in Minnesota has never supported that undefinable Eisenhower "middle-of-the-road" theory of government. It is therefore glib to say that what the Minnesotans protested against was the Benson agricultural policy, although this may have been a factor. It is usual for experts to try to make every situation clear and simple, when actually it is confused and complex.

Minnesotans have established themselves as independent folk, not too readily corralled by politicians. They are farmers who have a socialistic tradition in politics but a private enterprise tradition in economics. It was in this state that the only Farmer-Labor party developed into a political entity of major significance. The men who go to the Senate from Minnesota are often regarded as radicals compared to the liberals from New York or the conservatives from the South. Hubert Humphrey, one of the current senators from Minnesota, who is often regarded as a radical, is a former college professor, a man of excellent education with a profound knowledge of American institutions. Despite Minnesota's reputation for radicalism, the Communists have not been able to establish themselves in that state as successfully as they have in many others, particularly New York or California. The prevailing Scandinavian origin of much of the population of this state explains the independence, the seriousness and the land-loving character of its people.

And no matter how you look at it, the Kefauver vote in the Democratic primaries is a protest against things as they are. The Democrats voted against the Democratic leadership in the state; the Republicans who voted in the Democratic primaries voted against the Eisenhower administration. Kefauver attacked both the Democratic leadership and the Eisenhower administration. Stevenson was supported by the Democratic leadership and he is soft on the Eisenhower administration, particularly the foreign policy. Nevertheless, it is too simple and probably untrue to reach the conclusion that the Kefauver vote was a protest against both the Democratic leadership in the state and the Eisenhower administration in the nation. It may be true that many Minnesotans just preferred Kefauver to Stevenson.

In New Hampshire, there was a similar protest against the politics but not the policies of the Eisenhower administration. And both these primaries, analyzed in terms of popular responses and public relations rather than in terms of candidates, give the impression that it is necessary to revise the general judgment that the election was settled when Ike said he would run again. Maybe the picture is not as clear as all that at this point. The Republicans can lose from over-confidence; they did in 1948. Therefore it is still possible that in 1956 we may have a real campaign, a fighting campaign with Harry Truman on the podium.

Tax Agents Had Many Roadblocks Put In Path Of Texas Tax Probe

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — If you want to investigate income-tax irregularities, you should investigate a doctor, a small businessman, or an unimportant congressman. Don't tangle with a big coropration or a potent congressman.

That is the advice I would give Internal Revenue agents who want to go places.

To illustrate, here is the careful chronological record of Internal Revenue agents in Texas when they tried to investigate the taxes of the biggest contracting firm in the South, Brown and Root, which built the Corpus Christi Naval Air Base, the Marshall Dam, part of the present U.S. naval and air bases in Spain and whose partners dominate Texas Eastern Pipeline, Algonquin Pipeline and Texas Eastern Production.

On June 22, 1942, the tax agents first met in San Antonio. Those present were George K. De Shazo, W. C. Jackson, E. C. Werner and William Belaote. They worked under Special Agent James C. Cooner in charge of intelligence in Texas and Louisiana. Later, Agents A. I. Smith, William Malone and Alexander Morris joined in the case.

On October 23, after many weeks of digging, the agents discovered evidence of a false profit distribution by a Brown and Root subsidiary, Victoria Gravel Co., in the form of fictitious lawyer's fees to Edgar Monteith, which he used for contributions to the Lyndon Johnson senatorial campaign, as previously reported in this column.

Brown And Root Complain

Oct. 20 — A call came to Dallas from Commissioner of Internal Revenue Guy Helvering in Washington that Brown and Root complained the tax probe was hindering their war work. The agents were instructed to hold up their investigation pending further word from Washington. The complaint in Washington came immediately after Brown and Root's attorney, Edgar Monteith, was interviewed.

November 24 — Special Agent in Charge Cooner received a message from Chief of Intelligence W. H. Woolf in Washington, "not to openly resume the investigation until you get the go-ahead from Washington."

December 17 — Dallas was instructed to send the entire Brown and Root file to Norman Cann, assistant commissioner of internal revenue in Washington.

Jan. 12, 1943 — Agents W. C. Jackson, J. M. Cooner and E. C. Werner were ordered to Washington and held three days of conferences with Cann and Chief of Intelligence Woolf.

January 14—Assistant Commissioner Cann instructed the agents to proceed with the Brown and Root case but to be "diplomatic." They were to interview no outside persons, only those within the Brown and Root organization.

June 23 — After six months of "diplomatic" investigation, during which various irregularities, previously reported in this column, were uncovered, the agents were again summoned to Washington. They were finally instructed to complete their investigation of Brown and Root's books for the years 1940-41 and to make such inquiries as necessary for a complete investigation.

Morgenthau Says Go-Ahead

During the ensuing months, revenue agents began digging into the big bonuses paid to Brown and Root executives, either just prior to or during the Lyndon Johnson primary. Bonuses to executives are a frequent device used by corporations to mask campaign contributions; and the agents were interested in the following large bonuses:

W. A. Woolsey, vice president, $45,000. L. T. Bolin, vice president, $25,000; J. M. Dellinger, vice president, $28,800; Robert Thomas, vice president, $35,000; J. T. Duke, treasurer, $17,000.

The agents reported to Washington that although these bonuses were authorized under minutes of a company meeting December 27, 1940, they had evidence that the minutes were fraudulent and had been written afterward in order to justify withdrawals for the Johnson campaign.

On November 3, '43, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, a conscientious public servant, sent word that the Brown and Root case was to be "handled as any other case" and the "investigation was to proceed in any manner the agents saw fit."

After this, the agents dug deeper into the evidence of political contributors.

December 22 — The Dallas office was warned that Washington was complaining again.

Roosevelt Says No

January 1, 1944—J. M. Cooner warned agents to be "extra tactful because of complaints which were being registered in Washington relative to investigation of political donations."

January 13 — Congressman Johnson and Alvin Wirtz, attorney for Brown and Root, called on President Roosevelt.

At 4:30 p. m. of the same day, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Irey phoned Dallas that he had to be at the White House at 10 next morning to give a full report to the President, as a result of the meeting with Johnson and Wirtz. Irey wanted a summary of the Brown and Root case teletyped to him by 9 a. m. January 14.

January 14 —At 7:50 the chief points in the Brown and Root case were teletyped to Washingon. However, the telepype broke down and part of the information was telephoned direct to Irey with his secretary, Mrs. Williams, taking notes. Irey informed Dallas that one criticism made in Washington was that tax agents had been making inquiries about Speaker Sam Rayburn. This was not the fact.

January 17 — A new agent was sent to Dallas from Atlanta and after a series of conferences, the Brown and Root assessment was scaled down from $1,062,184.87 plus a fraud penalty of $531,092.45, to $372,000. Proposals for prosecution were dropped.

NOTE — Senator Johnson, in intervening at the White House, probably did what many senators would do for a potent constituent who had helped their campaign. The irony is that having been the victim of the high cost of a Senate primary, the senator now opposes regulation of campaign contributions in primaries.

Incipient Resistance To Kremlin Seems Underway

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—An incipient resistance to the established government in Soviet Russia seems to be under way. It may not spell revolution the day after tomorrow but it can in the not far distant future alter the whole course of modern history.

For public opinion—a phrase that may not mean the same thing in America as it does inside the Soviet Union—is asserting itself. It is back of the recent change of tactics by the Kremlin rulers in telling the people that Stalin was a criminal.

Considered Public Opinion

Public opinion has forced the change. Stalin himself had a healthy respect for public opinion. He was able to deceive it and mould it. The late Harry Hopkins, who went to Moscow in 1945 as a personal representative of President Roosevelt, once told Stalin that public opinion in America didn't favor an indefinite continuance of lend-lease. Stalin, according to Robert Sherwood's biography of Hopkins, made the comment that he had to be mindful of "public opinion," too. Whereupon, as Hopkins looked skeptical, the Russian dictator smilingly assured him that there was a public opinion in Soviet Russia and it had to be taken into account or he would not be able to remain in power.

Public opinion in the Soviet Union today centers on economic discontent. Farmers are dissatisfied. Workers are dissatisfied. The professionally educated people are dissatisfied. Students are showing a rebellious mood. The simplest wants of the people go unfilled. The pressure of all this has been making itself felt.

The Kremlin rulers have had to meet it. They think they have found a scapegoat. They are trying to blame it all on Stalin and they are dependent on the "hard core" Communists now to persuade the people that Stalin's policies are to blame for their present plight.

This is the kind of thing that can snowball. For the Communist party after all is a minority in Soviet Russia and when it seeks in a bewildered manner to convince all the people that they must retain confidence in the very men who were associated with Stalin and still are in power—Khrushchev, Bulganin, Malenkov, Mikoyan, and the rest—it does not come as a plausible argument.

Weakening Of Authority

Having revealed that they are panicky in trying to stem the tide of popular discontent, they probably will encounter more instead of less resistance. It doesn't necessarily mean armed revolt or palace conspiracies right away to seize power. But it means a weakening of authority all along the line.

American policy for the last several months may prove to have been fortuitously wise. President Eisenhower's willingness to go to Geneva to proclaim in dramatic fashion America's peaceful intentions and her readiness to reduce armament may have deprived the Soviet rulers of their trump card—a manufactured fear of military attack on the Russian people by the Western governments.

Obviously the easiest way to unite any people and make them forget internal troubles is to keep them alarmed about external matters. Recently the United States and her allies have managed to get across to the people of Soviet Russia the concept of a peaceful intent. The Kremlin rulers have allowed just enough news of this attitude and texts of Eisenhower speeches to be printed in the Soviet press as to remove the fear of war.

With less fear of war and external trouble, there ensues a natural concentration on domestic ailments. That's the most effective piece of strategy the West could have employed. Now, with all attention focused on the people's problems as contrasted with the government's dilemmas — that is the Communist party's own contradictory policies and programs — the chances of strengthening the forces of revolution grow better every day.

For the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics is, after all, a federation of many small countries with many different nationalities. As a writer in the London Times put it:

Opportunity Increasing

"The Soviet empire is the outcome of a policy of colonial expansion steadily pursued over the past 300 years. From being a small military state in the 16th Century, Russia has become the possessor of one-seventh of the globe. Most of this expansion was accomplished under the czars, but territorial aggrandisement has been one of the few features of the czarist regime maintained by the Communists."

Now if some of the fiery enthusiasm to emancipate peoples from "colonialism" — which unfortunately has helped to weaken the French and British empires at a time when these allies need solidarity on the economic and military side—were to be applied to stimulate the different nationalities behind the iron curtain where tyrannical colonialism exists, many ways of provoking revolution would be opened up. Also it would bring nearer the day when the colonies under Western rule could be gradually given their independence with a feeling that they wouldn't be gobbled up by Communist agents and infiltrators.

There is something stirring inside Soviet Russia which is increasing the opportunities to draw the people of Soviet Russia away from their criminal leaders.

How It Happened

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Arthur "Bugs" Baer is the originator of some of America's most-often-repeated sayings. In the absence of his regular column—"Baering Down On the News"—because of his illness, The Cumberland News is presenting Baer's own explanations of how he came to coin some of the more famous of his sayings.

"Willie Keeler hit 'em where they ain't. Babe Ruth hits them where they're never gonna be."

When they asked Willie Keeler how he got so many safe singles and doubles he published his classic prescription, "I hit 'em where they ain't."

Willie was probably the greatest precision batsman of all time, and invented the useful scoring tactic of hitting behind the base runner which was regulation until 20 years later when a man named Babe Ruth came along.

Babe didn't know anything about place hits, sacrifices or squeezes. The only thing Babe ever squeezed was the handle of that big bat.

And he swung all the way from the hinges like dutch doors on a saloon.

It was after the Babe had hung up his 60-homer record that I added the codicil to Keeler's last batting will and testament.

I watched the Red Sox right fielder follow the arch of a Ruth wallopus far over his noggin and pivot slowly until his back was towards home plate.

The Babe was jogging on a testimonial ankle excursion as the right fielder watched the ball drop into the upper stands. So it took two great batters, 30 years of the national pastime and a happy flash to evolve the paragraph:

"Willie Keeler hit 'em where they ain't. Babe Ruth hits them where they're never gonna be."

The Cobweb Curtain

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK—(INS)—While the Russians were beaming their most radiant smiles at Geneva, and agreeing to an agenda that included freer communication through the Iron Curtain, Hungarian security police were busy building what Fred Thompson of Crusade for Freedom has named the Cobweb Curtain.

It is a diabolical blanket of strong but almost invisible wires spread in front of the normal barbed wire entanglements which restrain the residents of the "Peoples' Republic" from spilling into Austria in a human tidal wave. Confirmation has come to the Crusade for Freedom from three escapees who were forced to work on this pitiless new trap at different places along the border.

30 Feet Wide

The Cobweb Curtain is strung among stubby poles which rise 11 inches from the ground. The mess of fine wire, completely invisible at night, when most escapees attempt to cross to freedom, is 30 feet wide. Not even Jesse Owens in his prime could have leaped it, much less frightened people staggering along under their possessions with eyes glued only on the electrified barbed wire—which can be cut by insulated pliers.

A pressure of anything over eight pounds on the fine wire will touch off land mines in that vicinity, killing or maiming those who sought "freer communication." The efficiency of the device was tested by chasing dogs and rabbits across the lethal wires.

Cobweb Curtains have been raised at two of the busiest crossing points, Maria Liget and Hegyeschalom, also atKoszeg, Sopronkovsed and Agfalva. Laborers on the job were especially trained at Nemetboly Technical School.

Curtains And Curtains

There are curtains and curtains, and one of them can be our own Refugee Relief Act of 1953. It states that no visa may be issued to a refugee unless complete information concerning the applicant's history covering the two years preceding the application is made available. This material is scrutinized by the CIA and the State Department. If the applicant passes muster he must then be sponsored by an American citizen who pledges a home and job for him upon arrival.

Last month a Russian soldier named Victor Semenovich Ilyinsky defected and reported to one of the relief agencies that he had served in Korea in Red Chinese uniform, along with other Russians. He was an airman. The International Institute of Jersey City, one of many organizations working to resettle immigrants in the U. S., points out that Ilyinsky (though the bearer of tremendous tidings that should rock U. N.) would not be permitted to enter the U. S. even if he had a sponsor.

"Where would he obtain his two-year record?" the institute's recording secretary asks. "Could he write to the minister of police in Russia?"

No Answer

For some reason, Nikita Khruschchev hasn't replied to a cablegrammed question sent to him last week by Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, Poland's last free premier. It read: "When you condemn the wrongdoing to the Communist party in the U.S.S.R. by Stalin I ask you if you are ready to condemn also the wrongdoing by communism to Poland and other iron curtain countries and to agree to demands by President Eisenhower for the liberation of captive nations?"

Tranquilizing Drugs May Boost Morale In Senile

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many men and women have their hands full caring for an elderly parent along with their own children. Some are senile and ought to be hospitalized but, for various reasons, the family prefers to keep them home. These oldsters require more attention than three lively youngsters because old people are likely to wander off, slip on a rug, or neglect personal habits.

The problem is not as difficult when Grandpa retains his mental faculties. Even so, his interests usually are narrowed and fixed habits make him stubborn and unreasonable. Recent events are easily forgotten but Gramp is able to talk for hours about incidents that took place 20 years ago.

The older individual in good health is not in need of medical treatment. Periodic physical examinations are in order to check on heart, kidneys, and other vital organs. The oldster thrives on a well balanced diet rich in proteins, minerals, and vitamins. An attempt should be made to help him overcome worry, fear, grief, and hostility.

It is here that some of the new tranquilizing agents are helpful. They will not act as a substitute for attention and affection from children and friends but are valuable when the aging person becomes senile and begins to lose his mental faculties.

When this stage is reached he may exhibit undesirable personality traits such as seclusiveness, irritability, or depression. Hoarding is common and he is suspicious of his family. Grandpa goes about the neighborhood saying his children are plotting against him or that he is neglected, ill fed, or tortured. Such tales are embarrassing because some neighbors are bound to believe it.

As the senile process advances, Gramp gets more careless in eating, dressing, and personal habits. His tie and vest are spotted with gravy and he wears the same shirt for weeks; he becomes disoriented, is confused mentally, and is plagued with hallucinations and phobias. When his moral judgment fails he may commit serious antisocial acts.

In the past there was little to offer except sanitarium or nursing home care. The tranquilizing drugs may change the situation. Their use quiets down the oldster so that he can be handled at home. In some instances, he begins to show interest in the surroundings and in household chores.

There are many of these drugs on the market. A recent report from Michigan tells of gratifying results from the use of reserpine and ritalin — alone or in combination, on 215 senile women who had been institutionalized for many years. Restlessness and aggressiveness decreased in 75 per cent and there was improvement in personal appearance and eating, sleeping, and toilet habits.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

Boston society folk, especially those living on or adjacent to Louisburg Square, dwell in a world of their own. One old blueblood, for instance, 85 if she was a day, insisted on swimming at Bar Harbor far into September, though the ocean water by that time was absolutely freezing. Her friend saw her bobbing about in the surf one day when a big seal splashed right by her. When she finished her swim she was neither frieghtened nor even titillated by the unusual experience—just very, very angry. "That Mr. Abernathy," she grumbled, "gets ruder every day. He swam right by me and never even said 'good morning'."

Maurice Rosenfeld says he saw Greta Garbo in a dream one night, sprinkling grass seed in her hair. "What's the big idea?" demanded Maurice. "Go away," ordered Greta. "I vant to be a lawn."

Maurice says he woke up at this juncture—not a minute too soon, if you ask us.

Co. Gets Budget Requests

The Allegany County Commissioners received 14 of the 16 department budget requests yesterday for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1956 and ending June 30, 1957.

Largest budget submitted yesterday was $359,246 with which to operate the County Roads Department. J. Walker Chapman, roads supervisor, said the request is about the same as the current budget.

Maintenance of equipment will cost $47,700; maintenance of roads, $76,000; labor and salaries will cost $213,726. Labor costs for the 57 men in the department will be $168,606 while salaried employes will receive a total of $45,120. There are 13 salaried employes comprising seven foremen, two clerks, one master mechanic, one utility man, one assistant supervisor and one supervisor, Chapman.

Provision for the Flat Rock Bridge and Locust Grove Bridge were made in the budget. The Flat Rock Bridge work will cost $12,000 and the Locust Grove project, $12,000.

The Civil Defense unit for the county requested $11,200. This is down slightly from the current budget. The Extension Service asked $800 for Japanese beetle eradication work. This is down slightly. The county's share of the State Department of Forests and Park budget will be $6,352.

The court stenographers office budget will be $5,200. The Board of Election Supervisors asked $33,653. Salaries of this unit will total $16,146, poll workers, $9,988; election expense, $3,450; and balance is for miscellaneous costs.

The Health Department budget will be $39,883.16, which is slightly higher than the current amount. Salaries of $31,135.29 will be paid by the county and the state will match the amount. Salaries of $1,547.88 which are paid entirely by the county are in the budget and $7,200 is listed for expenses for the department.

The budget of Sylvan Retreat, the county mental institution, will be $123,981.36 with $78,981.36 for salaries of the superintendent and attendants and $45,000 for expense of operating the institution. The County Infirmary budget totals $210,000 with $158,000 for salaries and $52,000 for expenses. The County Home budget is $56,200 with $37,200 for salaries and $19,000 for expenses.

The Assessing Department budget is $35,277.22 with $26,362.22 for salaries and $8,915 for expenses. The state pays $11,425 of the salaries of the assessors. The State's Attorney's office submitted a budget for expenses of $3,315.91. A budget request for salaries of the staff will be submitted later.

The Allegany County Welfare Board budget for the coming fiscal year will be $183,568.86, an increase of approximately $12,000. The welfare costs are as follows: Old age assistance, $53,676.40; aid to dependent children, $14,900; aid to the needy blind, $5,552.06; aid to the permanently and totally disabled, $39,055.38; general public assistance, $72,329.24; board of dependent children, $18,420 and administrative expenses, $29,635.78.

Convicts Work 5 Days

OSSINING, N. Y., March 27 (AP)—Sing Sing Prison convicts are going on a five-day week. Warden Wilfred L. Denno announced today that a 3½ hour Saturday work period hereafter will be eliminated.

Area Highway Work Sought By Two Groups

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners heard two groups of petitioners yesterday on roads conditions.

The largest group was from the Mexico Farms section. They asked that something be done about the North Branch Road to Mexico Farms Road, installation of a traffic light at the intersection of Mexico Farms Road and the Oldtown Road and also something be done about a ditch from the Mexico Farms Road to the Potomac River to provide drainage for the section.

The commissioners said they would have a survey made of the road proposal and instruct their attorney, Gorman E. Getty, to supply the petitioners with right-of-way forms to be filled out by property owners abutting on the roadway.

The group resides in a locality near the new Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant at North Branch.

Following this group were several women from Harold Avenue in LaVale who asked that something be done about the thoroughfare. They said the necessary right-of-ways have been submitted and the commissioners said they would take the matter into consideration.

Virgil Barnes requested a license to sell junk at a location in Bowman's Addition. The commissioners instructed J. Walker Chapman, roads supervisor, to check the site to determine if the requirements for operation of a junk yard would be met. The county law provides that a junk yard must be located a certain distance from a public road and also various conditions as to operation of a junk yard are imposed.

Grass Fires Checked By Local Companies

City firemen yesterday extinguished two grass fires. No damage was reported.

Central and East Side firemen were called to the rear of 1708 Bedford Street when a grass blaze broke out.

South End extinguished a grass blaze in the 700 block of Montreal Avenue yesterday. Firemen were on the scene for only 11 minutes.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 27 (INS)—The name Carol Haney became almost a household word when she appeared in "Pajama Game" on Broadway. Now she'll continue her good work in the motion picture version in the same role she created on Broadway.

Carol checks in at Warners on a loanout from MGM. Her director, Stanley Donen, has also been borrowed from Leo the Lion. Jack Warner and Producer Freddie Brisson made the deal which pleases Carol very much. It's her first picture since she lost her baby in November.

Doris Day goes into the top femme role after she finishes "Julie."

Ray Milland's ears must have been burning over the raves Maureen O'Hara did over him as a director. "I've never worked with a more sympathetic director or one more painstaking," Maureen told me. She's worked with some top ones. So take a bow, Ray.

But, Maureen tells me, they were so long on location abroad with "Lisbon," she's decided that she wants to stay right here in Hollywood for her next films.

"I've been on the Columbia payroll for two weeks," the redhead told me, "and I start 'Flight' for them right after Easter. Following this I go to U-I for 'Dark Waters,' a straight drama with nary a pirate nor a hoopskirt." She was referring to all the costume movie's she's made.

Mabelle Webb, the young and vivacious mother of Clifton, would not tell her age at her birthday party last Saturday. And why should she? Or any other woman for that matter.

Clifton invited 24 of Mabelle's closest friends to a surprise dinner for her. Jimmy Cagney, one of her favorites, and I discussed "The Last Hurrah," the Edwin O'Connor novel which I just finished reading. I told Jimmy if he were a little older he would be great for the role of the Boston political boss.

"Nothing to keep them from making the character younger," he answered.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Marisa Pavan and Jean Pierre Aumont took their blood tests last week preparatory to filing for their marriage license. They're so much in love, and weren't two feet apart at the Jules Steins' party.

Mrs. Milton Greene, an individualist herself, was at the party, but Marilyn Monroe had a night off. The Greenes have now gone with her to Sun Valley.

Linda Christian, so blonde I had to look twice to recognize her, was with Edmund Purdom. Roz Russell, Freddie Brisson, the Kirk Douglases, greeted Susan.

Donald O'Connor and Gloria Noble have set May 8 as their wedding date.

Had luncheon with Mrs. Helen Stevick publisher of the Champagne News Gazette. She's the mother of Mrs. Mike Chinigo. Mrs. Stevick is here with Mrs. Georgie Morrissey, also of Champagne.

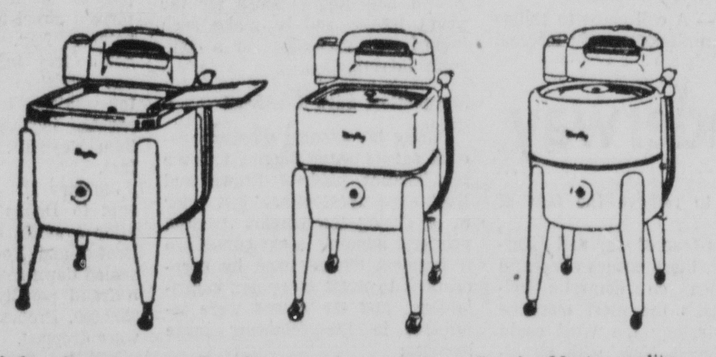

Tomorrow night the Ames brothers open at the Cocoanut Grove and they'll have a full house. They're very popular.

Top song writers all over the country have sent a recommendation to elect Wolfie Gilbert to head ASCAR. The election is Thursday.

Co. Gets Budget Requests

The Allegany County Commissioners received 14 of the 16 department budget requests yesterday for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1956 and ending June 30, 1957.

Largest budget submitted yesterday was $359,246 with which to operate the County Roads Department. J. Walker Chapman, roads supervisor, said the request is about the same as the current budget.

Maintenance of equipment will cost $47,700; maintenance of roads, $76,000; labor and salaries will cost $213,726. Labor costs for the 57 men in the department will be $168,606 while salaried employes will receive a total of $45,120. There are 13 salaried employes comprising seven foremen, two clerks, one master mechanic, one utility man, one assistant supervisor and one supervisor, Chapman.

Provision for the Flat Rock Bridge and Locust Grove Bridge were made in the budget. The Flat Rock Bridge work will cost $12,000 and the Locust Grove project, $12,000.

The Civil Defense unit for the county requested $11,200. This is down slightly from the current budget. The Extension Service asked $800 for Japanese beetle eradication work. This is down slightly. The county's share of the State Department of Forests and Park budget will be $6,352.

The court stenographers office budget will be $5,200. The Board of Election Supervisors asked $33,653. Salaries of this unit will total $16,146, poll workers, $9,988; election expense, $3,450; and balance is for miscellaneous costs.

The Health Department budget will be $29,883.16, which is slightly higher than the current amount. Salaries of $31,135.29 will be paid by the county and the state will match the amount. Salaries of $1,547.88 which are paid entirely by the county are in the budget and $7,200 is listed for expenses for the department.

The budget of Sylvan Retreat, the county mental institution, will be $123,981.36 with $78,981.36 for salaries of the superintendent and attendants and $45,000 for expense of operating the institution. The County Infirmary budget totals $210,000 with $158,000 for salaries and $52,000 for expenses. The County Home budget is $56,200 with $37,200 for salaries and $19,000 for expenses.

The Assessing Department budget is $35,277.22 with $26,362.22 for salaries and $8,915 for expenses. The state pays $11,425 of the salaries of the assessors. The State's Attorney's office submitted a budget for expenses of $3,315.91. A budget request for salaries of the staff will be submitted later.

The Allegany County Welfare Board budget for the coming fiscal year will be $183,568.86, an increase of approximately $12,000. The welfare costs are as follows: Old age assistance, $53,676.40; aid to dependent children, $14,900; aid to the needy blind, $5,552.06; aid to the permanently and totally disabled, $39,055.38; general public assistance, $72,329.24; board of dependent children, $18,420 and administrative expenses, $29,635.78.

The sheriff's office requested the same sum as in the current budget and also asked that a third car be purchased for use by the office.

Convicts Work 5 Days

OSSINING, N. Y., March 27 (AP)—Sing Sing Prison convicts are going on a five-day week, Warden Wilfred L. Denno announced today that a 3½ hour Saturday work period hereafter will be eliminated.

Area Highway Work Sought By Two Groups

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners heard two groups of petitioners yesterday on roads conditions.

The largest group was from the Mexico Farms section. They asked that something be done about the North Branch Road to Mexico Farms Road, installation of a traffic light at the intersection of Mexico Farms Road and the Oldtown Road and also something be done about a ditch from the Mexico Farms Road to the Potomac River to provide drainage for the section.

The commissioners said they would have a survey made of the road proposal and instruct their attorney, Gorman E. Getty, to supply the petitioners with right-of-way forms to be filled out by property owners abutting on the roadway.

The group resides in a locality near the new Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant at North Branch.

Following this group were several women from Harold Avenue in LaVale who asked that something be done about the thoroughfare. They said the necessary right-of-ways have been submitted and the commissioners said they would take the matter into consideration.

Virgil Barnes requested a license to sell junk at a location in Bowman's Addition. The commissioners instructed J. Walker Chapman, roads supervisor, to check the site to determine if the requirements for operation of a junk yard would be met. The county law provides that a junk yard must be located a certain distance from a public road and also various conditions as to operation of a junk yard are imposed.

Grass Fires Checked By Local Companies

City firemen yesterday extinguished two grass fires. No damage was reported.

Central and East Side firemen were called to the rear of 1708 Bedford Street when a grass blaze broke out.

South End extinguished a grass blaze in the 700 block of Montreal Avenue yesterday. Firemen were on the scene for only 11 minutes.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 27 (INS)—The name Carol Haney became almost a household word when she appeared in "Pajama Game" on Broadway. Now she'll continue her good work in the motion picture version in the same role she created on Broadway.

Carol checks in at Warners on a loanout from MGM. Her director, Stanley Donen, has also been borrowed from Leo the Lion. Jack Warner and Producer Freddie Brisson made the deal which pleases Carol very much. It's her first picture since she lost her baby in November.

Doris Day goes into the top femme role after she finishes "Julie."

Ray Milland's ears must have been burning over the raves Maureen O'Hara did over him as a director. "I've never worked with a more sympathetic director or one more painstaking," Maureen told me. She's worked with some top ones. So take a bow, Ray.

But, Maureen tells me, they were so long on location abroad with "Lisbon," she's decided that she wants to stay right here in Hollywood for her next films.

"I've been on the Columbia payroll for two weeks," the redhead told me, "and I start 'Flight' for them right after Easter. Following this I go to U-I for 'Dark Waters,' a straight drama with nary a pirate nor a hoopskirt." She was referring to all the costume movie's she's made.

Mabelle Webb, the young and vivacious mother of Clifton, would not tell her age at her birthday party last Saturday. And why should she? Or any other woman for that matter.

Clifton invited 24 of Mabelle's closest friends to a surprise dinner for her. Jimmy Cagney, one of her favorites, and I discussed "The Last Hurrah," the Edwin O'Connor novel which I just finished reading. I told Jimmy if he were a little older he would be great for the role of the Boston political boss.

"Nothing to keep them from making the character younger," he answered.

Lauren Bacall left Bogey long enough to drop by. She said that Bogey is much better.

Catholic League Championship Game Is Set For April 4

SS. Peter-Paul Plays Keyser Cagers Here

Allegany High Gym Is Site; Elliott And Fahey To Officiate

The playoff game for the championship of the Catholic Youth Basketball League between St. Frances of Keyser and SS. Peter and Paul of Cumberland will be staged on the Allegany High School court Wednesday, April 4 at 7:30 p. m., it was announced last night by Ray Shaffer, basketball chairman of the Catholic Youth Organization's program.

Floyd "Pete" Elliott and Jim Fahey have been selected as the officials for the contest.

The game will bring to a close the tenth campaign of the Catholic Youth cage circuit. SS. Peter and Paul, coached by Robert Mattingly, will be making a bid for its third straight league title. St. Patrick's, of Cumberland, won the first two league championships and St. Michael's, of Frostburg, won five in a row before being dethroned by SS. Peter and Paul in 1954.

St. Frances, coached by "Dee" Cessare, made its debut in the seven-team league this season and captured first half honors by sweeping 12 games in a row. SS. Peter and Paul matched Keyser's performance by bagging 12 consecutive second half contests.

The teams are even-Stephen in their season series, each having won two games. St. Frances won the first half games by scores of 36-24 and 52-47 while SS. Peter and Paul squared accounts by taking the second half tilts, 42-40 and 45-23.

Byars Scores TKO In Boston Fight

Byars weighed 139½, Murphy 142½.

The fight marked the second straight verdict for Byars over Murphy and virtually knocked boxing's 1955 rookie of the year out of the main-event class.

Byars had decisioned Murphy in 10 rounds in their previous match five weeks ago. Both are Boston boys.

Warriors Win Before 11, 292

PHILADELPHIA, March 27 (AP)—The Philadelphia Warriors took a 2-1 lead in the Eastern Division best of five playoffs of the National Basketball Assn. tonight by downing Syracuse 119-96 at Convention Hall before 11,292, the largest crowd ever to watch the Warriors in Philadelphia.

Lightburn Favored

CLEVELAND, March 27 (AP)—Ludwig Lightburn, fifth-ranked lightweight contender, is a 2-1 favorite to defeat unranked L. C. Morgan in a 10 round bout at the Cleveland Arena tomorrow night.

The fight will be carried at 10 p. m. on the ABC television program.

MAY BE YANK LEFT FIELDER

PLAY of Norm Siebern in the training camp games has so impressed Manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees that word now is that the returning GI may open in left field for the A. L. champs. Siebern, a lefthanded hitter, is listed on the Denver roster. He started his career with McAlester in 1951, played for Joplin in 1952 and for Birmingham in 1953 before going into the service. He hit 21 home runs for Birmingham. (International)

Sports Grill

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, March 27—(INS)—Frank McGuire is a Brooklyn boy who made good in a big way teaching basketball to the students at the University of North Carolina.

Frank hasn't lost his Brooklyn accent, nor have some of the Brooklyn boys he induced to go south in search of an education.

Frank takes a slightly different slant than most college coaches. He likes all the professional rules, especially the one that requires a player to shoot within 24 seconds.

He thinks the man-to-man defense makes for better basketball and would like to eliminate zones.

He also thinks basketball is a "home" game and stresses the point that most teams, including his own, win at home.

This, of course, is no surprise to anybody. In fact, in all sports there have been charges that certain referees favored the home club in baseball, hockey, football and tennis.

It reminds us that, as a youngster still in college and playing baseball in the Southwest, we would be guests of the town if the home team beat us, but if we won we were run out of town. And, would you believe it, in some of those towns they had an open keg of beer at third base.

And, since we are in a penitential mood, we might as well admit that there were times when a fellow would slide into third, spot the beer keg and stay there, when he could have reached home easily.

On the other hand, we recall playing third base in a game at Taos, New Mexico,—now, we understand, a famous artists colony—where we were apprehensive about getting a shiv in the ribs when chasing a foul ball. That would be around 1907 or 1908.

And we recall a day when an aged Mexican sent us sprawling, then picked us up with the most sorrowful expression as he said "Lo siento mucho, perdoneme," which roughly meant that he was very sorry and that he should be pardoned.

We must admit that they were very polite in that most beautiful of All American valleys, even when they were knocking your brains out.

In listening to Frank McGuire, it seemed to us that he had much the same idea that some of our old Mexican friends had almost a half a century ago.

They loved you when they won and hated you when you came out on top. And we can vividly recall as if it were today instead of almost half a century ago, how we took it on the lam after pitching a 3-2 victory over Arroyo Hondo.

How we like to cut off those years!

Hinnant Stops Andrews In 8th

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 27 (AP)—Clarence Hinnant of Washington, D. C., stopped Al Andrews of St. Paul, Minn., in 2:46 of the eighth round of a scheduled ten-round fight tonight.

Each fighter weighed 163½ pounds. The card drew 1,678 fans who paid a gross gate of $3,642.

Brenner Signs To Produce TV Monday Fights

Teddy Is Selected From 75 Applicants

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP)—The Dumont Broadcasting Corp. today signed Teddy Brenner, a widely known matchmaker, to a two-year contract to produce Monday night television fights shortly after the court ruled against the former promoter's plea to stay in business.

State Supreme Court Justice Morris Eder dismissed a petition to set aside the State Athletic Commission's revocations of the licenses of the London Sporting Club and its president, Tex Sullivan. The judge also vacated a temporary stay which has permitted the club to continue to promote the TV bouts from the St. Nicholas Arena.

Succeeds Sullivan

Ted Cott, vice president and general manager of Dumont, said Sullivan will produce his last show next Monday, and Brenner will take over after that if the commission approves Brenner's license application tomorrow.

"We feel sure Brenner will meet the full approval of the commission," said Cott.

Brenner, former matchmaker for the Eastern Parkway Arena, is head of the newly formed New York Boxing Club Inc. Brenner's programs at the Parkway once were telecast by Dumont and later by ABC.

Bouts At St. Nick

He was selected from among 75 applicants, said Cott, adding that the bouts "will continue to be presented at St. Nicholas Arena although consideration is being given to other origination points."

Sullivan's club has been promoting the weekly boxing shows from St. Nicholas Arena since Feb. 29 under a temporary injunction restraining the commission from enforcing its ban. Since May 17, 1954, the club has promoted 97 consecutive Monday night programs over the Dumont network.

St. Louis Cards Notch 11th Win

Braves Obtain Only Two Hits In 2-1 Tilt

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 27 (AP)—Vinegar Bend Mizell, Luis Arroyo and Ellis Kinder teamed to hold the Milwaukee Braves to two hits today and help the St. Louis Cardinals to a 2-1 verdict for their 11th victory in 18 exhibitions.

Singles by Joe Cunningham and Bill Virdon, who had two hits each, and an infield out gave the Redbirds their winning margin in the seventh inning.

A pinch homer by Ken Boyer off Lew Burdette in the sixth matched a Milwaukee run scored in the fourth on the Braves' only hits, an infield tap by Bill Bruton and a long double by Johnny Logan.

Pistons Win, 93-84

St. Louis, March 28 (AP)—The Fort Wayne Pistons, behind George Yardley's 30 points and the team's deadly accuracy from the free throw line, evened their National Basketball Assn. playoff series by stopping the St. Louis Hawks 93-84 tonight, in a game spiced by a brief display of tempers.

Shuffle Loop Will Meet Friday Night To Plan Playoffs

Plans for the playoffs in the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League will be discussed at a meeting of team representatives Friday night at 8:30 o'clock at the Woodmen of the World Home.

Paul A. Stitcher, league secretary, announced yesterday that in event of ties among the first four teams in the National and American Divisions at the end of the regular season Thursday night the teams involved will battle it out in best-of-three games. At the present time three teams, Purple Heart Club, Green's Chevrolet and Fisher and Robinette are tied for first place in the National Division.

Goodfellowship Club, Fort Ashby VFW and Clingerman's are in a close race for fourth place in the American Division as the season swings into the final week.

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, March 27—(INS)—Frank McGuire is a Brooklyn boy who made good in a big way teaching basketball to the students at the University of North Carolina.

Frank hasn't lost his Brooklyn accent, nor have some of the Brooklyn boys he induced to go south in search of an education.

Frank takes a slightly different slant than most college coaches. He likes all the professional rules, especially the one that requires a player to shoot within 24 seconds.

He thinks the man-to-man defense makes for better basketball and would like to eliminate zones.

He also thinks basketball is a "home" game and stresses the point that most teams, including his own, win at home.

This, of course, is no surprise to anybody. In fact, in all sports there have been charges that certain referees favored the home club in baseball, hockey, football and tennis.

It reminds us that, as a youngster still in college and playing baseball in the Southwest, we would be guests of the town if the home team beat us, but if we won we were run out of town. And, would you believe it, in some of those towns they had an open keg of beer at third base.

And, since we are in a penitential mood, we might as well admit that there were times when a fellow would slide into third, spot the beer keg and stay there, when he could have reached home easily.

On the other hand, we recall playing third base in a game at Taos, New Mexico,—now, we understand, a famous artists colony—where we were apprehensive about getting a shiv in the ribs when chasing a foul ball. That would be around 1907 or 1908.

And we recall a day when an aged Mexican sent us sprawling, then picked us up with the most sorrowful expression as he said "Lo siento mucho, perdoneme," which roughly meant that he was very sorry and that he should be pardoned.

We must admit that they were very polite in that most beautiful of All American valleys, even when they were knocking your brains out.

In listening to Frank McGuire, it seemed to us that he had much the same idea that some of our old Mexican friends had almost a half a century ago.

They loved you when they won and hated you when you came out on top. And we can vividly recall as if it were today instead of almost half a century ago, how we took it on the lam after pitching a 3-2 victory over Arroyo Hondo.

How we like to cut off those years!

A pinch homer by Ken Boyer off Lew Burdette in the sixth matched a Milwaukee run scored in the fourth on the Braves' only hits, an infield tap by Bill Bruton and a long double by Johnny Logan.

Brenner Signs To Produce TV Monday Fights

Teddy Is Selected From 75 Applicants

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP)—The Dumont Broadcasting Corp. today signed Teddy Brenner, a widely known matchmaker, to a two-year contract to produce Monday night television fights shortly after the court ruled against the former promoter's plea to stay in business.

State Supreme Court Justice Morris Eder dismissed a petition to set aside the State Athletic Commission's revocations of the licenses of the London Sporting Club and its president, Tex Sullivan. The judge also vacated a temporary stay which has permitted the club to continue to promote the TV bouts from the St. Nicholas Arena.

Succeeds Sullivan

Ted Cott, vice president and general manager of Dumont, said Sullivan will produce his last show next Monday, and Brenner will take over after that if the commission approves Brenner's license application tomorrow.

"We feel sure Brenner will meet the full approval of the commission," said Cott.

Brenner, former matchmaker for the Eastern Parkway Arena, is head of the newly formed New York Boxing Club Inc. Brenner's programs at the Parkway once were telecast by Dumont and later by ABC.

Bouts At St. Nick

He was selected from among 75 applicants, said Cott, adding that the bouts "will continue to be presented at St. Nicholas Arena although consideration is being given to other origination points."

Sullivan's club has been promoting the weekly boxing shows from St. Nicholas Arena since Feb. 29 under a temporary injunction restraining the commission from enforcing its ban. Since May 17, 1954, the club has promoted 97 consecutive Monday night programs over the Dumont network.

Ashland College Nine To Play Six Games In This Section

Ohioans Open Card April 3 At Frostburg

Eagles Schedule 29 Games; Will Visit Keyser, Shepherd

Official opening of the baseball season in the tri-state area is set for Tuesday, April 3, when Ashland (Ohio) College, coached by George Donges, formerly of Meyersdale, Pa., plays a doubleheader with Frostburg State Teachers College in the Mountain City.

The Ohioans will be embarking on a 29-game schedule that day and they hope to play six games in five days. On April 4 and 5 they'll meet Potomac State College at Keyser while on April 6 and 7 Shepherd College's Rams will be met at Shepherdstown.

The 29 games, most Ashland ever has played, may be regarded by some as overly ambitious, but Coach Donges says the long slate is merely a precautionary measure against rain-outs and other spring time ills.

"We know we won't be able to play all those games," Donges reflects, "but the more we get in the better."

The Ashland College Eagles were scheduled to play three games in this section last year but they were "fogged out" of their game in Frostburg on April 13. They did manage to get in their two games with Potomac State and the schools split even in a pair of 3-1 battles.

Ashland plays 12 games in the Mid-Ohio Conference in which they have won the title four times. Under Donges the Eagles have posted an 86-30 record in the last six seasons. They logged 15-6 last year and reached the NCAA playoffs in 1954 with a 19-4 mark.

Other games on Ashland's schedule are with Kent State, Ohio University, Wilmington, Penn, Baldwin-Wallace, Findlay, Western Reserve, Bluffton, Ohio Northern, Cedarville, Heidelberg and Defiance.

The Red Sox scored two runs off Stuffel in the seventh and two more in the eighth, Jim Piersall driving in three of them.

Jones Beaned As Phils Lose To Brooklyn

Willie Knocked Down By Newcombe Pitch

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 27 (AP) — Willie Jones, Philadelphia third baseman, was beaned by Don Newcombe but not seriously injured as the Brooklyn Dodgers beat the Phillies 6-2 today.

The first batter up in the fifth inning, Jones was hit on the back of the left ear just below the helmet line and knocked down. He was able to walk away from the plate but when the ear began to bleed he was taken on a stretcher to a police car and removed to a hospital.

X-ray pictures showed no fracture and he remained conscious. However, doctors suggested he remain in the hospital as a precautionary measure.

Newcombe, pitching for the first time in 11 days, became the first Brooklyn hurler to go six innings. He allowed three hits including a homer by Marv Blaylock. Clem Labine yielded one in the last three frames.

Led by Carl Furillo with two singles and a double, the Dodgers reached Herm Wehmeier and bonus baby Tom Qualters for 14 hits.

Donald B. Lillis addressed the letter to the winner of last year's Kentucky Derby at his temporary quarters at Gulfstream Park in Florida.

Swaps arrived there from California two weeks ago.

"We expect many old friends of yours to be with us, including your amiable rival, Nashua," in the Campbell, Lillis wrote the horse.

"Since each of you holds a decision over the other, and you both are in active competition, we would like very much for you two to hold your 'rubber match' on neutral Maryland soil."

Swaps beat Nashua in the Derby last May and the tables were turned in a match race in Chicago in August.

Bowie hiked its contribution to the Campbell from $75,000 to $100,000 this year in hopes of attracting the likes of Nashua and Swaps. The Preakness at Pimlico is the only other $100,000 purse race in Maryland.

Nashua already is available in New York to run the mile and sixteenth of the Campbell after finishing a shocking fifth in the Gulfstream Park Handicap on March 17.

Lillis "told" Swaps in his letter that he was writing him directly because "the decision would seem to rest in part with you, since you are the one which would do the running."

He asked Swaps to "convey" the invitation to his owner, Rex Ellsworth, and trainer, Meshach Tenney.

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 27 (AP)—Don Hoak, Monte Irvin, Harry Chiti and rookie Richie Myers had three hits each today to trigger a 20-hit barrage by the Chicago Cubs in a 13-10 exhibition victory over the New York Giants.

Wes Westrum poled a three-run homer off the Cubs' Paul Minner in the second and Foster Castleman connected for a two-run homer in the sixth for the Giants, who counted 13 hits.

Bucs' Skinner, Up Again, Has Learned How To Bat

Bob Skinner

BY WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

FORT MYERS, Fla.—Two years ago the Pittsburgh Pirates took a look at Bob Skinner, a lanky first baseman who did well playing ball in the service after one season as a pro.

They liked what they saw and kept him on the roster. Bob played in 132 games for the Pirates that season but he couldn't hit major league pitching and he was sent to New Orleans last year.

Now he's back again, and because of a resounding batting mark in the Southern association, Bob has a good chance of sticking. He may not win the first baseman's job, but he will be given an outfield shot, too, because of his stickwork.

Son of a Spanish-French language teacher in LaJolla, Calif., Bob is one of the bigger men in the Pirate camp here. He stands 6 feet 4½ inches.

Last season he came up with a fine batting average which stood at .346 when he broke his wrist while sliding during a game on July Fourth.

Bob made up for lost time this winter by playing ball in the Dominican Republic. He swatted a neat .348 in 15 games and came to camp ready to make it stick this time.

BOB IS a graduate of LaJolla High where he played the outfield and made the all-league team. He also played some semi-pro ball in San Diego. Five clubs sought his services but Bob told all of them he wanted to go to college first.

Skinner did, entering San Diego Junior college. Here he played on the ball team, batted .411 and then succumbed to the pro ranks.

Scout Tom Downey, who had signed Paul Pettit for the Pirates, inked Bob to a contract and he was sent to Waco, Tex., in 1951. He spent part of that season with Mayfield in the Kitty league.

The service called and Skinner then went into the Marines. He stayed in two years, played ball at a San Diego Marine base, and hit .400 each year. His stay with Pittsburgh followed.

BOB IS married, has one son, Robert Mark, who is five months old. During the off season he works as an X-ray technician in a jet engine plant in San Diego.

Skinner's biggest thrill came during the 1954 season when he smashed a grand slam homer against the Dodgers, when they were fighting the Giants for the pennant.

Bob's nickname is "Sleepy" gained because of his narrow eye slits. His only other interest besides baseball are "automobiles, the hot-rod kind."

Tex Sullivan Loses Fight To Stay In Boxing

New Promoter May Stage Monday Bouts

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP)—Supreme Court Justice Morris Eder today dismissed a petition to set aside the State Athletic Commission's revocation of licenses issued the London Sporting Club and its president, Tex Sullivan.

The judge also vacated a temporary stay which has permitted the club to continue to operate.

Sullivan's club has been promoting the weekly boxing shows from St. Nicholas Arena since February 29 under a temporary injunction restraining the commission from enforcing its ban.

The licenses of the club, Sullivan, and former treasurer Willie Gilzenberg were revoked Feb. 28 after a hearing by the commission. The club and Gilzenberg also were fined $5,000 each, the maximum the commission can impose.

The effect of the court's decision is to bar the club from continuing to promote beyond next Monday's program unless it successfully obtains a new stay from the appellate division. Sullivan was expected to make the appeal.

If Sullivan is knocked out, the Monday night TV fights will be continued by DuMont through a new promoter, a network official said.

Ashland College Nine To Play Six Games In This Section

Ohioans Open Card April 3 At Frostburg

Eagles Schedule 29 Games; Will Visit Keyser, Shepherd

Official opening of the baseball season in the tri-state area is set for Tuesday, April 3, when Ashland (Ohio) College, coached by George Donges, formerly of Meyersdale, Pa., plays a doubleheader with Frostburg State Teachers College in the Mountain City.

The Ohioans will be embarking on a 29-game schedule that day and they hope to play six games in five days. On April 4 and 5 they'll meet Potomac State College at Keyser while on April 6 and 7 Shepherd College's Rams will be met at Shepherdstown.

The 29 games, most Ashland ever has played, may be regarded by some as overly ambitious, but Coach Donges says the long slate is merely a precautionary measure against rain-outs and other spring time ills.

"We know we won't be able to play all those games," Donges reflects, "but the more we get in the better."

The Ashland College Eagles were scheduled to play three games in this section last year but they were "fogged out" of their game in Frostburg on April 13. They did manage to get in their two games with Potomac State and the schools split even in a pair of 3-1 battles.

Ashland plays 12 games in the Mid-Ohio Conference in which they have won the title four times. Under Donges the Eagles have posted an 86-30 record in the last six seasons. They logged 15-6 last year and reached the NCAA playoffs in 1954 with a 19-4 mark.

Other games on Ashland's schedule are with Kent State, Ohio University, Wilmington, Penn, Baldwin-Wallace, Findlay, Western Reserve, Bluffton, Ohio Northern, Cedarville, Heidelberg and Defiance.

Pale Hose Lose To Boston, 7-2

TAMPA, Fla., March 27 (AP)—The Boston Red sox collected 10 hits and jumped on rookie pitchers Paul Stuffel and Lowe Wren for a 7-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox today.

Before Stuffel entered the game, Bill Fischer had worked on even terms with Boston's Frank Sullivan. The score was tied 2-2 when Fischer left. Ike Delock replaced Sullivan and hurled the last three innings.

The Red Sox scored two runs off Stuffel in the seventh and two more in the eighth, Jim Piersall driving in three of them.

Willie Knocked Down By Newcombe Pitch

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 27 (AP) — Willie Jones, Philadelphia third baseman, was beaned by Don Newcombe but not seriously injured as the Brooklyn Dodgers beat the Phillies 6-2 today.

The first batter up in the fifth inning, Jones was hit on the back of the left ear just below the helmet line and knocked down. He was able to walk away from the plate but when the ear began to bleed he was taken on a stretcher to a police car and removed to a hospital.

X-ray pictures showed no fracture and he remained conscious. However, doctors suggested he remain in the hospital as a precautionary measure.

Newcombe, pitching for the first time in 11 days, became the first Brooklyn hurler to go six innings. He allowed three hits including a homer by Marv Blaylock. Clem Labine yielded one in the last three frames.

Led by Carl Furillo with two singles and a double, the Dodgers reached Herm Wehmeier and bonus baby Tom Qualters for 14 hits.

Tex Sullivan Loses Fight To Stay In Boxing

New Promoter May Stage Monday Bouts

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP)—Supreme Court Justice Morris Eder today dismissed a petition to set aside the State Athletic Commission's revocation of licenses issued the London Sporting Club and its president, Tex Sullivan.

The judge also vacated a temporary stay which has permitted the club to continue to operate.

Sullivan's club has been promoting the weekly boxing shows from St. Nicholas Arena since February 29 under a temporary injunction restraining the commission from enforcing its ban.

The licenses of the club, Sullivan, and former treasurer Willie Gilzenberg were revoked Feb. 28 after a hearing by the commission. The club and Gilzenberg also were fined $5,000 each, the maximum the commission can impose.

The effect of the court's decision is to bar the club from continuing to promote beyond next Monday's program unless it successfully obtains a new stay from the appellate division. Sullivan was expected to make the appeal.

If Sullivan is knocked out, the Monday night TV fights will be continued by DuMont through a new promoter, a network official said.

Gulfstream Feature To Nance's Lad

Defeats All View By Three Lengths

MIAMI, Fla., March 27 (AP) — Nance's Lad, one of the better three-year-olds of 1955, made an auspicious seasonal debut by galloping to a three-length victory in the $4,000 Ocala Purse at Gulfstream Park today.

John Choquette sent Nance's Lad, the $2.80 choice of the 13,076 bettors and the sixth favorite to triumph in seven races, to the front at the start and he never was threatened. Choquette had him under restraint through the stretch while being timed in 1:11 2/5 for six furlongs.

Sam Tufano's All View rallied from ninth position on the backstretch to be second but could not get within striking distance of the winner. Kakuza Bridge, owned by W. P. Buyck and W. C. Prickett, was a half length behind All View while leading Mrs. E. K. Weil's Centenaire by the same margin.

Nance's Lad carried 121 pounds without apparent effort and indicated he will be a strong factor in the handicap ranks this year. The son of Slide Rule and Nance's Ace earned $124,225 last year while posting eight victories in 20 starts against many of the best racers in the nation.

Hottest Tip, Watch Those Red Sox Kids

Boston Is Loaded With Young Talent

By JACK HAND

SARASOTA, Fla., March 27 (AP)—The hottest tip in Florida this spring is "watch those Red Sox kids." The Boston club is loaded with young talent from the higher minors. Add Ted Williams and the ex-Washington trio of Bob Porterfield, Mickey Vernon and Johnny Schmitz and you can see why the Red Sox are the dark horse in the American League.

Should Be Better

If the "kids" all gel in 1956, this club could give the New York Yankees a run for the pennant. They finished fourth, only 12 games back and were running only 1½ games behind the Yanks as late as August 7 last season. The Sox definitely should be better.

Williams, of course, is the big man. For the first time since 1951, the thumper is going to be available for a full season. He spent 1952-53 in the Marines, broke his collar bone in 1954 and didn't decide to "unretire" until May 11 last season. Despite his late start last spring, he finished at .356, eight points over his lifetime average.

Except for his remarks about "gutless draft boards and baseball writers," Williams has been taking it easy in the exhibition games. Manager Mike (Pinky) Higgins expects to sharpen him for the season on the way home.

Hope Is Youth

Big as Williams is, the real Red Sox hope is youth. Rookies like shortstop Don Buddin, third baseman Frank Malzone and outfielder Marty Keough have been attracting Florida raves. Frank Baumann, the $125,000 bonus lefty, has thrown off arm trouble and started to blaze the ball.

The Red Sox wealth is in young pitchers. With older hands like Porterfield and Schmitz to balance the staff, Higgins can fire first rate pitching at the opposition every day.

Seven Races On TV

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP)—The Greater New York Assn. said today it had arranged with the Columbia Broadcasting System to televise seven stakes from New York tracks, including the $100,000-added Belmont Stakes June 16. The first TV race will be the Wood Memorial from Jamaica April 21.

Brown Hackle Wins 6th Race At Bowie

BOWIE, Md., March 27 (AP)—The New York stable of Cornelius V. Whitney, which didn't come out of South Carolina winter quarters until last week, continued to show extra-fit horses here today when Brown Hackle won the $4,000 Rockville Purse, featured sixth race.

Making his first start of the year, Brown Hackle displayed a lot of gameness in the stretch in winning by a neck from Edward F. O'Connell's Mary's Bubble while William Bishop's Andrew J. was third, only three parts of a length farther back.

Lonaconing, Md.

"Just like most folks, the only way I judge beer is by its taste. It has either got it or it hasn't. In my opinion, Old Export has got it. It's beer just the way beer should be. And I'm not alone on this opinion either. My friends feel the same way about Old Export. In fact, it was through them I became acquainted with this really fine beer. Yes, anyway you look at it, Old Export has got it . . . it's ALL beer!"

Let your own taste decide which beer you like. We'll wager right now if you are one who appreciates a real beer brewed to modern tastes—your No. 1 choice will be Old Export, too!

* ALL (ôl), adj.—means everything. ALL-beer—means beer that has everything it takes to make it a real beer. Nothing left out or substituted for. Syn. Old Export.

Gulfstream Feature To Nance's Lad

Defeats All View By Three Lengths

MIAMI, Fla., March 27 (AP) — Nance's Lad, one of the better three-year-olds of 1955, made an auspicious seasonal debut by galloping to a three-length victory in the $4,000 Ocala Purse at Gulfstream Park today.

John Choquette sent Nance's Lad, the $2.80 choice of the 13,076 bettors and the sixth favorite to triumph in seven races, to the front at the start and he never was threatened. Choquette had him under restraint through the stretch while being timed in 1:11 2/5 for six furlongs.

Sam Tufano's All View rallied from ninth position on the backstretch to be second but could not get within striking distance of the winner. Kakuza Bridge, owned by W. P. Buyck and W. C. Prickett, was a half length behind All View while leading Mrs. E. K. Weil's Centenaire by the same margin.

Nance's Lad carried 121 pounds without apparent effort and indicated he will be a strong factor in the handicap ranks this year. The son of Slide Rule and Nance's Ace earned $124,225 last year while posting eight victories in 20 starts against many of the best racers in the nation.

Hottest Tip, Watch Those Red Sox Kids

By JACK HAND

SARASOTA, Fla., March 27 (AP)—The hottest tip in Florida this spring is "watch those Red Sox kids." The Boston club is loaded with young talent from the higher minors. Add Ted Williams and the ex-Washington trio of Bob Porterfield, Mickey Vernon and Johnny Schmitz and you can see why the Red Sox are the dark horse in the American League.

Should Be Better

If the "kids" all gel in 1956, this club could give the New York Yankees a run for the pennant. They finished fourth, only 12 games back and were running only 1½ games behind the Yanks as late as August 7 last season. The Sox definitely should be better.

Williams, of course, is the big man. For the first time since 1951, the thumper is going to be available for a full season. He spent 1952-53 in the Marines, broke his collar bone in 1954 and didn't decide to "unretire" until May 11 last season. Despite his late start last spring, he finished at .356, eight points over his lifetime average.

Except for his remarks about "gutless draft boards and baseball writers," Williams has been taking it easy in the exhibition games. Manager Mike (Pinky) Higgins expects to sharpen him for the season on the way home.

Hope Is Youth

Big as Williams is, the real Red Sox hope is youth. Rookies like shortstop Don Buddin, third baseman Frank Malzone and outfielder Marty Keough have been attracting Florida raves. Frank Baumann, the $125,000 bonus lefty, has thrown off arm trouble and started to blaze the ball.

The Red Sox wealth is in young pitchers. With older hands like Porterfield and Schmitz to balance the staff, Higgins can fire first rate pitching at the opposition every day.

Seven Races On TV

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP)—The Greater New York Assn. said today it had arranged with the Columbia Broadcasting System to televise seven stakes from New York tracks, including the $100,000-added Belmont Stakes June 16. The first TV race will be the Wood Memorial from Jamaica April 21.

Brown Hackle Wins 6th Race At Bowie

BOWIE, Md., March 27 (AP)—The New York stable of Cornelius V. Whitney, which didn't come out of South Carolina winter quarters until last week, continued to show extra-fit horses here today when Brown Hackle won the $4,000 Rockville Purse, featured sixth race.

Making his first start of the year, Brown Hackle displayed a lot of gameness in the stretch in winning by a neck from Edward F. O'Connell's Mary's Bubble while William Bishop's Andrew J. was third, only three parts of a length farther back.

Lonaconing, Md.

"Just like most folks, the only way I judge beer is by its taste. It has either got it or it hasn't. In my opinion, Old Export has got it. It's beer just the way beer should be. And I'm not alone on this opinion either. My friends feel the same way about Old Export. In fact, it was through them I became acquainted with this really fine beer. Yes, anyway you look at it, Old Export has got it . . . it's ALL beer!"

Let your own taste decide which beer you like. We'll wager right now if you are one who appreciates a real beer brewed to modern tastes—your No. 1 choice will be Old Export, too!

W.Va. Citizens Being Urged To Mark Arbor Day

Observance Set For April 13

MORGANTOWN — Arbor Day, which will be celebrated this year on April 13, is a day that should be observed and enjoyed by all West Virginians, Phil Berthy, Extension forester at West Virginia University said. Recognizing the importance of the forests of West Virginia, the State Legislature passed a bill in 1955 which set aside the second Friday in April for the observance of Arbor Day.

"This special day, which gives recognition to one of our most valuable important natural resources, should be observed by all West Virginians," Berthy declared. "What could be more natural in a State where two out of every three acres of land are best suited for the production of forest crops, than to have a special Arbor day celebrated by all citizens of the state —young and old?"

Every school in the Mountain State should have an Arbor Day observance to focus the attention of the young people in those schools on the important part that trees will play in their futures, Berthy suggested. At the same time, adult organizations interested in community betterment and the welfare of the State should be interested in promoting Arbor Day observances.

A free publication entitled "A Program Guide to Arbor Day" (Miscellaneous Publication No. 25) is available, on request, from the Mailing Room, Agricultural Extension Service, West Virginia University, Morgantown, W. Va. This publication contains suggested program outlines and materials to be used in conducting Arbor Day programs.

He said that during War II he served in the underground and had to flee from Germany but was captured, subjected to merciless questioning and finally wound up in a concentration camp where nearly 300 persons were chosen by lot each day and sentenced to death. LONACONING—A beautiful Easter assembly was presented at Valley High School under the direction of Miss Esther Holzshu.

A choral reading was given by Mary McKenzie, Mary Raines, Emma McCarty, Shirley Kirkwood, Shirley Snyder, Gilberta Chappel, Judy Suder, Jean Ross, Janet Colmer, Helen Blubaugh, Judy Blucker, Louise Nightengale, Patty Broadwater, Louise Weimer, Doris Wilhelm, Alma Timney, Judy Lummer, Sally Broadwater, Doris Click, Carolyn Kirk, Louise Kyle, Edith Steele, Colleen Tharp, Ruth Lee and Ruth Dodds.

Bill Abbott, chairman, introduced the panel, Richard Grandstaff, who spoke on the "Norsemen", Jack Mongold, who spoke on "Greeks and their part in the Easter Festival"; Carole McFarlene, who spoke on "The Ressurrection"; and Martha Lewis, who spoke on "Present Day Easter Customs".

Darlene Stephen and Peggy Wills were commentators for the original style show, supervised by Miss Holzshu. A beautiful stage setting of a floral archway with colorful spotlighting made a glamorous fashion show of Valley models.

Models included Judy Gatrell, Darlene Getson, Donna Fazenbaker, Peggy Stakem, Anne Perry Chappel, Anne Lee Timney, Gail Broadwater, Marlene Kamp, Sue Lashbaugh, Catherine Stephen, Sandy Dillon, Sandy Carter, Donna Moffatt, Barbara Mowbray, Joan Stevenson and Susie Raynor.

Rae Ann Eichhorn danced a ballet number, "Melody of Love", with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Doris B. Mitchell to climax the style show. Four Senior judges who enacted a comedy role were Robert Robertson, Don Amoruso, Tom Schlereth and Darrell Merrill.

"Holy City" was a saxophone duet by Richard Grandstaff and Bonnie Neat. "Response No. 3" by Palastrina and "God So Loved the World" by John Steiner was sung by the Senior High choir with Mrs. Doris B. Mitchell directing and Joseph L. Derry, pianist.

Emma McCarty and Mary Kathryn Wilson assisted with the stage setting.

Mrs. Margaret Lee Hannon is chairman of the Queen's committee.

Refreshments were served at the party.

The Centennial committee expects in the near future to set up an office in the business district.

Contract Bridge

by Josephine Culbertson

SUPERB DEFENSE

EVEN IN the highest bridge circles one doesn't often see as fine defense as West produced in the following case.

North dealer.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

West made the routine lead from his holding, the fourth-best diamond. Declarer captured East's queen, studied the dummy, and then led a low club. Success looked impossible unless he found the club king right, in front of the queen, and in addition he would probably need a 3-3 break of the club suit.

Obviously, the clubs lay exactly as South hoped, but he still had to reckon with the superlative defense that West waged. West did not commit the too-common error of putting up the club king. He stopped to think. East had denied holding the diamond jack (by playing the queen); hence, if East couldn't get in to lead a diamond through the closd hand, prospects looked pretty bad for the defense. With dummy's major-suit holdings what they were, the only chance was obviously in the club suit.

So West not only declined to put up the club king—he carefully followed suit with the jack. Dummy's queen won and the club nine was returned. East, with the 10-8 equals, naturally covered, and declarer felt doom approaching. He could not afford to let the ten hold, since a diamond would be returned through the J-5, but going up with the club ace did no good either. West, noting East's cover of the club nine, decided that if declarer had a six-card club suit—i.e., if East was now out—there would be no way to defeat the contract, so he played East for an original holding of 10-8-3. On that basis, West threw the club king on the ace, and now declarer was helpless.

Contract Bridge

by Josephine Culbertson

SUPERB DEFENSE

EVEN IN the highest bridge circles one doesn't often see as fine defense as West produced in the following case.

North dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

West made the routine lead from his holding, the fourth-best diamond. Declarer captured East's queen, studied the dummy, and then led a low club. Success looked impossible unless he found the club king right, in front of the queen, and in addition he would probably need a 3-3 break of the club suit.

Obviously, the clubs lay exactly as South hoped, but he still had to reckon with the superlative defense that West waged. West did not commit the too-common error of putting up the club king. He stopped to think. East had denied holding the diamond jack (by playing the queen); hence, if East couldn't get in to lead a diamond through the closd hand, prospects looked pretty bad for the defense. With dummy's major-suit holdings what they were, the only chance was obviously in the club suit.

So West not only declined to put up the club king—he carefully followed suit with the jack. Dummy's queen won and the club nine was returned. East, with the 10-8 equals, naturally covered, and declarer felt doom approaching. He could not afford to let the ten hold, since a diamond would be returned through the J-5, but going up with the club ace did no good either. West, noting East's cover of the club nine, decided that if declarer had a six-card club suit—i.e., if East was now out—there would be no way to defeat the contract, so he played East for an original holding of 10-8-3. On that basis, West threw the club king on the ace, and now declarer was helpless.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

N G P D W H A E N H A G D H , S G H A P K
A T W A D G P K E N K P J T A — V P S A E K .

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: LIGHT QUIRKS OF MUSIC, BROKEN AND UNEVEN, MAKE THE SOUL DANCE UPON A JIG TO HEAVEN—POPE.

Stock Market Depressed By Weakness In Coppers

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP)—The stock market was pressed down today by weakness in the copper shares.

Falling prices for copper throughout the world brought selling of copper shares into the market in increased volume today.

Losses of 2 to 5 points were frequent in coppers, and the restof the market had minus signs running to around 3 points. Gains sometimes passed 2 points, but plus signs of any kind weren't too frequent.

Aircrafts were higher most of the day. Near the close they faltered and lost a great part of their early advantage. Railroads at one time moved up but were lower at the close. Some oils made and held good gains. Stocks with a hand in atomic energy applied to merchant shipping were higher without pronounced activity.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost $1.10 at $189.20. The industrial component was off $2.20, railroads were down 90 cents, utilities fell back 10 cents.

The list was composed of 1,201 individual issues of which 297 advanced and 673 declined with 95 new highs and 48 new lows for the year touched.

Boeing was at the head of the most active list with a net gain of ⅛ at 79¾. It touched a high of 81.

Easter Service Planned Friday For Store Clerks

PIEDMONT—A religious service will be held at the G. C. Murphy Company store for its employes Friday at 8:30 a. m. according to A. F. Hokamp, manager.

The Good Friday service will be conducted by Rev. Linus Robinson, pastor of St. Peter's Catholic Church, Westernport, and Rev. Robert M. Campbell, pastor of Piedmont Presbyterian Church.

This custom has been in vogue in the larger stores throughout the Murphy chain, Hokamp states, but will be something new for the Tri-Towns.

The room normally used for sales promotion classes, will be fittingly decorated in colors appropriate to the Holy Season of Easter.

Ellerslie Churches Announce Services

ELLERSLIE — There will be a community Good Friday service in the Evangelical United Brethren with Rev. Paul O'Brien, pastor of the local Methodist church as the speaker.

The Evangelical United Brethren Church announces that the Primary Department will have their Easter program, Sunday morning at 10:30. All services are open to the public. The Youth Fellowship will meet at 6:30 p. m. Sunday and there will be a worship service in the church at 7:30 p. m. Baptisms will be held again Sunday evening.

The Methodist Church will hold Easter service Sunday morning at 10 o'clock with a program by the Primary Department. Regular Sunday evening service will be held at 7:30 o'clock.

Dance Cancelled

FROSTBURG—Mrs. William R. Goebel, teen advisor, announced that there will be no dance Good Friday at Teen Town. She added that a dance will be held Easter Monday with music by the "Swing Kings." The Saturday evening dance will begin as usual.

The regular monthly meeting will be held April 9 instead of April 2 as previously announced.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Patricia J. Long, Minor, by her father and next friend, Conrad Brookley, 604 Kent Avenue, Cumberland, Maryland vs. Eldridge Long, Jr., 1515 Wilson Boulevard, Arlington, Virginia. No. 24441 Equity, in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to obtain a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII of the Plaintiff from the Defendant.

The bill states that the parties hereto were married on the 9th day of August 1952 in Alexandria Virginia and that one child, Pamela C. Long was born of the said marriage; that the defendant was addicted to the use of intoxicants and failed to provide for the support of the complainant and child; that the defendant ordered the complainant to leave the premises and return to the home of her parents in Cumberland, which she did on June 1, 1954; and that such conduct amounted to constructive desertion and that such desertion has been continuous and uninterrupted for more than eighteen months, is deliberate and final, and without reasonable hope of reconciliation; that the Plaintiff is a resident of the State of Maryland; and that the Defendant is a non-resident, his last known address being 1515 Wilson Boulevard, Arlington, Virginia.

IT IS THEREUPON, This 12th day of March, 1956, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, in equity, ordered that the Plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be published in some newspaper once in each of four (4) successive weeks, before the 13th day of April, 1956, giving notice to the absent Defendant of the object and purpose of this suit and warning him to be and appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 30th day of April, 1956, to show cause, if any he has, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Television and Radio

out an all-star cast — Jennifer Jones (on film from London), Marlon Brando (on film from Manila), Eva Marie Saint, Grace Kelly and Audrey Hepburn who handed the Oscars out with a minimum of hoopla.

But while the Oscars were handled gracefully, the commercials weren't. I don't know how much Oldsmobile paid for the hour and three-quarter telecast, but they were terribly determined to get their money's worth. The commercials went on and on and on to such a degree that Jerry Lewis came on after one particularly tedious one to say: "And now a few words about the Academy Awards."

As for the Emmys, I have viewed this award with a deep-seated distrust ever since it was started. The first Emmys were strictly a Hollywood party, and, since at the time about 80 per cent of network TV came from the East, this was strictly ridiculous. Programs that had never been seen outside Los Angeles got Emmys.

This year a special effort was made to divide the loot up evenly between East and West coast, but this only resulted in there being entirely too much loot. There were 41 Emmy categories including best specialized visual contribution, best engineering technical achievement, best commercial campaign, and heaven knows what else. It has always seemed to me the whole idea of awards is lost if you start handing them out by the bushel basket. There are many worthy folk in obscure branches of television, but you don't have to give them all awards. Next thing you know they'll be giving an Emmy for best inter-office memo.

As a result of this profligacy, some people like Phil Silvers and Nanette Fabray wound up with an armload of awards between them. Mary Martin, best actress, and Lloyd Nolan, best actor, won awards for what were essentially Broadway performances that had simply been repeated for television.

However, TV, which acquitted itself badly in the award presentation department for its own medium, did pretty well in the other one. Best actor award went to Ernest Borgnine who came out of television, and best movie went to "Marty" which was originally a TV drama. "Marty," in fact, has now won most of the top honors, both here and abroad and, next time you hear that television has produced nothing but mediocrity, you might just drop that fact into the conversation.

Stock Market Depressed By Weakness In Coppers

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP)—The stock market was pressed down today by weakness in the copper shares.

Falling prices for copper throughout the world brought selling of copper shares into the market in increased volume today.

Losses of 2 to 5 points were frequent in coppers, and the restof the market had minus signs running to around 3 points. Gains sometimes passed 2 points, but plus signs of any kind weren't too frequent.

Aircrafts were higher most of the day. Near the close they faltered and lost a great part of their early advantage. Railroads at one time moved up but were lower at the close. Some oils made and held good gains. Stocks with a hand in atomic energy applied to merchant shipping were higher without pronounced activity.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost $1.10 at $189.20. The industrial component was off $2.20, railroads were down 90 cents, utilities fell back 10 cents.

The list was composed of 1,201 individual issues of which 297 advanced and 673 declined with 95 new highs and 48 new lows for the year touched.

Boeing was at the head of the most active list with a net gain of ⅛ at 79¾. It touched a high of 81.

Television and Radio

out an all-star cast — Jennifer Jones (on film from London), Marlon Brando (on film from Manila), Eva Marie Saint, Grace Kelly and Audrey Hepburn who handed the Oscars out with a minimum of hoopla.

But while the Oscars were handled gracefully, the commercials weren't. I don't know how much Oldsmobile paid for the hour and three-quarter telecast, but they were terribly determined to get their money's worth. The commercials went on and on and on to such a degree that Jerry Lewis came on after one particularly tedious one to say: "And now a few words about the Academy Awards."

As for the Emmys, I have viewed this award with a deep-seated distrust ever since it was started. The first Emmys were strictly a Hollywood party, and since at the time about 80 per cent of network TV came from the East, this was strictly ridiculous. Programs that had never been seen outside Los Angeles got Emmys.

This year a special effort was made to divide the loot up evenly between East and West coast, but this only resulted in there being entirely too much loot. There were 41 Emmy categories including best specialized visual contribution, best engineering technical achievement, best commercial campaign, and heaven knows what else. It has always seemed to me the whole idea of awards is lost if you start handing them out by the bushel basket. There are many worthy folk in obscure branches of television, but you don't have to give them all awards. Next thing you know they'll be giving an Emmy for best inter-office memo.

As a result of this profligacy, some people like Phil Silvers and Nanette Fabray wound up with an armload of awards between them. Mary Martin, best actress, and Lloyd Nolan, best actor, won awards for what were essentially Broadway performances that had simply been repeated for television.

However, TV, which acquitted itself badly in the award presentation department for its own medium, did pretty well in the other one. Best actor award went to Ernest Borgnine who came out of television, and best movie went to "Marty" which was originally a TV drama. "Marty," in fact, has now won most of the top honors, both here and abroad and, next time you hear that television has produced nothing but mediocrity, you might just drop that fact into the conversation.

Water Supply Meets State Requirements

Certification Based On 599 Tests In 1955

William J. Edwards, commissioner of water and electric light, was notified yesterday that the Cumberland water supply meets the requirements of the Maryland State Department of Health.

The certification was made by George L. Hall, director of the Division of Sanitary Engineering of the State Health Department, on the basis of periodic bacteriological tests.

Hall said a tabulation of the bacteriological examinations of water samples collected during 1955 show 599 samples were collected and examined.

Gets Good Score

Tests, he said, show that three per cent of the 10 milliliter portions were positive, and that samples with three or more of five milliliter samples positive totaled 17, or 2.8 per cent.

The Public Health Service drinking water standards, he said, require that in bacteriological examination, not more than 10 per cent of the 10 milliliter samples may be positive for coliform bacteria, but this shall not occur more than five per cent of the time, and not more than once when less than 20 samples are examined.

The coliform group of bacteria includes organisms found in the intestinal tracts of warm blooded animals, including man, and indicate the presence of bacteria which can cause disease in humans.

Has Perfect Score

Perfect results were reported by Hall in the 18 samples of city water taken from lines in Bowling Green during the past year.

Commissioner Edwards said the Water Department made a careful investigation each time a sample turned up positive, and then flushed the lines at that point thoroughly.

All lines, he said, are in fine shape.

The City of Cumberland and its industrial and community customers used some 4½ billion gallons of water during 1955.

Hardly Spilled A Drop

Through this big valve being tapped into the 36-inch transmission line at the Fort Hill Reservoir, water will soon surge through the North Branch water line to supply the $34,000,000 Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant, slated to go into production in July. The crew chief is signaling a crane operator to position the cutting mechanism which made the wet tap without cutting off the big transmission line. Heart of the equipment is the hollow cutter, on which his hand is resting, which, inserted through a watertight bonnet and the opened valve, cut an 18-inch circle through the transmission line. After the hole was cut yesterday, the cutter was withdrawn and the valve closed until it is needed. The tap was made without interfering with operation of the main.

Choir To Sing Cantata Tonight

The choir of Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church, Nort Mechanic Street, will present its annual Lenten cantata tonight at 7:30 in the church sanctuary.

The choir of 15 voices will sing "My Redeemer Liveth," a new cantata based on themes from Handel and Mozart. Many familiar anthems, some with new lyrics, are included. Among them are selections from Handel's "The Messiah," "Rinaldo," "Semele," "Israel in Egypt," "Xerxes," and "Judas Maccabaeus," and Mozart's "Twelfth Mass," "The Magic Flute," and "Exultate, Jubilate."

Soloists will be Helen Mae Kreiling, Georgia Russell, Evelyn Schadt, Charles Robinette and Allan Emerick. An octet, including the five soloists and Virginia Diehl, Don Diehl and Jerry Robinette, also will sing.

Other members of the choir are Margaret Brookman, Katherine Forster, Loretta Petenbrink, Frances Dick, Doris Mae Dick, Edna Baker, Mary Jeanne Knieriem. Mrs. A. C. Emerick is organist and Rev. Raymond A. Faulds, pastor, is director.

Repeating Rifle Had First Army Trial Near Cumberland

The Spencer repeater, placed in the hands of Union soldiers late in the Civil War, was first used by the Army near Cumberland, according to an article in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post.

The modern-type weapon was fired by Sgt. Francis O. Lombard, 1st Massachusetts Cavalry, in a skirmish near the Queen City on October 16, 1862, the first recorded use by the Army, according to an article, "Abe and His 'Secret' Weapon," by J. O. Buckeridge and Ashley Halsey Jr.

The sergeant reported the weapon worked perfectly.

The authors tell of the struggle of the Yankee inventor, Christopher Spencer, to get his repeater adopted by the Army to replace the muzzle loading rifle with the repeater capable of firing up to 21 rounds a minute.

Bible Class Federation To Meet Here

The 27th annual convention of the Maryland Federation of Men's Bible Classes will be held in Kingsley Methodist Church here Saturday, May 5.

Some 150 delegates from Men's Bible Classes throughout Maryland are expected to attend the one-day convention, according to J. Walter McKee, Western Maryland vice president and chairman on arrangements.

Austin Renn, Adamstown, state president, will preside at the sessions, the first held here since 1949, when the conclave was held in Grace Methodist Church.

The convention will open at 11 a. m. with an executive session.

Forum Is Planned

Mayor Roy W. Eves will welcome the delegates at the afternoon business session at 2 p. m.

Dr. Edgar C. Powers, Timonium, head of the Maryland Bible Society, will be the principal speaker at the afternoon session. His topic will be "The Bible in a changing world."

Bible Class problems will be discussed at a forum which follows the address. Among those taking part will be the president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Men's Bible Classes.

A. Florian Wilson will be song leader for the convention.

Rev. Grove To Speak

A banquet, served by women of the church, will be held in the evening. Rev. Kenneth W. Grove, pastor of Emmanuel Methodist Church, will speak on "The Christian Gospel, the light for modern times."

Myron Berkley, 411 Pulaski Street, will be registration chairman. All men's Bible classes of the area are being urged to send delegates.

The Federation, whose motto is "Serving to get men to serve," takes an active interest in civic problems, including juvenile delinquency. It has been influential, McKee said, in the fight to suppress filthy comic books and the dope racket among youths, and has promoted legislation governing the advertising of liquor in the homes by way of radio and television.

Corriganville Boys' Club Reorganizing

A movement is under way in Corriganville to reorganize the Corriganville Boys Club which disbanded a couple of years ago. A meeting was held at the home of George Bowers Sunday and a public session is scheduled for tonight at 7:30 o'clock at Corriganville Fire Hall.

According to Bowers, an effort will be made to fill the vacant berth in the Boys' County Softball League, by fielding a Corriganville team. Gerald "Boots" Raygor has been named chairman of this activity.

Other programs and activities of the club will be supervised by Carl Grabowski, Donald Woodrum and George Bowers.

The meeting tonight is open to all boys of all ages and their parents, Bowers said.

Two Contracts To Be Let This Spring

Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde yesterday asked a House Appropriations subcommittee to allot $3,400,000 needed to complete major features of the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection program.

The allotment asked was contained in President Eisenhower's budget for the year starting July 1, on the basis of recommendations by the Corps of Engineers.

The $18,000,000 project has been pushed past the halfway mark, and contracts to be let this year will complete the Wills Creek phase of the program.

Work Is Underway

Part of the funds will be needed to finance the completion of two contracts. They are the $817,480 contract on the Potomac River, which is 57 per cent complete, and the $2,077,869 contract for Wills Creek Channel Sections II and III, which is 3.75 per cent complete.

Both of the contracts were awarded to the E. J. Albrecht Company, Chicago.

The river contract is scheduled to be completed by March 1, 1957, and the Wills Creek contract, which includes the Viaduct Pumping Station, by November 10, 1957, according to Rex E. Dexter, resident engineer for the Corps of Engineers, who added both jobs are moving on schedule.

Will Open Bids

Bids will be opened April 12 by the Corps of Engineers for Section IV of the Wills Creek work. Cost of the work will range between $1,000,000 and $3,000,000, and the job will complete the creek channel improvement and replace the city and Western Maryland Railway bridges at Baltimore Street.

To be advertised next month is a contract for the construction of the Mill Race and Ridgeley pumping stations, the last needed for the project.

In addition to these, one or more contracts will be let to complete work on the Norfth Branch of the Potomac here, and to make certain changes in Western Maryland Railway properties.

Nearly eight million has been spent on the project on the North Branch of the Potomac River.

"The advancement of this project," Hyde said in a statement for the committee, "has been responsible for new industry in the area, such as the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., and will be responsible to a great extent for taking the area out of the distress category."

The flood control project, started in 1949, will be about 52 per cent complete by June 30, Army Engineers have estimated.

Scout Leaders To Attend Training Course April 21

Potomac Council Boy Scouts of America is preparing to send a delegation of scouters to the Region 3 Training Institute at Slippery Rock State Teachers College on Saturday, April 21.

J. C. Warden, president of the local council, said the trainnig courses are planned for at least six scouters from each district of the council plus all council committeemen, chairmen and professional staff members.

The training institute is scheduled each successive Saturday for three weeks beginning April 14 for the 52 councils in the region. There will be 18 councils in attendance from the northwest and southwest areas of the region on April 21.

Potomac Council, which is a part of the southwest area, had four members attend last year's session at which there were 375 scouters from the 18 councils present. Warden expressed the hope that the local council's membership attendance would be much greater this year.

Courses will be instituted for camping, organization and extension, and leadership training chairmen in the council as well as district chairmen, he said.

The various courses will be directed by members of the National Boy Scouts of America staff and reservations may be made through the Potomac Council office in the County Building on Union Street.

Registration of members at the Pennsylvania college will be held at 9:30 a. m. and the training courses will be held from 10 a. m. until 8 p. m.

Training sessions for councils in the northeast, southeast, southern and central areas will be held at West Chester, Pa., and Fort Belvoir, Va.

Boden's Office Gets Foreign Flavor Again

The foreign flavor was felt in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court, yesterday for the second time in three working days as a soldier from Johnstown, Pa., got a license to marry a Hawaiian woman of Japanese extraction.

Sgt. 1/C Kenneth Neil Bracken, 810 Napoleon Street, Johnstown, who is stationed at Fort Lee, Va., obtained a license to wed Fusae Grace Kuwahara, 203 California Avenue, Wahiawa, Hawaii. Sgt. Bracken remarked that both his mother and grandmother were married in Cumberland.

Kelly Workers Donate $1,600 To Red Cross

Employes of the Kelly Springfield Tire Company, through their welfare fund committee, yesterday notified the Allegany County Chapter American Red Cross that $1,600 had been allocated for the current Red Cross fund drive.

The Kelly is one of several local industries and business firms which conducts, by cooperation between labor and management, one fund raising campaign a year. Then the money raised is apportioned to the various charitable and service agencies dependent upon volunteer contributions.

The Kelly fund committee requested that the fund be alloted or credited to the several branches in the county, based upon the percentage of contributing employes from these several communities. Percentages of employment from each branch were submitted to the Red Cross for calculating the breakdown.

According to Mrs. Lee Witherup, executive secretary of the Red Cross, the allocation figures $974 credited to the Cumberland quota, $298 to Frostburg, $34 to Eckhart, $118 to Mt. Savage, Corriganville and Barrellville, $68 to Ridgeley, $34 to Barton, $50 to Midland, $100 to Lonaconing and $34 to Westernport.

Chauncey Sanner, general chairman of the 1956 Red Cross campaign, said he and the campaign committee are grateful for the contribution from the Kelly workers, and declared it represents a vote of considerable confidence in the work the Red Cross is doing, and also serves to help encourage all those working on the campaign. The local share of the contribution will be credited to the Classified section of which John Geare is chairman, and the other allotments will be credited to the various branches as requested, he noted.

Initial plans were made at a meeting last night at the home of Mrs. Milton Granet, LaVale. Another meeting will be held Tuesday, April 10, at the home of Mrs. Betty Windemuth, Winchester Road.

Firemen, Foresters Check Blazes

Local and volunteer firemen and forestry department workers checked three separate brush and grass fires which occurred yesterday afternoon and last evening.

South End firemen went into action yesterday at 7:20 p. m. when dry grass, weeds and tree branches caught fire along the B&O tracks at the Evitts Creek pump house.

Local firemen used brooms to check the blaze and were on the scene about 46 minutes.

About half an acre of ground on the Oliver Hergott property at the lower edge of Corriganville was scorched by flames during the afternoon. Volunteer firemen of that community were on the scene about half an hour.

They received a call about 3:05 p. m. A spokesman for the fire company said last night that Hergott was burning some papers in a can and sparks from the fire caught the dry grass and brush ablaze.

The flames ate their way within 50 feet of his home. Firemen used Indian Pump tanks to quench the blaze. Five volunteers reported to the fire with the company's engine.

A section of Haystack Mountain caught fire yesterday afternoon and scorched about half an acre before forestry department workers got it under control.

The blaze occurred about 2:30 p. m., according to a spokesman, who said the fire was under control about 4 p. m. Heavy smoke billowed from the burning area.

County Livestock Demonstration Set

A livestock management demonstration will be conducted on the Bradye Dolly farm on Murley's Branch, two miles from Flintstone, starting at 1 p.m. Saturday, April 7, according to County Agent Joseph M. Steger.

Boyd Whittle, livestock specialist at the University of Maryland, will conduct the demonstration. Many farmers in the county have requested this type of demonstration.

County Soils Above State Average In Alkalinity Testing Program

Some 55.5 per cent of Maryland soils tested last year by the Soil Testing Laboratory at the University of Maryland had a pH test below 6.0 and therefore need additional liming, according to a report received here by County Agent Joseph M. Steger.

Frank L. Bentz, extension soil specialist at College Park, has furnished Steger with a report on the results of the tests of 12,554 samples checked in 1955.

Allegany County soil generally was higher than the state average in pH values, which measure the alkaline content of the soil. In this county 54 per cent of the soils tested below 6.0.

In the lowest group, 5.0 and below, 16 per cent of the Allegany County soils were listed compared with a state average of 12.9 per cent. Seventeen per cent of Allegany County's soils ranged between 5.1 and 5.5 compared with a state average of 18 per cent.

Other Allegany County totals were 21 per cent, 5.6 to 6.0; 23 per cent, 6.1 to 6.5; 16 per cent, 6.6 to 7.0, and seven per cent, 7.1 and above.

Washington County had the lowest average belowe 6.0 and the highest (13 per cent) in the 7.1 and above class. Only 30 per cent of Washington County's tested soils were below 6.0.

Frederick County, generally credited with the best farming land in Maryland, had 33 per cent below 6.0, including only two per cent in the 5.0 and below group.

Garrett County soils showed a much greater need for lime than Allegany County as 71 per cent rate below 6.0. Included were 24 per cent 5.0 and below, 23 per cent 5.1 to 5.5 and 24 per cent 5.6 to 6.0.

Various crops require different pH ranges. For instance, alfalfa and sweet clover need the most alkaline soil, 6.5 to 7.5. At the other extreme are tobacco, watermelon and sweet and white potatoes, which need only 5.0 to 5.6.

Stewarts Held On $5,000 Bond In Assault Case

Local Cab Driver Attacked March 20

A 60-year-old Flintstone area man and his 25-year-old son are being held on $5,000 bond each on three charges stemming from an assault on a Cumberland taxi cab driver March 20.

Harry Stewart of Murley's Branch Road, and his son, Harry Stewart Jr., Maryland Avenue, were charged with robbery, assault with intent to rob, and assault, at a preliminary hearing yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court.

Magistrate J. Milton Dick set bond at $5,000 apiece after the defendants waived the preliminary hearing. They are being held in Allegany County Jail for action of the grand jury at the April term of Circuit Court.

County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya said the father and son allegedly attacked Harry William Davis, about 30, of Jane Frazier Village, after the latter had picked up the two men as fares at a local bar last Tuesday.

Davis told authorities he drove the pair toward Flintstone when the younger man jumped into the front seat of the cab as it descended Martins Mountain. The younger Stewart stuck his hand in his pocket, pretended to have a weapon and threatened the cab driver, Davis said.

When Davis resisted, Lilya stated, young Stewart took a drinking glass from his pocket and hit Davis in the face while the father grabbed him from behind. During the scuffle Davis'wrist watch was taken from his arm.

Residents in the area, hearing the scuffle in the cab, investigated and the Stewarts fled, Lilya said.

The son was picked up later that night in a stolen automobile by Trooper J. F. Lewis and was charged also with operating a motor vehicle on a revoked license. He was fined $100 yesterday by Magistrate Dick on the motor charge.

The elder Stewart then was arrested at his home the following day by Lewis.

Edward J. Ryan, attorney for the defendants, said he would seek immediate trial.

$52,000 Suit For Injuries Moved Here

Transferred From Washington County

A suit seeking $52,000 damages for injuries to a girl who was struck along U. S. Route 11 four miles north of Martinsburg, W. Va., has been removed to Allegany County Circuit Court from Washington County.

Darlene Marshall, infant, by Gordon Marshall, her father and next friend, and Marshall individually brought suit in Hagerstown against Chester Garfield Holmes, 408 West Washington Street, Hagerstown.

The girl seeks $50,000 damages for the injuries which it is contended will cause her to bear facial and body scars and be a permanent cripple for the rest of her natural life. Her father asks an additional $2,000 for the hospital and medical expenses he incurred.

This suit joins another for $10,000 which Marshall filed as executor of the estate of Lillian May Marshall, against Holmes. Mrs. Marshall was killed in the accident last May 30 which caused injury to her daughter as they were walking along U. S. Route 11. This case was brought here March 6.

Both cases were filed in Washington County Circuit Court and have been moved here on orders signed by Associate Judge D. K. McLaughlin after the parties raised a question as to whether a fair trial could be had in Hagerstown.

71 Registered At Court House In Recent Days

While some representatives of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors have started on a tour of the county to sign up prospective new voters for the May 7 primary election, other citizens have been coming to the board's office in the Court House basement each day to register.

In the past seven working days, since the registration tour started, 71 have registered at the board's office. The biggest one-day effort was March 20 when 16 registered and the low has been seven, recorded on several occasions.

Republicans have gained a slight advantage in the recent registration at the Court House for 38, or 53.5 per cent of the 71, have signed with the GOP while the Democrats have claimed 33.

Registration will continue each day until April 7 at the Court House with exception of this coming Friday, Good Friday, which is a legal holiday. The weekday hours are 9 a. m. until 4 p. m. and on Saturdays from 9 a. m. until noon. Those who will have reached their 21st birthday and will have lived in Maryland one year before November 6 may register now and vote in the May 7 primary.

Today the touring registrars will visit Cresaptown School, where they will sit for registration from 1 until 4 p. m. and again from 6 until 9 p. m. Tomorrow they will be at the Ellerslie Community Building from 1 until 4 p. m. and at the Corriganville Fire Hall from 6 until 9 p. m.

The Democrats had a field day yesterday in Eckhart when prospective voters were being registered at the schoolhouse.

John J. Zapf, substitute Democrat registrar, said a total of eight persons were registered, including seven Democrats and one Republican.

Today Zapf will be at Cresaptown School from 1 p. m. to 4 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 9 p. m.

Rockwell Appeals Assault Sentence

Charles E. Rockwell, 56-year-old unemployed father, who was sentenced to a year in the Maryland House of Correction for assaulting his wife, yesterday appealed the sentence.

Magistrate Donald W. Mason, who tried the Flintstone area man on Saturday, said bond was set at $1,000 on the appeal and Rockwell was remanded to Allegany County Jail pending his appeal hearing in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Rockwell was arrested Friday night after assaulting his wife, Mrs. Ruth Rockwell, who was taken to Memorial Hospital for treatment. Trooper First Class Donald R. Wade and Trooper Joseph V. Stakem of the Maryland State Police then spent four hours seeking shelter for the couple's four young children before they were taken in by Capt. Daniel K. Biggs of the Salvation Army at his home.

Butler Declares GOP Has Helped Small Business

Cites Declines Under Democrats

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sen. Butler (R-Md) said today that, contrary to Democratic charges, the record shows that small business men have received "a greater appreciation and understanding of their problems" under the Eisenhower administration.

Butler made the statement in his weekly newsletter as he continued his campaign for renomination by the Republicans.

The newsletter was released as George P. Mahoney and Millard E. Tydings, chief Democratic contenders for the Senate nomination, beat the county bushes for votes.

Mahoney toured Prince Georges County, whose Democratic committee last week endorsed Tydings.

Tydings took his "shoe-leather" campaign into Talbot County.

Mahoney Gets Support

In Baltimore, Mahoney headquarters announced support from the 4th District United Democratic Organization, a group which is aligned against the forces of James H. (Jack) Pollack. The Pollack organization, traditionally one of the strongest in the city, came out for Tydings last week.

William Greenfeld, lawyer who heads the pro-Mahoney faction, was joined in the endorsement by Lloyd Randolph, active Negro political figure, George Kirschbaum, Melvin A. Callaman, Florence Brown, Shirley Zimmerman, Edward Greenstein and Joseph M. Dyser.

"The people of the 4th District want a senator who is acquainted with their problems and who is approachable by his constituents," said the Greenfeld organization.

"They are tired of being forced to deal with elected officials through an intermediary. They want a candidate who will be responsible to the people directly, rather than through 'Boss' Pollack."

Ike Critics "Desperate"

Butler said critics of the Eisenhower program "seek with growing desperation a national issue with which to attract public fancy." In defending the Administration's treatment of small business, he added:

"In the declining years of the New-Fair Deal (1947-1952) earnings before taxes for small business decreased 26.7 per cent, while big business' earnings increased 57.9 per cent.

"In that same period, small business' earnings after taxes dropped 40.1 per cent, but big business' earnings after taxes gained by 17 per cent."

Victim Of Burns Termed Critical

A local woman is reported in critical condition at Memorial Hospital with burns sustained yesterday morning in an accident at the home of her mother in Springfield, W. Va.

She is Mrs. Madeline Martin, 32, wife of Nelson Martin, of 324 Estella Street. The hospital said the victim suffered burns over her entire body.

The accident happened when an oil stove exploded while Mrs. Pearl Lantz, mother of the victim, was preparing lunch. She was treated for arm burns but was not admitted to the hospital.

According to Mrs. Martin's husband, who took the victims to the local hospital in his car, Mrs. Lantz was preparing lunch when the explosion occurred.

Mrs. Martin was walking through the room and flames ignited her dress, burning off all her clothing.

Paul Miller and Estelle H. Miller have sold property on East Union Street, Frostburg, to Harold M. Lancaster and Anne E. Lancaster.

Water Supply Meets State Requirements

Certification Based On 599 Tests In 1955

William J. Edwards, commissioner of water and electric light, was notified yesterday that the Cumberland water supply meets the requirements of the Maryland State Department of Health.

The certification was made by George L. Hall, director of the Division of Sanitary Engineering of the State Health Department, on the basis of periodic bacteriological tests.

Hall said a tabulation of the bacteriological examinations of water samples collected during 1955 show 599 samples were collected and examined.

Gets Good Score

Tests, he said, show that three per cent of the 10 milliliter portions were positive, and that samples with three or more of five milliliter samples positive totaled 17, or 2.8 per cent.

The Public Health Service drinking water standards, he said, require that in bacteriological examination, not more than 10 per cent of the 10 milliliter samples may be positive for coliform bacteria, but this shall not occur more than five per cent of the time, and not more than once when less than 20 samples are examined.

The coliform group of bacteria includes organisms found in the intestinal tracts of warm blooded animals, including man, and indicate the presence of bacteria which can cause disease in humans.

Has Perfect Score

Perfect results were reported by Hall in the 18 samples of city water taken from lines in Bowling Green during the past year.

Commissioner Edwards said the Water Department made a careful investigation each time a sample turned up positive, and then flushed the lines at that point thoroughly.

All lines, he said, are in fine shape.

Repeating Rifle Had First Army Trial Near Cumberland

The Spencer repeater, placed in the hands of Union soldiers late in the Civil War, was first used by the Army near Cumberland, according to an article in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post.

The modern-type weapon was fired by Sgt. Francis O. Lombard, 1st Massachusetts Cavalry, in a skirmish near the Queen City on October 16, 1862, the first recorded use by the Army, according to an article, "Abe and His 'Secret' Weapon," by J. O. Buckeridge and Ashley Halsey Jr.

The sergeant reported the weapon worked perfectly.

The authors tell of the struggle of the Yankee inventor, Christopher Spencer, to get his repeater adopted by the Army to replace the muzzle loading rifle with the repeater capable of firing up to 21 rounds a minute.

Hardly Spilled A Drop

Through this big valve being tapped into the 36-inch transmission line at the Fort Hill Reservoir, water will soon surge through the North Branch water line to supply the $34,000,000 Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant, slated to go into production in July. The crew chief is signaling a crane operator to position the cutting mechanism which made the wet tap without cutting off the big transmission line. Heart of the equipment is the hollow cutter, on which his hand is resting, which, inserted through a watertight bonnet and the opened valve, cut an 18-inch circle through the transmission line. After the hole was cut yesterday, the cutter was withdrawn and the valve closed until it is needed. The tap was made without interfering with operation of the main.

Rep. Hyde Asks Funds To Push Flood Control

Two Contracts To Be Let This Spring

Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde yesterday asked a House Appropriations subcommittee to allot $3,400,000 needed to complete major features of the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection program.

The allotment asked was contained in President Eisenhower's budget for the year starting July 1, on the basis of recommendations by the Corps of Engineers.

The $18,000,000 project has been pushed past the halfway mark, and contracts to be let this year will complete the Wills Creek phase of the program.

Work Is Underway

Part of the funds will be needed to finance the completion of two contracts. They are the $817,480 contract on the Potomac River, which is 57 per cent complete, and the $2,077,869 contract for Wills Creek Channel Sections II and III, which is 3.75 per cent complete.

Both of the contracts were awarded to the E. J. Albrecht Company, Chicago.

The river contract is scheduled to be completed by March 1, 1957, and the Wills Creek contract, which includes the Viaduct Pumping Station, by November 10, 1957, according to Rex E. Dexter, resident engineer for the Corps of Engineers, who added both jobs are moving on schedule.

Will Open Bids

Bids will be opened April 12 by the Corps of Engineers for Section IV of the Wills Creek work. Cost of the work will range between $1,000,000 and $3,000,000, and the job will complete the creek channel improvement and replace the city and Western Maryland Railway bridges at Baltimore Street.

To be advertised next month is a contract for the construction of the Mill Race and Ridgeley pumping stations, the last needed for the project.

In addition to these, one or more contracts will be let to complete work on the Norfth Branch of the Potomac here, and to make certain changes in Western Maryland Railway properties.

Nearly eight million has been spent on the project on the North Branch of the Potomac River.

"The advancement of this project," Hyde said in a statement for the committee, "has been responsible for new industry in the area, such as the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., and will be responsible to a great extent for taking the area out of the distress category."

The flood control project, started in 1949, will be about 52 per cent complete by June 30, Army Engineers have estimated.

Kelly Workers Donate $1,600 To Red Cross

Employes of the Kelly Springfield Tire Company, through their welfare fund committee, yesterday notified the Allegany County Chapter American Red Cross that $1,600 had been allocated for the current Red Cross fund drive.

The Kelly is one of several local industries and business firms which conducts, by cooperation between labor and management, one fund raising campaign a year. Then the money raised is apportioned to the various charitable and service agencies dependent upon volunteer contributions.

The Kelly fund committee requested that the fund be alloted or credited to the several branches in the county, based upon the per centage of contributing employes from these several communities. Percentages of employment from each branch were submitted to the Red Cross for calculating the breakdown.

According to Mrs. Lee Witherup, executive secretary of the Red Cross, the allocation figures $974 credited to the Cumberland quota, $298 to Frostburg, $34 to Eckhart, $118 to Mt. Savage, Corriganville and Barrellville, $68 to Ridgeley, $34 to Barton, $50 to Midland, $100 to Lonaconing and $34 to Westernport.

Chauncey Sanner, general chairman of the 1956 Red Cross campaign, said he and the campaign committee are grateful for the contribution from the Kelly workers, and declared it represents a vote of considerable confidence in the work the Red Cross is doing, and also serves to help encourage all those working on the campaign. Stewarts Held On $5,000 Bond In Assault Case

A 60-year-old Flintstone area man and his 25-year-old son are being held on $5,000 bond each on three charges stemming from an assault on a Cumberland taxi cab driver March 20.

Harry Stewart of Murley's Branch Road, and his son, Harry Stewart Jr., Maryland Avenue, were charged with robbery, assault with intent to rob, and assault, at a preliminary hearing yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court.

Magistrate J. Milton Dick set bond at $5,000 apiece after the defendants waived the preliminary hearing. They are being held in Allegany County Jail for action of the grand jury at the April term of Circuit Court.

County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya said the father and son allegedly attacked Harry William Davis, about 30, of Jane Frazier Village, after the latter had picked up the two men as fares at a local bar last Tuesday.

Davis told authorities he drove the pair toward Flintstone when the younger man jumped into the front seat of the cab as it descended Martins Mountain. The younger Stewart stuck his hand in his pocket, pretended to have a weapon and threatened the cab driver, Davis said.

When Davis resisted, Lilya stated, young Stewart took a drinking glass from his pocket and hit Davis in the face while the father grabbed him from behind. During the scuffle Davis'wrist watch was taken from his arm.

Residents in the area, hearing the scuffle in the cab, investigated and the Stewarts fled, Lilya said.

The son was picked up later that night in a stolen automobile by Trooper J. F. Lewis and was charged also with operating a motor vehicle on a revoked license. He was fined $100 yesterday by Magistrate Dick on the motor charge.

The elder Stewart then was arrested at his home the following day by Lewis.

Firemen, Foresters Check Blazes

Local and volunteer firemen and forestry department workers checked three separate brush and grass fires which occurred yesterday afternoon and last evening.

South End firemen went into action yesterday at 7:20 p. m. when dry grass, weeds and tree branches caught fire along the B&O tracks at the Evitts Creek pump house.

Local firemen used brooms to check the blaze and were on the scene about 46 minutes.

About half an acre of ground on the Oliver Hergott property at the lower edge of Corriganville was scorched by flames during the afternoon. Volunteer firemen of that community were on the scene about half an hour.

They received a call about 3:05 p. m. A spokesman for the fire company said last night that Hergott was burning some papers in a can and sparks from the fire caught the dry grass and brush ablaze.

The flames ate their way within 50 feet of his home. Firemen used Indian Pump tanks to quench the blaze. Five volunteers reported to the fire with the company's engine.

A section of Haystack Mountain caught fire yesterday afternoon and scorched about half an acre before forestry department workers got it under control.

The blaze occurred about 2:30 p. m., according to a spokesman, who said the fire was under control about 4 p. m. Heavy smoke billowed from the burning area.

Darlene Marshall, infant, by Gordon Marshall, her father and next friend, and Marshall individually brought suit in Hagerstown against Chester Garfield Holmes, 408 West Washington Street, Hagerstown.

The girl seeks $50,000 damages for the injuries which it is contended will cause her to bear facial and body scars and be a permanent cripple for the rest of her natural life. Her father asks an additional $2,000 for the hospital and medical expenses he incurred.

This suit joins another for $10,000 which Marshall filed as executor of the estate of Lillian May Marshall, against Holmes. Mrs. Marshall was killed in the accident last May 30 which caused injury to her daughter as they were walking along U. S. Route 11. This case was brought here March 6.

Both cases were filed in Washington County Circuit Court and have been moved here on orders signed by Associate Judge D. K. McLaughlin after the parties raised a question as to whether a fair trial could be had in Hagerstown.

Butler Declares GOP Has Helped Small Business

Cites Declines Under Democrats

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sen. Butler (R-Md) said today that, contrary to Democratic charges, the record shows that small business men have received "a greater appreciation and understanding of their problems" under the Eisenhower administration.

Butler made the statement in his weekly newsletter as he continued his campaign for renomination by the Republicans.

The newsletter was released as George P. Mahoney and Millard E. Tydings, chief Democratic contenders for the Senate nomination, beat the county bushes for votes.

Mahoney toured Prince Georges County, whose Democratic committee last week endorsed Tydings.

Tydings took his "shoe-leather" campaign into Talbot County.

Mahoney Gets Support

In Baltimore, Mahoney headquarters announced support from the 4th District United Democratic Organization, a group which is aligned against the forces of James H. (Jack) Pollack. The Pollack organization, traditionally one of the strongest in the city, came out for Tydings last week.

William Greenfeld, lawyer who heads the pro-Mahoney faction, was joined in the endorsement by Lloyd Randolph, active Negro political figure, George Kirschbaum, Melvin A. Callaman, Florence Brown, Shirley Zimmerman, Edward Greenstein and Joseph M. Dyser.

"The people of the 4th District want a senator who is acquainted with their problems and who is approachable by his constituents," said the Greenfeld organization.

"They are tired of being forced to deal with elected officials through an intermediary. They want a candidate who will be responsible to the people directly, rather than through 'Boss' Pollack."

Ike Critics "Desperate"

Butler said critics of the Eisenhower program "seek with growing desperation a national issue with which to attract public fancy." In defending the Administration's treatment of small business, he added:

"In the declining years of the New-Fair Deal (1947-1952) earnings before taxes for small business decreased 26.7 per cent, while big business' earnings increased 57.9 per cent.

"In that same period, small business' earnings after taxes dropped 40.1 per cent, but big business' earnings after taxes gained by 17 per cent."

The accident happened when an oil stove exploded while Mrs. Pearl Lantz, mother of the victim, was preparing lunch. She was treated for arm burns but was not admitted to the hospital.

County Soils Above State Average In Alkalinity Testing Program

Some 55.5 per cent of Maryland soils tested last year by the Soil Testing Laboratory at the University of Maryland had a pH test below 6.0 and therefore need additional liming, according to a report received here by County Agent Joseph M. Steger.

Frank L. Bentz, extension soil specialist at College Park, has furnished Steger with a report on the results of the tests of 12,554 samples checked in 1955.

Allegany County soil generally was higher than the state average in pH values, which measure the alkaline content of the soil. In this county 54 per cent of the soils tested below 6.0.

In the lowest group, 5.0 and below, 16 per cent of the Allegany County soils were listed compared with a state average of 12.9 per cent. Seventeen per cent of Allegany County's soils ranged between 5.1 and 5.5 compared with a state average of 18 per cent.

Other Allegany County totals were 21 per cent, 5.6 to 6.0; 23 per cent, 6.1 to 6.5; 16 per cent, 6.6 to 7.0, and seven per cent, 7.1 and above.

Washington County had the lowest average belowe 6.0 and the highest (13 per cent) in the 7.1 and above class. Only 30 per cent of Washington County's tested soils were below 6.0.

Frederick County, generally credited with the best farming land in Maryland, had 33 per cent below 6.0, including only two per cent in the 5.0 and below group.

Garrett County soils showed a much greater need for lime than Allegany County as 71 per cent rate below 6.0. Included were 24 per cent 5.0 and below, 23 per cent 5.1 to 5.5 and 24 per cent 5.6 to 6.0.

Various crops require different pH ranges. For instance, alfalfa and sweet clover need the most alkaline soil, 6.5 to 7.5. At the other extreme are tobacco, watermelon and sweet and white potatoes, which need only 5.0 to 5.6.
